Meeting About Black Bears Set For January 9

The Department of Natural Resources (DNR) will hold the first of several informational meetings on black bears in Maryland on Tuesday, January 9, at Garrett County Community College, McHenry, at 7

The purpose of the meetings will be to determine alternatives for the control of problems caused by Maryland's expanding bear population. The increasing black bear population has raised concerns by the agricultural community, beekeepers, and residents who have to contend with nusiance

"We also want to explain some of the myths associated with black bears," said Gary Taylor, director of wildlife for DNR's Forest, Park and Wildlife Service. "Black bears are neat animals to have in the wilds of Maryland," said Taylor, "and ones we want to keep for future generations, but the problems associated with the animals need to be addressed. We have had increasing complaints of damage to corn and small grain crops as well as complaints from residents who 'fear' the presence of bears and consider them nuisance animals."

The meetings will provide an opportunity to citizens to express their feelings and thoughts on bear population management

Displays will show how to protect bee hives and "bearproof" garbage containers, as well as illustrate studies being conducted on bears in Mary-

"After the meeting in Garrett County, we will hold meetings throughout the state to give every citizen an opportunity to provide input into our management plan for black bears," said Taylor.

According to Wendell Beitzel, Sanitary Commission director, the Oakland Mayor and Town Council has requested that Cherry Glade Run be abandoned as a sanitary district by the Garrett County Commissioners so that Oakland can assume full control and responsibility for the sewer assessment. A proposal drawn

In response to its request, a letter has been sent to the Oakland Mayor and Town Council by the Sanitary Commission indicating that several problems needed to be resolved for this request to be honored, according to Beitzel. #### Chamber Of Commerce, Board Slate Luncheon

The Mountain Top Chamber of Commerce and the Garrett County Board of Education are sponsoring a luncheon meeting on Thursday, January 11, at Southern High School to discuss how businesses and the public schools can work more closely together as partners.

According to a spokesman for the Board of Education, the meeting is intended to be the first of an annual series which will center on building further alliances between the public schools and the business community. Dr. Jermone Ryscavage, superintendent of schools, noted, "The basic idea behind this effort is to build upon the strong past support of our business community. Through this luncheon and, hopefully, the cooperative relationships which will flow from it we are looking forward to meaningful partnerships between both parties which will be of mutual benefit. The emphasis will not be on fundraising, but on how each of us can support one another to achieve a better future." Both the Mountain Top Chamber of Commerce as well as the Board of Education invite representation from all businesses in the area. If interested in attending, persons are asked to contact the superintendent's office by Monday, January 8, to make reservations.

O'Haver Road Trailer Leveled By Fire Monday

A fire of suspicious origin leveled a mobile home along O'Haver Road Monday afternoon, leaving a family of three homeless.

Fire fighters from Oakland and Terra Alta were called to the Guy William Fazenbaker Jr. residence, just off Fingerboard Road west of Oakland, at 3:47 p.m. and, upon their arrival, found the 14-by-70 foot trailer fully involved in flames. The Fazenbaker couple and their young child were not in the trailer when the fire began.

Guy Carola, fire investigator for Garrett and Allegany counties, responded to the scene and said yesterday that the origin of the fire is "suspicious in nature" and that his investigation is continuing. He estimated the loss of the trailer and its contents to be $25,000. He said that Fazenbaker did have insurance on the property.

Firemen remained on the scene for about one and one-half hours. Also summoned were the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad and the county air cascade vehicle, presently being housed at Friendsville VFD. There were no injuries reported.

Another alarm this past week sent Grantsville fire fighters to the Eugene Garlitz residence along U.S. Rt. 40, near Hilltop Fruit Market, Monday evening.

Firemen were called at 7:32 p.m. and remained on the scene for about 40 minutes. There was no major damage reported.

A Privilege, Not A Right

Garrett County nearly made it through 1989 without a single traffic death caused by driving while intoxicated or under the influence of alcohol. Then, on December 23, a young man allegedly DWI crashed his automobile head-on into another vehicle, instantly killing the 31-year-old driver of the other

We believe a combination of tough drunk driving ws, plus extra efforts by local law enforcement officials, are primarily responsible for this nearly blemish-free record for 1989. The previous year there were five alcohol-related traffic deaths in the county.

We fully support the latest drunk driving law in Maryland that took effect New Year's Day. The law allows officers to confiscate the driver's license of anyone who has a blood alcohol level of .10 or higher, or who refuses to take the breathalizer test. The officer will confiscate the license and issue a 45-day temporary license. During that 45 days before suspension, a driver may appeal his case by requesting a hearing.

A driver who refuses to take the test can lose his license for six months on the first offense. Those who take the test and fail it will most likely lose their license for 90 days or receive a restricted driver's license. Subsequent arrests will result in longer suspensions or revocation.

A similar law in some 28 other states has led to a significant drop in alcohol related fatalities, with some states experiencing a reduction of over 40

Another law being proposed by Delegate Cas Taylor (Allegany, Washington counties) calls for mandatory suspension or revocation of driving privileges for all drivers under age 21 who have any trace of alcohol in their blood. We also strongly support this proposal since drinking by minors is already illegal in Maryland. Also, as Delegate Taylor stated, the law will be one more effort to change society's attitude towards drinking and driving, particularly among minors and juveniles.

Driving is not a right, but a privilege. Those who abuse that privilege in such a way that leads to death and injury of innocent persons should no longer have that privilege.

Another "non-alcoholic" driving law we would like to see proposed in the 1990 Maryland legislative session is one that West Virginia enacted last year which prohibits high school dropouts from testing for their driver's license until they are at least 18 years old. The same law revokes the licenses of high school students who already have their licenses and then drop out of school.

Some will claim that such a law is nothing but bribery of our young people. To that we say, so be it. If obtaining a driver's license is so important to a 16-year-old, and he knows he can't get a license if he drops out of school, he will be far more likely to stay in school and obtain his diploma. It would be an effective tool in decreasing our embarrassingly high drop-out rate.

Letters to the Editor

Thus far I have heard no one dispute the grand theft of each one of us in the amount of $200! Each American person will pay $200 before the Saving and Loan fiasco is over. This amount is being taken without due process, without a discussion, without any protest from us and I cannot imagine why

The Savings and Loan operations are businesses which have been mismanaged by individuals on a grand scale. So if the scale is large enough, the government simply pays the debt and goes on? Managers steal the savings of some; so government says ok, ALL will

There should be indictments for theft from the taxpayer! Our Congress is a trusteeship and when they misappropriate our tax money they should be held accountable! What would it take to make Americans revolt (not speaking here of armed type)? By the time we invite five billion people to move to the U.S., pay them not to work and then pay them if they mismanage, how will we have any resources left to pay our own way through life? Will we ever protest being used? In my opinion, it is time to close the gates; close the pocketbooks and advise people to earn it the way we do work!

To the Editor:

While being held at the county jail for growing five marijuana plants, i keep asking myself one question What harm have I ever done? Who have I ever harmed, to be deprived of my rights as an American citizen? Our constitution states that we have the right to life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness Well, it is my opinion that these rights should include smoking if I choose to do so.

I urge the people who read this to consider what harm alcohol and cigarettes are doing to our society today, and then review some statistics about marijuana. Judge Francis Young of the Drug Enforcement Agency has been quoted that pot is one of the safest therapeutic drugs since aspirin. Upon being ad-

I realize that what I have done is against the law, and I respect Garrett County's officials for enforcing these laws, but I believe that, until these laws are changed, some of the finest people of this great country of ours are going to be treated as common criminals.

I ask you now to think about this issue. If you agree I would enjoy hearing opinions on this subject. Who knows what the politicians are going to forbid us to do next? Please send any comments you may wish to express to Dewane Smith, Garrett County Jail, Oakland, MD 21550.

To the Editor: Ever since you printed the story in the paper about my husband, Michael, finding and returning the money in the Heck's parking lot, we have received a lot of different comments on it. A few have said, "Are you crazy? You could have used that money for Christmas." But most have said how great they think it was or they were glad he was so honest or so unselfish.

I, myself, am very proud of him. So many times people tend to think of their own needs first. It's really sad to think that people are actually that selfcentered as to keep something that doesn't belong to them. If I lost money or any possession that meant a lot to me, I would hope it would be returned if found. But even more important is the fact that, one day, I have to face my Maker, and I want him to be able to look at me and smile, not stand and condemn

I think that instead of most people being selfish and dishonest, especially in Garrett and Preston counties, they are mostly honest and caring. It's mitted I asked the doctor who great to consider our home base checks the inmates what he is this area. We have received thought, and he said to me that help here when we needed it, he thinks that if aspirin would

The Mind Wanders

by Sherry Frantz

We have speculated, ruminated, forecast, analyzed and cautioned but 1990 arrived anyway. 1989 is gone. The eighties are gone. History.

1989 did not leave us in a gradual flowing motion. It left us, rather, in an abrupt manner, definitive and obvious. It made us watch, with no desire to be forgotten. It was just making certain we were paying attention and knew it was gone.

The obvious energy that 1989 took to do its leaving, however, did not detract one ounce of energy from 1990's flamboyant

That energy has now dissipated into each of us, and the responsibility it imparts is seriously challenging. We can't let it fizz about in our hands until it loses its life.

So, what do we do with it? Do we peel the sticky stuff from our hands and leave it lying like so much litter? Do we place it in the kitchen drawer with best intentions to get back to it when time permits?

Do we mail it to our Congressmen? Leave it in a time capsule (with no instructions) for future generations to find? Do we cash it in for new carpeting?

Nay, I say!

We do hereby proclaim and resolve to use that energy, together, young and old, for the good of all. No longer shall one generation work alone for the good of a few! No longer shall bureaucrats work without the common man! No longer shall the common man work without the common woman!

The changing of the guards has taken place, and we (being the guards) are standing outside, somewhat bewildered, our task at hand. But this decade of guards is going to change its character. The poker faces will now be transformed into faces that laugh and cry.

Why? Because that piece of energy we guards hold in each of our hands is going to propel us into a people who have lived with freedom long enough to begin knowing what to do with it, how to use it. As more and more countries gain freedom, the "freedom veterans" of the world should begin to re-evaluate the complications inherent in that freedom in order to impart a wisdom to the "freedom newcomers." And if we work very hard for the next ten years, we might be around to witness many lands of "freedom intermediates" who have used their freedom wisely enough to reject the use of Styrofoam containers.

To the Editor:

In the December 28th issue of The Republican an article by Sandra Cusack was included entitled, "Garrett County Boasts Wide Variety of History, Architecture in Local Churches." St. John's Lutheran Church in the Cove was one of the churches featured in the story.

Unfortunately the references to St. John's are inaccurate. I think that the problem was the Cove that both bare the name of St. John's. The December 28th article does not differentiate the two congregations; it blends the separate histories of the two congregations as if they were the history of a single congregation. The St. John's pictured in the

ASK THE SENATOR by U.S. Senator Barbara A. Mikulski

"Ask the Senator," is a twice-amonth newspaper column in which people of Maryland ask U.S. Senator Barbara A. Mikulski the questions uppermost on their minds. Questions selected for use in this column come from the more than 4,000 letters received by the Senator's office each week.

APPLYING FOR COLLEGE FINANCIAL AID --DO IT NOW

Dear Senator Mikulski --I'm a student in my fall semester at University of Maryland, and so far my finances are holding up. I know my funds next year will be very tight. How can I get federal help? Let me give you a few helpful tips. We all know it's getting more and more expensive to go to college these days. The cost of four years at my old alma mater, Loyola, is as much today as what I paid for my first house in Baltimore. But there is still no greater asset than a good education, and now is the time to be filling out your financial aid forms. The first thing to understand is that there are many different sources of aid. The federal government has three main programs:

• The Pell Grant; Guaranteed Student Loans; and campus-based programs. These include: Supplemental

known as National Direct Student

Loans), and college work-study. It is very important not to overlook other avenues of aid, such as state government, private of Education also has a toll free sources and colleges themselves. There are many books which list aid available from local sources. To find these, check with your local librarian. Two books frequently recommended are: Financial Aid For Higher Education: Higher Education: A Catalogue for Undergraduates, by Oreon Keeslar; and The College Bluebook: Scholarships, Fellowships, Grants and Loans; McMillian

Most of these financial aid programs, are based on need. Eligibility differs year to year and program to program. But, you will never know if you're eligible unless you apply.

You will have to fill out a needs analysis form -- either the Financial Aid Form (FAF) or the Family Financial Statement (FFS). Colleges vary as to which form they use. They are usually available from your college financial advisor. In addition, many schools require that you fill out their own financial aid form.

Once you have carefully filled out these forms, turn them in to your college financial aid office. Examiners will determine the amount you and your family can contribute to your education. Your school will then come up with an aid package consisting of a mix of federal grants and loans, work-study requirements, institutional awards, and so on.

The needs forms can be complicated and time-consuming, but they are essential. A wellconstructed aid package can keep a financially out-of-reach college within your grasp. Good luck!

WHO CAN I CALL ABOUT FINANCIAL AID?

Dear Senator Mikulski --Who can I call to get information about student aid or see if my application has been pro-

If you're already in college, call your own college's financial aid office. They can provide the most assistance. The Department number, 800-333-4636, for information on federal student aid. For students currently applying to college, they can give you information about your individual

Reproductions & Adaptations Of Shaker Antiques

The quest for perfection. In their quest for perfection and simplicity, the Shakers created some of the most celebrated furniture designs in American history. Shaker Country is Lane's tribute to the creativity, originality and spirit that have made Shaker antiques among the most prized of today's collectibles. It is also a celebration of the unique ways in which the shaker style adds depth and dimension to contemporary interior design. On the whole, our Shaker collection reflects the surprisingly strong compatibility of 20th century and Shaker design. Both base their aesthetics on the simple idea that form follows function. As you page through our catalogue, you'll see what we mean. Shaker Country can create an environment of unique harmony and balance when mixed in contemporary settings in today's home.

Beitzel, are that the Town of Oakland has indicated that no new connections can be made in the Cherry Glade Run Sanitary District and that the Town may charge the out-of-town users more than in-town users.

To the first contention, the commission maintains that Cherry Glade Run District is gaying for a representative portion of the sewerage system, therefore an allocation of surplus capacity must equa this contribution. To the second contention from the Town of Oakland, the commission argues that one of the District's conditions for establishing the Cherry Glade Run Sanitary District was that out-of-town users would not be charged more than in-town users.

The fourth area of contention between the town and the commission is that of reserve funds which the commission says is nearly equal to the operation and maintenance cost. The commission, according to Beitzel, feels this is inappropriate and that Oakland should re-assess the amount needed for a reserve fund. The Sanitary Commission agreed to abandon the Cherry Glade Run District if those four problem areas were resolved satisfactorily and if those residents in that area were in agreement to that measure.

A public information meeting tentatively scheduled for January 17 at 7 p.m. The location will be announced at a later date.

In other concerns heard by the Sanitary Commission. was announced that a claim has been filed by a contracting company in the amount of $1,126,000 against the commission regarding upgrade work at the Trout Run Facility treatment plant. This treatment plant is located south of Oakland and processes sewage from Mountain Lake Park and Loch Lynn.

According to Beitzel, Charles J. Merlo, Inc., Mineral Point, Pa., failed to complete contracted work on time, claiming to have encountered difficulty which incurred costs the company had not anticipated. Beitzel, however, stated that defective stone was used by the company to construct an impoundment and when the Sanitary District ordered it be replaced, the contractor filed the claim. The District, said Beitzel, is preparing to defend against that claim by engaging the services of a lawyer and an engineer. To this end, they have requested grant funding by the state to cover those costs.

In regard to a problem with the turbidity (cloudiness) of water in Bloomington, the commission has been informed by the Maryland Department of the Environment that the turbidity of that water (because of a sand filter problem) has exceeded the limit set by the

The commission holds that the site has been properly disinfected and that action will be taken to replace the sand filter, stressing that proposed action by the state is unnecessary and too costprohibitive.

It was also announced at Tuesday's meeting that Alpine Village has agreed to provide the site for a storage tank in the Deep Creek Lake Sanitary District, and that negotiations are underway by the commission to obtain that site.

Why is our system of justice such an injustice to all but the guilty, at taxpayers' expense? Why isn't our "farce of a justice system" at least made equitable for the non-guilty and the taxpayers. The Livengood Debacle is an excellent example. Money talks! How long do taxpayers foot these endless bills without revolting, as our debt-ridden country slips further and further down the scale in world stature? One sentence of your editorial I totally disagree with, "after all it is the Panamanian people who really have been victimized by Noriega." We all have been victimized as taxpayers; as the recipients of the drug culture he has made millions of dollars from and we have millions of drug addicts, as well as our national war and all that entails. Our children and grandchildren will still be paying for this Panamainan war with our national debt as it now is. The troops killed, the

After recording four straight Frankfort's final eight points in wins and capturing the Snowball Classic title this past weekend, the Southern High Rams were tripped up Tuesday night by Frankfort, 63-56, as they allowed the Falcons to rally from a first half deficit and pick up their third win in four starts.

The Rams trailed after the first quarter, 14-12, out-scored the Falcons in the second period, 19-13, behind hot shooting by sophomore Brett Rice to take a 31-27 halftime lead, but were then out-gunned in the third stanza and trailed 47-43 going into the fourth quarter. They drew to within one point, 55-54, when Richard Beckman stole the ball and went the length of the floor at the 2:49 mark: however. Frankfort responded with eight more points in the closing minutes, compared to just two by Southern

DIRTY HUMIDIFIERS MAY CAUSE HEALTH PROBLEMS

The U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission (CPSC) is alerting consumers to possible health hazards resulting from dirty room humidifiers. The CPSC has found that bacteria and fungi often grow in the tanks of portable and console room humidifiers and can be released in the mist. Breathing dirty mist may cause lung problems ranging from flu-like symptoms to serious infection. This information is of special sufferers whose symptoms may

Film or scum appearing on the water surface, on the sides or bottom of the tank, or on exposed motor parts may indicate that the humidifier tank contains bacteria or fungi. A crusty deposit or scale may also form within the tank or on parts in the water. This scale is composed of minerals that have settled out of the water creating a surface on which bacteria or fungi may grow.

Minerals can also be released in the mist and settle as fine white dust. This white dust may contain particles that are small enough to enter the lungs. The health effects from inhaling this humidifier dust are not clear: any impact on human health will depend upon the types and amounts of minerals found in the water used.

To reduce the possibility of health hazards from dirty room humidifiers, the staff of the Consumer Products Safety Commission recommends that you take the following precautions

*Do no allow film and scale to develop in your humidifier. If

Oakland CPA Firm Reports On Continuing Ed.

Rodeheaver and Associates, certified public accountants, Oakland, recently reported the results of its continuing professional education activities to the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants. This annual education report must be submitted by all firms that are members of the Private Companies Practice Section of the AICPA Division for CPA firms, according to a spokesperson at Rodeheaver and Associates

According to the spokesperson, the division was established by the AICPA to serve as a mechanism for improving and maintaining the quality of practice of CPA firms. Membership in the division is voluntary and requires a peer review every three years, involving an independent examination of the member firm's accounting and auditing practices by specially trained CPAs outside the member firm.

Rodeheaver and Associates completed its latest peer review in June 1987 and received the top rating, an unqualified report on the firm's quality controls over its auditing and accounting practice. Randle Rodeheaver, managing partner for the firm, indicated that all professional and para-professional staff are required to participate in at tinuing professional education every year and at least 120 every three years.

Rodeheaver stated, "We provide continuing education training to all staff regardless of the fact that some are not certified." The purpose of the requirement is to help professionals in member firms maintain and enhance their professional knowledge and 'competence,' he added.

In addition to the education requirements imposed by the AICPA, Rodeheaver said, the firm is also subject to other continuing education requirements established by the federal government. These specific continuing education requirements apply to all firms and sole proprietorships involved in audits of government organizations, programs, activities and functions, and audits of contractors, non-profit organizations and a number of other non-government organizations who receive funds. The firm's high concentration of government audit work subjects it to these additional requirements imposed by auditing government standards.

In summary, Rodeheaver indicated that the firm's nine professional and para-professional staff attended over 600 hours of professional education classes that included a variety of accounting, auditing and taxrelated topics dealing with contractors, consolidated groups, municipalities, school associations, state tax regulators, government audit standards laest 20 hours of qualifying con- and other tax-related subjects.

Guides Provide Opportunity For Volunteerism

Governor William Donald Schaefer introduced on Tuesday "Volunteer for Maryland," a series of regional guides highlighting volunteer opportunities in communities throughout Maryland that are now available for free to individuals and groups who are interested in volunteering from the Governor's Office on Volunteerism or at public libraries.

"Everyone has a special talent or skill to lend to their community" Governor Schaefer said, adding, "But oftentimes people do not know where to volunteer or how to get involved. Now, for the first time, we have all of this information together in a series of community-based pamphlets."

The series of four guides is organized by region and includes: Western Maryland, Central Maryland, the Eastern Shore and Capital and Southern Maryland.

Each guide features tips on how to find the right volunteer opportunity, where to volunteer if one is a student and how to help with environmental issues. The guides highlight hundreds of organizations with volunteer opportunities and features a listing for each agency, brief description, volunteer opportunities by job titles, days and times, phone number and a minimum age requirement. Opportunities are organized by category of service including arts and culture, children and youth and education and literacy. "Volunteer for Marylard" is a project of the Maryland legislators awarded $3.5 million in state scholarships in 1989, approximately 20 percent of the state's scholarship funds. No other state permits its state legislators to select individual recipients of state scholarships.

The poll found that among those who have an opinion on how state scholarships are awarded, a three to one majority think that all scholarship recipients should be chosen by a state commission. Commenting on the poll results, Phil Andrews, Executive Director of Common Cause/Maryland, said, "Legislators should cease playing Santa Claus with taxpayers' money. They should take notice that only a small minority of Marylanders support legislative scholarships. Not only is the potential for abuse obvious, legislative scholarships provide incumbents with yet another advantage over challengers."

Andrews said Common Cause/Maryland will lobby for the abolition of legislative scholarships in the 1990 session of the General Assembly. Delegate Robert Kittleman (R-Howard) has introduced a bill, HB 32, that would abolish legislative scholarships. transfer the monies to the state scholarship commission, and grandfather in current recipients of legislative scholarships. The bill would also require that the state scholarship commission award the transferred money equally by legislative district, and require the governor to increase funding for state scholarships by at least $1,246,000 in FY1991.

The 1990 session of the Maryland General Assembly begins January 10. HB 32 has been assigned to the House Constitutional and Administrative Law

The poll was conducted by the Survey Research Center of the University of Maryland at College Park between October 16 and November 18, 1989, 982 adults over the age of 18 were interviewed by telephone. # Where You Put ONE Block

You can learn more than spelling while playing with blocks. You can also learn how good and evil are the results of

HAT could have been HATE. And LOVE would then have been incomplete. It all depends on where you put one block.

People who realize the tremendous importance of seemingly small choices want their children to acquire a sense of spiritual responsibility. The churches and synagogues serving our community respect and fulfill that vital need through religious education and moral training.

When we grow up and put away our blocks, those same churches and synagogues provide the spiritual foundation on which we build a life of decision-making.

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE ON MISSING THE POINT January 7, 1990

Background Scripture: John 5 19-47

BUBLE

It is a dramatic confrontation. Jesus throws down the gauntlet to the Pharisees: "You search the scriptures because you think that in them you have eternal life; and it is they that bear witness to me; vet you refuse to come to me that you may have life" (John 5:

39.40). It is important to understand that this is not personal pique on the part of Jesus. One might easily get the impression that in this passage he is "pulling rank" on his listeners. But, in fact, he makes it very clear that his concern is not for himself, but for the Father: "I can do nothing on my own authority. I seek not my own will, but the will of him who sent me ... If I bear witness to myself, my testimony is not true." His mission, therefore, was to bear witness to the one who sent him.

LEARNED, BUT BLIND How could it be that these men so learned in the scriptures could be so blind to the one of whom the scriptures bore testimony? Because they were learned in the scriptures, these should have been the very persons to recognize him for what he was. In rejecting him, these learned biblical scholars were, in fact, rejecting God himself. Despite all their study, despite all their scholarship, despite all their devotion to the scriptures-they completely missed the point! The purpose of the scriptures is to reveal God, but they failed to recognize God's revelation in Jesus. Actually, the Pharisees had three strikes against them. God did not limit his revelation to the scriptures. Jesus is careful to point out the threefold revelascriptures. God witnessed to Jesus through the work of John the Baptist: "... there is another who bears witness to me, and h know that the testimony which he bears is true. You sent to John and he has borne witness to the #### truth" (5:32,33).

STRIKE THREE! And there is still a third witness, "But the testimony which I have is greater than that of John; for the works which my Father has given me to accomplish, these very works which I am doing, bear, me witness that the Father has sent me" (5:36). The "works" to which Jesus is referring here include his miracles and the basic forms of his ministry. Three strikes! The Pharisees missed the witness to Jesus through the scrip-, tures, through John the Baptist, and through the mighty works of Jesus. Three strikes and they were

But why had they struck out? The most compelling reason comes from Jesus' own words? "But I know that you have not the love of God within you" (5; 42). They studied the scriptures, but without love! They wen through their religious rituals, but there was no love in it. They scrupulously obeyed the laws; but love was not the motive, The purpose of searching the scriptures is not so that we can become learned, but so that we can become loving. Without love, we've missed the whole point. (Based on copyrighted Outlines produced by the Committee on the Uniform Series and used by per processor. Released by Community & Subarten Press.)

Accident School Students Visit FSU Library

Eighteen fourth and fifth grade students from Accident Elementary School recently visited the library at Frostburg State University. The visit was arranged through the cooperation of the Frostburg State University and Garrett County Teacher Education Center, coordinated by Ed Green. Students were welcomed at the door by Pat Wilson and Pam William, reference librarians. Ms. Wilson explained the floor plans and working areas of the facility and then took the students on tour.

FSU student teacher assistant at Accident Elementary, Howard Franklin, remained with the class throughout the day and assisted the students with becoming acquainted and using resource materials pertaining to their studies of local and Maryland history and early explorers. Students used the microfilm readers to view the census records of Garrett County area from 1790 through 1900. Pupils worked in the climate controlled special collections room on the fourth floor under the guidance of Dolores Footen. The class examined the display in the library entrance of a circa 1583 cannonball found off the coast of Panama and a replica of Captain Sir Francis Drake's ship. #### Farm Bureau President Describes 1990s As "A Promising Decade"

"Though some farmers still face economic problems, the nation's farmers and ranchers head into the '90s in much stronger economic condition," said Dean Kleckner, AFBF president. "The '80s were a turnultuous and stressful period for America's farmers and ranchers. The decade started with a worldwide recession. surplus commodities and declining land values due to a change in monetary policy. We have just now begun to recover.

"The economic losses were painful, but we're better managers because of it. The nation's farm debt has been cut by $56 billion, a 30 percent reduction since its peak in 1983. Inflationary illusions are gone. Today's management decisions are based on the productive returns realized from investments, not paper profits," said the corn and hog farmer from Rudd, Iowa

The farm leader predicted U.S. farm policies and increasingly world policies will be driven by market forces. "Congress will consider a new 4-5 year farm bill in 1990. The new farm legislation will provide greater flexibility, allowing individual farmers to grow crops that are in the greatest demand," Kleckner said. "That shift will be good for agriculture and good for the nation's economy "U.S. agricultural exports should remain strong, maintaining a $40 billion dollar annual sales level and grow decade. This country's farm dence in the safety of their food

"The world's population is expected to grow to six billion in the next decade, representing nearly a billion additional ing to the American Farm people to feed. Along with the population growth, there is a pent-up demand for improved diets in many parts of the world. The people of Russia, the East Bloc countries and many other developing countries desperately want more food and greater choices. The American farmer will play an important part in meeting those needs."

> Kleckner predicted an exciting decade for new products and promising scientific breakthroughs. "We will begin to see dramatic results from investments made in biotechnology research.

> According to Kleckner, biotechnology holds the promise of pest resistant plants, leaner meat products, more productive forest, new nitrogen-fixing plants and new crop uses.

The farm leader identified kenaf and canola as promising new crops and predicted expanded industrial use of soybeans and corn. "Kenaf, currentiy grown in California, is a fast-growing fibrous plant used to make newsprint. Canola is an oilseed crop low in saturated fats. Soybeans soon could become the major source of printer's ink. Soyink produces brighter newsprint images and eliminates rub-off problems associated with today's standard ink."

The push for cleaner air will provide new opportunities for corn producers. Ethanol and other oxygenated additives derived from corn will add to the current 300 million bushel annual corn-fuel use

Jerseys Were The "Growing" Breed

"The Jersey breed has been through an eventful, challenging, but most rewarding decade," reports Maurice Core, executive secretary of The American Jersey Cattle Club.

Of The Decade

"During the '80s, we saw a dairy termination program that took approximately one million dairy cows out of production, reducing dairy cow numbers to 10.1 million - the lowest number in over 100 years. There were also nine years of surplus production. Now we are in a shortage situation described by some as the most critical since World War II, resulting in the highest producer milk prices in Approximately 558,300 Jerseys were registered by the AJCC during the 1980s, a 32 percent increase over the previous 10-year total. More significantly, 55,200 Jerseys are on the official Dairy Herd Improvement Registry (DHIR) and Total Performance Evaluation (TPE) programs at the end of 1989. This is a 229 percent increase in participation in these official testing programs compared to 1975.

Much of this success is due to the efforts of the Multiple Component Pricing (MCP) campaign. A USDA report states that over 51 percent of all Federal Milk Marketing Order producers are eligible to participate in voluntary Multiple Component Pricing Plans. In addition, one Federal Order has implemented a MCP plan. California also uses MCP in its state milk payment system. Meanwhile, Jersey Marketing Service (JMS), a division of The American Jersey Cattle Club, has been successful in the 1980s bringing buyers and sellers of Jersey cattle together. JMS coordinated the sale of over $3 million worth of Jerseys during 1989, managing 25 public sales where over 2,200 head were sold at an average of $1,091.97. Fourteen of these sales averaged over $1,000 Over 600 head of Jerseys sold at Private Treaty for an average price of $1.145.18.

Using nationwide contacts. JMS can locate Jerseys available for sale. JMS has satisfied many customers by meeting their marketing needs for either elite cows of the Jersey breed or profitable commercial Jerseys. JMS will help dairymen earn more profit from registered Continued on Page B-5

READERS' CORNER America! Take Warning!

The greatest threat to our national freedom is now mmediate. Our people are less concerned now than ever before. Our freedom is being betrayed by those we have trusted to preserve it. We have joined our enemies who have vowed to destroy capitalism and banish God from the sky. God will never be banished from the sky. Capitalism has become corrupt and awaits judgement by Almighty God Our churches and civil leaders are condoning the sins God destroyed Sodom and Gomorrah for Our citizens are murdering thousands of innocent unborn human beings.

Witchcraft and Satan worship have taken the place of dependence on God. This has resulted in much crime and murder. Pornography is running freely. While it is being legalized it is causing child abuse, rape and murder. Great emphasis is put on the separation of church and state. While the goal is to separate state and people from God.

Cunning law makers are working to ban our constitutional right to own and bear arms. Our liberal news media discredits the church and family and lets out God while promoting one Worldism and the new age.

Unless changes are made our land of the free and home the brave will only be memories for our grandchildren. In all this great conflict God is the target and Satan is calling the shots. There is only one solution and that is to turn back to God. Our nation was founded, blessed and prospered by God. Let us not take His name in vain. God will not be with a nation that turns from Him. II Chronicles 1:14. If my people who are called by my name will humble themselves and pray, and seek my face, and turn from their wicked ways: then will I hear from Heaven, and will forgive their sins, and will heal their land. The answers are alf in the small book "The Bible". Deut, chapters 5-13, Levit. chapters 18:27 explain simple government that will work Why not go by it

Matthew, Mark. Luke and John assure the way ofsalvation for the soul. Why spend millions to research its truth? Man's ways are not God's ways. Read Proverbs 14:12. The Psalms will bring comfort to the weary body and soul. Try Psalms 91, Psalms 37 and 15.

The book of Jude describes our world today. Rev. chapters 1-3 describe the churches. We are in the Laodician age today, chapter 3:14 and on. Which of these seven churches do you belong to? Rev. 22 tells the closing of time. Where will you be 10,000 years from now? Have you taken Jesus to be your Savior? One nation under God with liberty and justice for all, must claim and practice God's laws.

Biotechnology Expected To Come On Strong

Agriculture is on the verge of another revolution. Mechanical devices - the tractor, the combine - boosted productivity in the early 20th century. Chemical inputs have done the same the past 30 years. In fact, today's farmer produces 80 percent more crops per acre than his father did.

But such advances will be overshadowed by the promise of crop production biotechnology, said Dr. David J. Pieczarka last November at the Maryland Women's Agricultural Forum. The Forum, sponsored in part by the University of Maryland's Cooperative Extension Service, was held at the Turf Valley Country Club in Ellicott City.

"Biotechnology - the use of biological processes to manufacture a product - is in the "tool-making stage" right now," said Pieczarka, the director of crops research and applied technology for Agway.

"There are very few products coming out right now. But by the year 2000, a major portion of crop-input production will somehow be derived from biotechnology

Biotechnology revolves around understanding the genetic code - the blueprint that contains the necessary information for protein producengineering - the transfer of protection for the plant.

In traditional plant breeding, genetic traits are exchanged within a species, he said. #### Miniseries explores drug agent's death

Steven Bauer plays slain agent

By Justin Marshall U.S. drug enforcement agent Kiki Camarena paid a high price to complete his assignment in Mexico. His mission to track down Mexico's drug barons cost him his life. Drug Wars: The Kiki Camarena Story, airing Sunday. Monday and Tuesday. Jan. 7 through 9, on NBC unravels the mysterious kidnapping and murder of the dedicated agent.

On Feb. 7, 1985, U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration agent Enrique "Kiki" Camarena was abducted in Guadalajara, Mexico, tortured for information and murdered by the powerful drug lords he had tried to bring to justice. Through his wife, Mika's, pleas that her husband not become just a number, the DEA stepped up its investigation into his murder

Steven Bauer stars as Camarena, and Elizabeth Pena plays his determined wife. Craig T. Nelson and Treat Williams co-star in the six-hour, three part miniseries as fellow agents who risk their careers to expose Kiki's murderers.

Michael "Miami Vice" Mann served as executive producer for the miniseries. Although Miami Vice dealt with the seething drug underworld each week, the reality of this story impressed him.

"If I have one ambition for the project." Mann said. "it's that the audience will feel some sense of the passion and commitment, the anger and courage of the real men and women who took part in those events."

While indictments are still coming down in the Camarena case, justice is still not being served. Mann

"Four years after his slaying. Camarena is a martyr in the war on drugs and his spirit lives within the DEA street agents around the world who are fighting to make cases against the armies and arsenals of billionaire drug traffickers," Mann

Craig T. Nelson stars as DEA agent Harley Steinmetz, and Elizabeth Pena plays Mika, the widow of slain agent Kiki Camarena, in Drug Wars: The Camarena Story. Based on a true story, the miniseries airs Sunday, Monday and Tuesday on NBC.

By Mary Ann Townsend Ossie Davis, who co-stars with Burt Reynolds in the detective series B.L. Stryker every fourth Saturday on The ABC Mystery Movie. says writing is his first passion, above and beyond acting, which he has done for the last 40-plus years since his debut with the Harlem theater group. The Rose McClendon Players.

Davis, the playwright behind Purlie Victorious as well as many feature films and television specials, says the desire to leave something worthwhile in writing has been his motivation during his lengthy career.

"The continuous thread of my total life in and out of the theater has been that unrelenting desire to sit down and put something worth a damn on paper," Davis consequential."

In addition to working on B.L. Stryker, Davis is completing a play he has been working on for two years, and frequently meets up with his wife, singer/actress Ruby Dee, for inspirational poetry readings at colleges, churches and civic centers.

While his interest clearly is writing, he does not plan to write any scripts for B.L. Stryker, in which he plays Oz Jackson, a former pro boxer and longtime friend of private eye Stryker.

"What I write represents what I am at my basic core. I am a writer more than I am any other thing in the world. and my writing has to represent all that I feel, most deeply, about everything, Television doesn't always embrace-certainly not in the series-that kind of writing or that kind of commitment." Davis said. "It's lighter.

Ossie Davis stars as B.L.'s best buddy, Oz, in B.L. Stryker, airing as one of four segments of The ABC Mystery Movie, on alternate Saturdays.

Angry viewer switching soaps By Candace Havens Dear Candace: I am totally upset at the way The Bold and the Beautiful is progressing, or rather regressing! I hate the character of Ridge Forrester. How could the writers have done such a thing-a painful thing-to Brooke Logan? I will no longer be watching this soap! have a TV at my job (in Congress) and I watch the soaps during my breaks. I also record at home in case I'm unable to sit through an episode. Well, now I won't have to worry about it at all. I will never watch this soap again! I'm going to start watching All My Children.

Dear Sandra: It is always sad when a soap loses such a devoted fan as yourself, but I think you have made a wise choice in switching to All My Children. The characters are much more interesting and so are the storylines (most of the time). Dear Candace: Tell the writers to get on with the solving of Mr. Rollins' murder on The Young and the Restless. They have drug this out for months and months and I'm sure sick of it. Please, for a change, let's hope that something good happens to Paul this time. -Sandy Gray, Columbus, Miss.

Dear Sandy: I quite agree the length of the storyline. I haven't checked it yet, but 'm almost sure that this may be the most lenghthy storyline in soap opera history, (at least it seems like it).

THE PROS & CONS!

Once you've decided to buy a home, you'll probably want to take the first step — looking at homes that are "For Sale". But, maybe, that isn't the first step. You see, in order to recognize the home of your dreams, it may be necessary to first take a close look at your present home.

Before you contact a realtor, take the time to analyze your present home in terms of what you like and dislike about it. Take a sheet of paper and draw a line down the middle. Then write

Now take a tour of your present home, room-by-room, and write down the various positive qualities you've enjoyed about the home. These could be the things like the floor plan which has been excellent for the parties you enjoy so much, or the generous counter space in the kitchen. In the "Dislike" column write down the negatives which you've found to be drawbacks in your present home. These may include the fact that there is no "mud-

room" for the children to use on rainy days, only one bath for your six family members to use and so on.

Then, invite your real estate agent to visit your home. This will give you a chance to discuss your list and the agent will get a clear idea of your wants and needs. ii you need information to help you solve a real estate puzzle, call us at 387-5303. We'll be happy to share our knowledge with you at no cost or obligation. Route 219

Commissioners Attend Trade. Tourism Meeting

The Garrett County Commissioners met this week to discuss plans to attend the regional meeting on Trade and Tourism which was held Tuesday evening at Canaan Valley Resort in Davis, W.Va. Dr. Cyril Logar, dean of the College of Business and Economics, West Virginia University, conducted the discussion.

Health Dept. Notes First Rabies Case Of New Year

The first rabid animal of the new year has been reported in Garrett County, according to Edgar Harman, director of Environmental Health at the Garrett County Health Depart-

The animal, a skunk, was submitted to the Health Department January 2 by Renee Fries, Gorman, who discovered it along the King-Wildeson Road, just off Rt. 560, after her dog reportedly killed the animal.

According to reports, James Fries, also of Gorman, is being treated for rabies because he apparently handled the dog after its encounter with the skunk. That dog was destroyed and another dog whose involvement was questionable is also undergoing treatment for rabies, said Harman.

Deer Park, Bloomington, and Kitzmiller were called to the scene by the Garrett County Office of Emergency Management at 5:21 a.m. after a neighbor saw flames coming from the structure. Upon their arrival the 20-by-20 foot house was fully involved in flames. The house was owned by Elva

P. Tasker and a part-time resident was Roger Kifer, who was in the process of moving out when the fire occurred. According to Guy Carola, fire investigator for Garrett and Allegany counties, Kifer had moved some of his personal belongings, but lost others in the blaze. He said there was no insurance on the house or its contents

Carola said there was no heat in the house and he has ruled the blaze suspicious in nature. His investigation is continuing.

Firemen remained on the scene for over two hours. Also summoned was the county air cascade vehicle, presently being housed at Friendsville VFD. There were no injuries

Southern Renovation Plans Closely Watched As General Assembly Begins

As the 1990 Maryland General Assembly session began this week in Annapolis, issues such as abortion, the state budget and drug-war funding will be among the top items of concern. Here in Garrett County, however, a close watch will also be kept on issues with a local impact. District 1-A Delegate George C. Edwards (R-Garrett-Allegany) has indicated that although he is not introducing any pre-filed bills in the General Assembly this year, one of his key concerns is that the Southern High School renovation project, along with other school construction projects, be adequately funded. Edwards stated that the IAC has already approved the SHS project and, pending funding, construction should begin as early as July. Edwards is also in the process of drafting two separate bills that will allow truckers hauling forest products more flexibility in weight restrictions. One bill, he said, would allow truckers a 10 percent axle variance provided the overall (gross) weight of the vehicle was in compliance with regulations. Edwards noted that a similar bill was introduced to the General Assembly last year but Garrett Rescue responded to failed to pass. 504 calls and the Accident sta-

The second trucking bill, if passed, would grant the trucker a reasonable period of time to shift a load in order to comply Garrett County office on 127 ocwith gross weight regulations. As Edwards explained, a trucker might be out of compliance at a weigh station of calls handled by the Garrett simply because part of the load weighs more over one axle than Frantz reminds residents that another. A shifting of the weight that load would allow the trucker to avoid penalties if he used in emergency situations is able to come into compliance only and persons may call the within a two- or three-hour > period of time. The Agricultural Transference tax is another bill of local concern that Edwards intends to support. The transference tax, he said, refers to monies that accumulate when not used for other specific purposes. That money then goes back to the state.

If legislation on this matter is approved, according to Edwards, that money would be earmarked for use in the implementation of the Gypsy Moth Prevention Program.

Delegate Edwards also commented on issues facing the general assembly this year Maryland. One issue causing concern among legislators is the fact that, for the first time since Md. Governor William Donald Schaefer took office, no surplus in the budget exists. This is apparently a major concern for the Schaefer administration since problems requiring large expenditures are being introduced into legislation this year. However, Del. Edwards stated that Maryland seems to be in good financial shape, noting a $50 million surplus in the budget. Edwards seems to look at the issue as a matter of definition. "You can say you have a deficit if you don't have enough money to do everything you want to do," he said. A proposed sales tax, which would take the form of a "snack tax," is the manner in which the Schaefer administration reportedly plans to prevent a predicted revenue shortfall in the state. The tax would generate $30 million for fiscal 1991. Edwards and District One

State Senator John D. Bambacus (R-Allegany-Garrett) both agree that the proposed snack tax will see little support from legislators.

Time To Recycle . . .

The issue of recycling has suddenly popped into the news in Garrett County. Recycling is certainly nothing new in most urban areas, where it has become a way of life for many U.S. citizens, and it seems to us that the time is now for Garrett County residents to get into the swing of things. In fact, the state government says we must at least have a plan for recycling by July of this year.

We are a nation that craves convenience, and among the prices we are now paying are the expense and pollution being caused by all of those "convenience" containers. We have become a nation of two-income families and many singleparent families, which makes washing real diapers time consuming and causes us to eat a lot of hamburgers packaged in throw-away plastic containers. Not only does this result in an overuse of our natural resources (not to mention what eating all of those hamburgers does to one's health), but it also damages our environment, costs huge sums of money for clean-up and disposal, and is beginning to cause a real space problem as to just where to put all of this garbage.

Fortunately, though, we have also developed the technology to recycle many of these items, such as paper, glass, various metals, and even plastics. But successful recycling depends on more than just the technology. Participation and cooperation by all consumers are also essential. Some may feel that this problem really does not yet exist here in rural Garrett County. However, besides the fact that state law is requiring us to act soon, our county government is facing a major expense with the prospect of opening a new county landfill. We are operating on borrowed time as it is with our present landfill. An effective recycling program probably will not prevent our having to open a new landfill, but in the long run, it will save hundreds of thousands of dollars in future disposal costs. And what about our environment and "beautiful" Garrett County, where too many roadsides are littered with trash? Most of the cans have been picked up because there is a market for returned cans, but the paper, glass, and plastic items, that would take decades to deteriorate, are left.

We notice in another column on this page that the League of Women Voters of Garrett County is spearheading a recycling effort for the area. We encourage all to read the column and, more importantly, to attend the public meeting on recycling slated for January 22 at St. Paul's United Methodist Church in Oakland.

Let's make it work.

This is in response to the letter to the Editor in the January 4 issue of The Republican written by Dewayne Smith.

Dewayne, you asked the question on what harm have I ever done? I can fill many pages of this fine newspaper of what harm you have done, but I will only list a few.

Do you have any idea of what harm you are doing to yourself and to your family? Do you want your daughter to grow up being dependant on a drug as you are? Do you want her to pend all her money on drugs How do you think your child feels about you being in a jail? What could her classmates be saying to her?

And there's your wife. She now has to adjust to living alone - something she's no doubt not used to. Paying the bills alone, making minor repairs alone, in time, before I wound up sitting behind bars and my children were being brought up by foster parents. Dewayne, I really do care. Get help while help can be found. A Friend To the Editor:

I am from the Monte Vista 4-H Club and I am writing in regard to the decorations that I helped put on the parking meters in the Town of Oakland. I felt a sense of pride and accomplishment at beautifying our town. Several people even stopped to tell us how they appreciated our efforts. So naturally you can understand how upset we were when we discovered them missing.

I appreciate the fact that a group of businessmen bought new bows and put them up. I think it's really bad that a few greedy people could ruin something for the whole town.

Edwards has also stated that the issue could bog down the session if leaders on both sides of the question do not resolve it. Yet another serious matter

A New Motto For GCC

by Dr. Steve Herman, President Garrett Community College

Garrett Community College has a new motto that we will display proudly:

"Encouraging each to succeed . . . Challenging all to excel."

We think our motto captures GCC's essence, not only what we are but what we want to be.

The first half of the motto focuses on the individual, GCC should reflect Garrett County and the special quality of its lifestyle. We want to mirror the county's sense of community, openness, and friendliness. Big institutions tend to surrender to the demands of administrative convenience with the result that students become lost in the bureaucratic maze of higher education. GCC, on the other hand, wants to preserve its small college environment. We want to be a college that recognizes and considers each individual student as a unique person with unique hopes and needs, and we want to encourage each student to succeed. At GCC each student should experience in a personal way the understanding, warmth, and support of our faculty and Every human being needs to experience achievement. So much of success in life depends on self-confidence, one's belief that "one can." Too many people go through life believing they can't. They say, "I can't" do this or "I can't" do that. But often they could succeed if they were not afraid to try. At GCC we want to encourage people, and we want to support them as they strive for success.

But success should not be hollow. Giving people good grades for bad performance is a cruel delusion. When academic standards are lax, people experience success in college only to experience failure and loss of self-confidence in life. GCC's faculty refuse to be a party to this kind of hoax. We will exact high standards, and we are prepared to commit ourselves as professionals and human beings to encouraging and supporting each individual student in his or her effort to meet GCC's high standards.

The second side of true success is challenge. The future promises to be competitive, and we want our students to be able to compete successfully with anyone, anywhere. For this reason we want to challenge all our students to excel. We want them to be motivated to be the best they can be.

To meet this objective, GCC's faculty recently decided to formulate and pursue a program for academic excellence. A Council on Academic Excellence has been created to review curriculum, standards, mission, objectives, policies, and procedures. A GCC education will be a challenge to all students. We recognize that some students will not be happy as a result. They would prefer an easy education, a diploma that certifies them but gives them no substance or capability. I strongly urge these students to go elsewhere. The students we want to encourage at GCC are those who earnestly want to work hard to be the best they can be. These students will find in GCC's faculty and staff unstinging warmth, encouragement, and support.

Our motto encapsulates our purpose, to encourage students to succeed; to regard and respect each person as an individual; and to challenge every student to be the best that he or she can be. When you see GCC's motto in the future, I hope you share our pride in its message.

The Mind Wanders

by Sherry Frantz

Last week I bade a hearty farewell to 89. This week I must say goodby (not quite as heartily) to 39. So long 39! The big 4-0 has taken hold and I choose not to silently endure.

So, I suppose it's time I began following the rules of ADULTHOOD - wear the right clothes, say the right things, set an example, etc....NAH!

In reality, the actual birthday was rather anti-climactic since, for the past six months, I've been referring to myself as a 40-year-old. I'm nothing if not well-prepared.

By the way, has anyone else noticed that the older you get, the more abstractly you view age? I mean, 40, what does it mean? What it's supposed to be is a designation - one designation among many - with which to describe oneself. But, of course, the number 40 (in reference to age) has been given a life of its own. usually in monstrous proportions. It's not a number. It's a thing, an entity, with connotations and baggage. Oh, the baggage it has collected!

And that's why, my faithful readers all (you are reading this, aren't you, Mom and Dad?), I'M JUST NOT ONE OF THEM! Contrary to popular belief, 40 is not old. I'm 40, yes, and I don't have a single problem with that (I sometimes exaggerate a bit) but, for the life of me, I can't bring myself to feel the way a 40-year-old is supposed to feel.

I just don't buy the proliferation of propaganda perpetrated on me for as long as I can remember that 20 is better than 40. This imposition on my life has always baffled me. And, believe me, it was just as baffling when I was 20 as it is now. The fact of my life is that I've felt one year better about myself every year of my life from age 20 on.

True, we see our mortality more clearly as we age but that should, hopefully, make us more appreciative of our lives among

to make us aware of new senses of beauty And true, we may not move as easily or see as well or remember as much, but we know where to move, what to look at and what's worth remembering so much better than when we were 20 or 30. If we're wise, we appreciate youth instead of resent it. We learn from the youngins' as they learn from us. We borrow and swap and listen and teach. The beautifully flawless smooth skin of youth is no less and no more exquisite that the lines around the mouth and eyes of the face that show the aging soul. The passing years so often smooth out the wrinkes on the inside - even if they manifest themselves conversely on the outside.

So if your husband leaves you for a much younger woman, take pity on him and ask yourself only one question: Why didn't you see what an insecure, shallow person he was? Chances are mighty fine that he just couldn't deal with his own aging process,

And if you find yourself in envy of all those young bodies and faces, you'd better get ye to the mirror and redefine your perception of beauty. (Either that or be thankful that your evesight is not what it used to be.)

Because if you, the 40-year-old woman, grants that your 20-year-old counterpart is better than you, then you have just as far to go on the road to enlightenment as you claim the other sex If this essay has gravitated from the general to the specific,

i.e., from all humans to the female sex, it is largely because we are the sex who has felt more compelled to answer for our inability to stop the aging process The stigma of age is a cultural creation that, likewise, needs cultural re-examination.

As for me, I will continue to break as many of the conventional rules of aging as I possibly can.

The commissioners noted that the state will continue to spray areas it has already been spraying so that, with this added program, more total acreage will be covered. Commissioner Gregg pointed out that the gypsy moth problem is "a serious problem that requires serious steps."

Recycling Issue

The issue of recyling was also discussed by the commissioners this week and they reported that state law mandates that by July 1 a plan will have to be developed by each county to manage the problem.

Commissioner Gregg stated, "Recycling is going to require a tremendous educational process not only in Garrett County but state and nationwide, and it is inevitable that we approach the problem with an open mind and an eye toward doing it from now on.' Gregg noted that Garrett

County should be especially cognizant of the problem in light of the extremely high cost of developing a new landfill and stated, "So, aside from the esthetic effects of recycling and the positive environmental effects, it will have a dramatic economic empact on Garrett County as well."

He also added, "Our ability to be successful in our recycling efforts will be dependant on the education and participation of the private sector."

Farm Families Needed To Host Soviet Students

The Maryland Department of Agriculture and the University of Maryland are looking for families to host agricultural students from the Soviet Union for the second straight summer as part of an exchange program. The students would spend two months in Maryland during the summer of 1990 working on farms and learning American ways

Last summer, 13 Soviet students worked on farms across Maryland, making Maryland among the first state to host such students anywhere in the nation. From the surveys of the host families, the program was an overwhelming success.

Commenting on the program, Robert L. Walker, deputy secretary of the Maryland Department of Agriculture, said, "with improvements made after last summer's excellent experience. we look forward to an even better program this time around

Once again, host families would be required to provide room and board for the exchange students and a small salary for their work on the farm. Transportation expenses to and from the United States will be paid by the students.

Host families in Maryland need not be able to speak Russian as students in Russia selected for the program will have a working knewledge of English.

Also being recruited are Maryland agricultural students who would be interested in a two month exchange in the Soviet Union. To participate in the exchange, U.S. students (ages 19-22 preferred) would travel to the U.S.S.R. where they would first spend three to four weeks in language training. Following this, they would visit Soviet agricultural colleges and live and work on Soviet farms. There would be opportunities for sightseeing.

U.S. students would only need to pay for their round-trip airfares to Moscow (approximately $1,150). Their remaining expenses would be borne by their Soviet hosts.

Anyone interested in being a Maryland host for a Russian agriculture student, or in going to the Soviet Union as an exchange agriculture student for the summer is asked to contact Robert L. Walker, Deputy Secretary, Maryland Department of Agriculture, 50 Harry S. Truman Parkway, Annapolis, MD 21401, phone (301) 841-5881 or Dr. John R. Milking $$$$'s for The '90's

Dr. Phil Sears, Dairy Specialist from Cornell University, will present a program on "Control of Mastitis for Optimal Milk Production." Dr. Sears is recognized world-wide for his research on controlling mastitis. Mastitis is still the number one "robber" of the dairyman's milk check. With favorable milk prices, one may tend to relax on the mastitis problem. Don't let that happen in your herd. "Make hay while the sun shines." Remember to make your reservations for the February 5, 1990 meeting, to be held from 10 a.m. to 2:30 p.m., at the Bittinger Fire Hall. A family style chicken dinner will be provided by the Monsanto Company. Make reservations by calling the Extension Office at 334-1990. 1989 Farmer's Tax Guide

I now have available the Farmer's Tax Guide. You may pick up a copy at my office or call in and we will mail a copy to you. There are some important changes from last year.

Is There Any Good Alfalfa Hay for Sale? I have had several calls from farmers looking for high quality alfalfa hay. I realize this is a scarce item in Garrett County. However, if you have some for sale, I would appreciate it if you would let my office know.

Analyze Your Corn Silage and Haylage Again! Farmers who really rely upon forage analysis in getting the most from their feeding rations, say that it pays to have your forages analyzed at least twice during the winter season. Three would be even better. By now you have fed off a lot of the forage and in all likelihood there will be a change in the nutrient value for several reasons. Hopefully, you may find an improvement in nutrient value due to one factor of harvesting Gypsy Moth Suppression Program Notes Very soon we will be announcing the county suppression program. There is no question but that a serious problem exists in most farm woodlots. Survey your woodlot for egg masses. Experts say the best time to control or eradicate the moth is when the population is small; therefore, you are more likely to have good future control if the population of egg masses are few. To avoid the rush at the ASCS Office, I would advise you to obtain your aerial map and have them mark and calculate the acreage that you want sprayed.

Much of this paper, as well as other products, from aluminum and tin can to plastic bottles and jugs, can be recycled if facilities are provided. According to a report by Jean Winters, from U.S. News and World Report, soft-drink bottles and milk jugs provide material for about 35 percent of the polyester carpet manufactured. The article ends with this comment, "The technology is available, and the economics is coming, but the key ingredient must be generated

SOUTHERN (59)

The Southern Rams added two more victories this past week by whipping cross-county rival Northern for the second time this season Friday night in Oakland, 59-44, and then topping visiting Keyser Tuesday night, 71-66. The Rams have won five of their last six contests and will attempt to keep their streak going this Friday night when they play at East

Preston. Friday's win over the Northern Huskies was somewhat easier for the Rams than in their first encounter, the finals of the Snowball Classic the previous week, when the cies took the contest into overtime. The Rams held leads of 17-6, 32-24, and 48-27 at the quarters. Jon Hegeman paced the Rams' scoring as he finished with 20 points, 16 of which were netted in the first half, while Brett Rice also reached double figures with 14 points.

Northern's leading scorer, Dave Yoder, who came into the contest averaging about 25 points per game, was held to 14 points, as Dave Eiswert and Marshall Pike doubled up on him defensively. Pike also grabbed seven rebounds.

Jon Houser and Jimmy Stephens finished with 11 and 10 points, respectively, for Coach Dave Bender's Huskies.

In the preliminary contest, the Southern High jayvee team recorded its seventh straight win in as many outings by stopping the Northern junior varsity, 40-24, behind a 15-point scoring effort by Britten Martin. Mike Duling chipped in with eight points for the Rams, who are coached by Jim Bosley.

Sophomore Brett Rice had the hot hand Tuesday night against Keyser, as he poured in 30 points on 10 field goals and 10 of 11 at the free throw line.

The Rams took a 9-0 lead in the opening moments of the game, but the Golden Tornado came back to take a 17-15 advantage by the end of the first quarter. Southern was on top by four at halftime, 32-28, and led 49-44 after three periods. Coach Tom Bosley's team built a 12-point lead in the fourth quarter, but Keyser ignited an effective three-point shooting effort to close the gap to 69-66 with about 18 seconds remaining. Keyser's Justin Smith hit four three-pointers during the

The Rams, who made 14 of 17 foul shots in the fourth quarter to maintain their lead, were outgunned from the floor by a 28-22 margin, but kept their fouls to a minimum and allowed Keyser only six free throws, five of which they made.

Keyser came into the contest without their leading scorer, Jason Salesky, who was sidelined with an ankle injury.

Shawn Clay led the Tornado in scoring with 16 points, followed by Smith and Jay Twyman with 14 each and Rich Rawlings with 11. It was the seventh loss in nine games for Keyser.

Also reaching double figures for the Rams were Pike with 23 points and Eiswert with 12.

Huskies Record Fifth Win By Defeating Liberty

The Northern High wrestling team upped its season record to 5-0 with a 63-6 win over Liberty High School of Clarksburg, W.Va., at Central Preston Senior High School in Kingwood last Thursday night. However, most of the Huskies' points were not won on the mats, but were awarded when the Liberty team forfeited following a controversial decision in the 119-pound division.

The teams were tied at 6-6 after the first two bouts, as Northern's Danny Sisler was pinned by Scott Barberio in the 103-pound class and Rich Wyland of Northern pinned Ken Eddy in the 112-pound division.

The 119-pound division was won by decision by Northern's Chris Rowe over Eric McCullough, 7-6. However, the coach of the Liberty team disagreed with the scoring by the referee. The matter was discussed at length, but never resolved and the Liberty team left the mats.

Lynn Brenneman, coach of the Huskies, said that he offered to have Rowe and McCullough wrestle again, and even offered to give Liberty a decision win in that weight class. "But they didn't want to continue." Brenneman said. "It was really unfortunate. They are a strong team and would have really been a tough test for us.'

The Huskies will put their undefeated record on the line this evening when they host a powerful Meyersdale team.

Cross Country Ski Course Scheduled By Sierra Club

The Western Maryland group of the Sierra Club will hold its fifth cross-country ski course beginning in January.

The course will consist of four sessions — two in the classroom and two on the snow. The classroom sessions will cover equipment, clothing, safety, mountain hazards and technique and will include video tapes of cross-country skiing.

The first on the snow class will include various methods of turning, stopping and travelling over the snow. The second class will review what was learned the first session and include a tour in local Maryland or West Virginia state parks.

The course is open to everyone. Classroom sessions will be held in the Continuing Education building at Allegany Community College in Cumberland. These sessions will be held on Wednesday, January 24 and 31 at 7 p.m. On the snow instruction will be held on February 3 and 10, snow conditions permitting. Location will be announced at the classroom sessions or you may call the course director, Jan Naylor, at home at 301-334-2434.

There will be a $20 fee ($25 for non-members) to help defray costs. This does not include equipment rental, if necessary. Registration will take place at the first classroom session or by phone/mail if you are unable to attend the classroom sessions. If you have any questions concerning the class please con-

Maryland State Police Among Lowest Paid

Maryland State Police rank 13th in a survey of salaries among 15 allied law enforcement agencies in the Northeast. The survey, conducted by the Maryland Troopers Association (MTA), included state and local law enforcement agencies in Maryland, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Virginia, West Virginia, and the District of Columbia.

"The role and responsibilites of a police officer have changed dramatically in response to the community's demands for service." said Sergeant Patrick V. Drum, president, Maryland Troopers Association. Appearing on the Maryland State Police Radio Program, a weekly public service broadcast, Sergeant Drum appealed for legislative support of the Association's pay parity proposal for State Police.

"If the taxpayers of Maryland are willing to invest substantially to recruit and train a trooper, we must be willing to pay an equitable salary to attract them," Sergeant Drum added. Currently, the starting salary for Maryland State Police is $21,861. Under the pay parity proposal, troopers would earn a salary based on the average pay of three of Maryland's highest paid law enforcement agencies. The proposal, accompanied by the MTA salary survey, has been forwarded to legislative leaders in Annapolis for consideration during the 1990 session of the Maryland General Assembly which convenes next week.

The Maryland Troopers Association represents approximately 1,800 current and retired members of the Maryland State Police. The MTA membership is represented through 11 lodges located statewide.

"These are not nine-to-five people. These are 24-hour a day, seven days a week people who respond to a call for duty anywhere in the state on a moments notice," Sergeant Drum added.

The Maryland Troopers Association recently elected Sergeant Drum, a 25-year veteran of the Maryland State Police, to serve as president of the organization. Recently, the MTA participated in the American Heart Association's annual of Mary June Harvey. Mareva fund-raising campaign, "Jail and Bail." Sergeant Drum, this year's MTA Jailbird, was finally freed after raising $500 bail during the event which was Brotherhood meeting at Paraheld earlier this month in Hunt

ALWAYS HUNGRY

In many respects we are as "hungry" today as we were in much less affluent times. The "hunger" may be for food, fast cars, drugs and alcohol, power, or sex. Our society seems obsessed with satisfying our ravenous hungers that, unfortunately, seem never to be satisfied. These hungers are like bottomless pits that take everything we offer and still want more and more. Someone ************ Rosedale United Pentecostal

> alive; souls extinct. So, we live in the most abundant material cultural the human race has ever known, but we are still hungry! And worst of all, we don't even know what we're hungry for. As soon as we get enough of anything, we realize that that is not what we wanted in the first place. No matter how much we may gorge ourselves with material things, we find that the emptiness inside ourselves still prevails.

> TO FILL THE EMPTINESS Life in Jesus' day was so much more simple and basic. Still, the problem was much the same: people kept looking for something or someone to fill their emptiness. So, when, by the Sea of Galilee, Jesus miraculously multiplied the loaves and fishes, many looked to him as God's messenger But the feeding of the five thousand was basically symbolic of a different kind of hunger which Jesus alone can satisfy.

> Only Jesus can satisfy all the appetites which drive our society. "I am the bread of life," he proclaimed: "he who comes to me shall not hunger, and he who believes in me shall never thirst" (6: 36). All other sustenance is but fleeting in its power to sustain us. This was even true of the manna which Moses gave the people in the wilderness. "Your fathers ate the manna in the wilderness and they died" (6:49). It sustained them for a time, but it did not bring them eternal life. So, he warns: "Do not labor for the food which perishes, but for the food which endures to eternal life" (6:27).

Most of our appetites are attempts to fill a vague and undefined void within us. But this emptiness can be filled and satisfied only by Jesus Christ, who came, not only to sustain us in time of need, but also to preserve us to eternal life. So, may our response be the same as theirs: "Lord, give us this bread always" (6:34)

ATTRACTING A BUYER!

So, you've decided to sell your home. If you were only allowed to use one method to accomplish the successful sale of your home, what would that method be? Would it be newspaper advertising? A yard sign? A real estate agent?

Many would agree that newspaper advertising is the single most desirable source of buyers, yet some surprising facts have come to light as the resuit of a national homebuying survey. The survey concluded that fully 52% to 70% of all buyers come as a direct result of real ************* estate agent referrals. Over time, agents build a loyal following of past customers, business contacts, and friends who continually provide the names of others planning to purchase a home.

The result is that a successful agent maintains an active list of home buyers ready to purchase in many price ranges.

It's obvious from those figures that there must be more to selling a home than meets the eye. While newspaper ads are used to attract a certain degree of attention to a particular home, the people skills of a professional real estate agent undoubtedly contribute greatly to the successful sale of the home.

Newspaper ads which target certain groups of buyers using specific, proven language and wording can be very effective, yet should be considered only a small part of the overall plan for marketing your home.

If you're planning to sell your home soon and would like information on its current value, give us a call at 387-5303, or come by our office located at McHenry

Treasury, SSA Plan To Expedite Refund Checks

The Department of the Treasury and the Social Security Administration (SSA) have announced joint plans to speed special refund checks to 27 million senior citizens affected by the Congressional repeal of the Medicare Catastrophic Coverage Act.

To offset Medicare premium overcharges for the repealed catastrophic care insurance, the Treasury Department will schedule two payments, each in the amount of $10.60, to be issued in February and April. The February payment will compensate for deductions from recipient payments in January and February; the April payment will cover March and April charges.

'We are pleased to assist SSA in expeditiously refunding these payments to senior citizens," Financial Management Service Commissioner W.E. Douglas said. "This two-phase plan will provide the most timely service to recipients without jeopardizing over a quarter billion dollars in other payments, including regular Social Security benefits and tax refunds, which we make at this peak time of the year."

The Financial Management Service is the Treasury bureau that manages and operates most federal payment systems and disburses Social Security benefits, federal salaries, veterans' benefits, tax refunds, and other payments.

Social Security Commissioner Gwendolyn S. King said, "This announcement is great news for America's elderly, many of whom live on fixed income." King added, "We are working diligently to expedite the computer changes required to properly adjust Social Security checks, but we must be extremely careful not to destroy a carefully constructed system of payments that provides $19 billion each month to 40 million Americans. "We appreciate the strain on Treasury systems to accomplish this, but there were few options that would allow us to meet both of our goals," King

"We must not underestimate the importance of $5.30 per month to many beneficiaries who depend on their monthly Social Security checks to make ends meet," she said.

As developed by the Financial Management Service and SSA. SSA will provide refund payment tapes to the Service for January and February by January 23, 1990. The Service will issue these checks, in the amount of $10.60 each, during February. A second refund tape submission will be provided

Country singers 'A Pair of Aces'

By Shelia Odak Willie Nelson and Kris Kristofferson will once again team up in A Pair of Aces, which airs Sunday, Jan. 14, on CBS. Starring with these two country music legends is Helen Shaver.

Aces features Kristofferson as a captain in the Texas Rangers, and widowed father of two, who is trying to solve a string of murders involving high school girls. While investigating the case he reluctantly finds himself burdened with the custody of a safecracker (Nelson), whom, due to jail overcrowding, he must look after for the final three days before his trial. The pair must learn to work together in order to solve the mystery before more murders occur.

Shaver, who has been featured in such films as The Color of Money and Desert Hearts, portrays Kristofferson's girlfriend Rose, who is also a widow. This character, along with the film's wonderful cast, were what captured her imagination. "It just seemed like fun to go and play this woman full of a great earthy sense of humor and good sense. She's sort of like the Patricia Neal character in Hud: just a woman who stands there and speaks her mind."

Though the murders are the most dramatic feature of the film, Shaver is quick to point out that this is not the only storyline. "The murder investigation is the action line, the catalyst of the story, but the heart of the story is that everyone, all the main characters in fact, are going through change, a major change in their life. Kris' character is at a point in his life where it's really important for him to deal, on an emotional level, more openly with his children. Victims' testimony stops child abusers

They were Drs. Joseph and Laurie Braga, child development experts who taped 60 hours of interviews with the children of Dade County, Florida. The testimony of those children would contribute to the first successful prosecution of a day care operator on multiple child abuse charges.

The story is recreated in Unspeakable Acts, Monday on ABC. (The program may be disturbing to children. Parental discretion is advised.) Jill Clayburgh and Brad Davis portray the Bragas.

shocking evolution of the landmark case which began in 1984 when concerned suburban parents began to make some terrifying discoveries about their preschool children, all of whom were cared for in the home of Iliana and Frank Fuster.

After going to the police the parents sought help, and received it, from the Bragas, who knew how to interview children. Sitting on the floor, surrounded by toys, the Bragas videotaped the conversations, many of which proved damning for the Fusters.

"This case demonstrates how to talk to children in a gentle, appropriate manner," said Laurie Braga. "It demonstrates ways to make accommodations in the court system that in no way undermine the hard-won rights of the defendant. #### Report On Maryland Economy Shows Continued Growth In All Areas

The Maryland economy continued to outpace that of the nation during 1989, according to a report issued last week by the Maryland Department of Economic and Employment Development (DEED). DEED Secretary J. Randall Evans presented the results of the study at a briefing held in the Maryland Communications Center in Baltimore. "By all major indicators, Maryland showed a solid pattern of growth last year," Evans said. Job creation, business activity, job training and worker productivity, trade, income and earning, revenues and the unemployment rate were the indicators used by DEED's Office of Research in their annual year-end report. In every category, the state's performance exceeded the national average.

Data on employment performance showed the Maryland's civilian labor force increased 2.3 percent, compared to a 1.9 percent increase nationwide. Employment in Maryland increased 2.7 percent, compared with the U.S. average increase of 3.0 percent. The number of unemployed persons fell 7.7 percent in Maryland during 1989, and the state's unemployment rate dropped from 4.0 percent to 3.7 percent. Evans said that while these figures indicate a robust economy, it also means that the pool of available and potential workers is shrinking. "The challenge we face is to find workers for our rapidly growing businesses," said Evans. "The state of Maryland is committed to providing education and training to upgrade the skills of our current and future workforce," he said, citing the state's Partnership for Workforce Quality Program and Project Independence as examples of new initiatives to train existing workers and develop new workers for Maryland.

The report noted that Maryland's business vitality, economic performance, resource capacity and development policy were all graded A in the latest survey by the Corporation for Enterprise Development, a non-profit research group headquartered in Washington, D.C. Data also indicated that Maryland surpassed the nation and its neighboring states in the rate of new business formation.

From 1986 to 1987, the latest year for which statistics are available, business starts in Maryland increased 6.4 percent, compared with a 7.7 percent decline nationwide. In its December 1989 issue, Inc. Magazine ranked Maryland sixth, on a per capita basis, in terms of the 500 fastest-growing companies in the nation.

In 1988, Maryland had the seventh lowest business failure rate in the nation per 10,000 firms, and the lowest failure rate among neighboring states. Data from Dun & Bradstreet showed that Maryland's business failure rate per 10,000 firms was only 41, compared with 98 nationally. The probability of a business failure in Maryland was 58 percent lower than in the nation as a whole.

DEED's report showed Maryland's manufacturing employment continuing to decline, down 2.3 percent from last year. By comparison, the United States had a 0.2 percent gain in manufacturing employment. snow made on all of the trails Electrical and electronic equipment, Maryland's largest manufacturing sector, employed 35,000 workers, representing 17 percent of the total manufacturing employment figure of 206,000.

Printing and publishing employed 29,200 workers, followed by food and kindred products (24,600), nonelectrical machinery (17,600), chemicals (13,800), transportation equipment (11,800), primary metals (11,200) and fabricated metals (10,100). Overall, Maryland lost 18.6 percent of manufacturing jobs from 1973 to 1988.

The report also noted that while 47,700 manufacturing jobs were eliminated during this 15-year period, the Maryland economy had a net gain of 620,400 jobs. For each manufacturing job lost during these years, the Maryland economy added 14 jobs in the nonmanufacturing sector. During the most recent five-year period, the Maryland economy added 78 nonmanufacturing jobs for Evans pointed out that the state has an aggressive program under way designed to reverse the rate of manufacturing employment decline, and noted that from 1987 to 1988 the trend has not only slowed but appears to be reversing. "There vices (a category that includes were 900 manufacturing jobs added to the Maryland economy between 1987 and 1988. One of our top priorities is to increase productivity and job growth in Maryland's manufacturing industry," said Evans. "Manufacturing Matters in Maryland" is the name of the state's initiative, a cooperative effort of DEED, the Maryland Chamber of Commerce, Maryland Manufacturers' Association, the University of Maryland System, The Johns Hopkins University, Morgan State University and Maryland's community colleges.

Currently, nine of every 10 payroll workers in Maryland are employed in the nonmanufacturing sector. Ser-

Statistics from the Baltimore-Washington International Airport were also included in the year-end report, showing that from January through August 1989, nearly 7.0 million passengers used BWI Airport for domestic and international flights, compared with 6.62 million passengers during the same period in 1988, an increase of 5.7 percent. Air cargo movements increased 2.5 percent during 1989.

Evans said that while all signs point to continued growth and prosperity in Maryland during the coming year, both the state and the nation face greater challenges and increased opportunities in the next decade. "The changes in world politics and economies of the last few months mean new competition for products, resources and markets as well as new links with Eastern Bloc countries and with the European community," said Evans. "These changes will create new challenges and new opportunities for the Maryland

Tax revenues in Maryland have grown from $5.2 billion in 1987 to $5.8 billion in 1988, an increase the report attributes to a rapidly expanding Maryland economy that exceeds national growth figures. Per capita personal income in Maryland stood at $19,487 in 1988, up 7.0 percent from the previous year and 18 percent over the national average. It is the fifth highest in the nation.

Median household income was $32,119 as of December 1988, 31 percent above the national average and third highest in the nation. "These figures indicate the continued strength and vitality of the Maryland economy and the well-being of its residents," said Evans.

Retail sales in Maryland during the first nine months of 1989 totalled $25.2 billion, up $432 million from the same period last year. The modest 1.7 percent increase reflects a national and statewide decline in automobile sales, although sales of general merchandise increased 7.2 percent in Maryland and 7.3 percent nationally, according to the report.

Students who participated last year in the program, called Maryland's Tomorrow, has a 45 percent lower dropout rate than similar students considered to be at risk of dropping out of s-hool. The program last year served 3,000 students in 75 high schools in the 24 local school

In addition, the program is credited with a 26 percent reduction in the failure rate of participating students.

These announced at a state awards meeting today attended by officials of state agencies and private businesses involved in training and education. The meeting was sponsored by the State Department of Economic

"This is good news. We're more important to our state or our children in school,' Governor William Donald Schaefer said.

Maryland's Tomorrow was initiated by Governor Schaefer in the summer of 1987 to reduce the number of youths who drop out of school. Each year nearly 15,000 students drop out of school in Maryland.

The state provided $3 million for the program last year, and this money was augmented by $914,625 in federal funds under the Joint Training and Partnership Act (JTPA). The funds were distributed to the schools through the JTPA system of Private Industry Councils and Service Delivery Areas.

State Superintendent of Schools Joseph Shilling said

In future years, depending on available resources, plans call for expansion to have the same impact on older high school show it has had on ninth grade students. But the primary focus will remain on reaching ninth grade students who fit the profile of potential dropouts.

Dr. Shilling said one important finding of the evaluation report was the program had provided sufficient resources to make a real difference for atrisk, disadvantaged students.

"Reducing the dropout rate is one challenge we must meet head-on if we are to give our young people a real opportunity to become productive adults world," the superintendent

The challenge of keeping students in school, he said, is so joint program of the Institute important that it must be for Policy Studies of Johns that the Maryland's Tomorrow addressed, not only by the Hopkins University and the

Westvaco Notes Progress Against Chloroform

Westvaco Corporation, a major manufacturer of paper, packaging, and chemicals, reported this week on the solid results that have been achieved through late 1989 by the broad range of voluntary programs that are underway to reduce the formation of chloroform in pulp manufacturing at the Luke paper mill. As announced previously, the

This traditional form of bleaching, which has been used in the paper industry for a long time, produces chloroform as an unwanted by-product. Hypochlorite is the same chemical used daily throughout the world in swimming pools and house-

The company indicated that the whole series of programs, including a new $42.5 million projects and an additional $7 million program effort announced last year, will reduce the formation of chloroform by approximately 90 percent when completed. Substantial progress has already been made and completion of the work is expected by the fall Zimmerman, of 1990. By late 1989, the Luke mill had reduced the formation of chloroform by 81 percent. John A. Luke, president and chief executive officer of Westvaco, said that the voluntary programs are designed to significantly reduce chloroform emissions from its papermaking operations even though the company does not believe there is any danger in its workplaces or communities.

THE DREAM OF A BETTER TOMORROW FOR OUR CHILDREN

This is perhaps the most precious dream of all. For generations, Western Marylanders have invested more than money with First Federal-they've invested their most treasured dreams. And that's a trust we take more senously than we could possibly express.

Our level of liquidity and retained carnings most clearly expresses on a financial basis our commitment to conservative management and prudent investment. But more importantly in these turbulent financial times, every staff member of First Federal Savings Bank understands that we must continually earn the trust of the neighbors who trust their deposits with us. From the teller who takes the deposit, to the financial manager who invests it, we never forget that our first responsibility is to our neighbors.

There is no higher objective at First Federal Savings Bank than maintaining the trust and confidence of each Western Maryland neighbor who deposits with us.

Save with confidence.

as state and local government partnerships - Project Independence and Maryland's Tomorrow — were highlighted.

Project Independence is the state's education, employment and training program that helps recipients of Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC) obtain self-sufficiency through employment. It is operated by local PIC's, local departments of social services, and the state departments of education and economic and employment development. More than 60,000 Maryland families currently received public assistance. Maryland's Tomorrow was initiated to address the school dropout problem in Maryland. It is a partnership that combines the efforts of local schools with local PIC's to focus on "atrisk" students. It provides yearround support activities designed for dropout prevention. Over 15,000 students drop out of school each year in Maryland.

The results of a recently completed independent evaluation report on the Maryland's Tomorrow program will also be presented during the luncheon. The evaluation compared Maryland's Tomorrow students with a similar group of students during the first year of operation. The report indicates that students participating in the Maryland's Tomorrow program had a lower drop out rate, a lower failure rate, performed at a higher level on the Maryland Functional Tests and had a higher grade promotion rate than the comparison group of non-participants. The report will be released later this month.

The day-long event also included presentations by J. Randall Evans, secretary of economic and employment development (DEED), and workshops conducted by Marion Pines, senior fellow, The Johns Hopkins University, Institute for Policy Studies; Dr. Private Industry Councils in the

Schaefer Honors Project Independence

Participants At Annual Meeting

Schaefer honored graduates and high achievers of the Project Independence Program during the luncheon ceremony at the third Annual Awards Meeting of the Governor's Employment and Training Council, held last Thursday at the Annapolis Ramada Inn.

The Annual Awards Meeting provides a forum for the state to recognize outstanding local workforce investment programs and operations. Service Delivery Areas. Project Independence is Maryland's education, employment and training program that helps recipients of Aid to Families with Dependent Area Children (AFDC) obtain selfsufficiency through employment. Maryland began its welfare reform program as an outgrowth of Governor Schaefer's emphasis on enhancing the quality of life for more than 60,000 Maryland families on public assistance.

"These graduates represent the success of many thousands of Marylanders who are participating in workforce investment programs like Project Independence," said Governor Schaefer, "Their accomplishments are important to them and their families as well as to the many employers in Maryland who need well-trained workers."

Project Independence is a joint program of the Maryland Department of Human Resources, the Maryland Department of Economic and Employment Development and the Maryland Department of Education. The program is locally operated by partnership between the Private Industry Councils, Service Delivery Areas, Departments of Social Services, Department of Education and Economic Development Councils. "Through the Project Independence Program, participants are gaining a new sense of self-esteem, as well as becoming valuable to employers as members of Maryland's workforce," said J. Randall Evans, secretary of economic and employment development (DEED). "Project Independence assist them in joining the workforce, and also provides a much needed educational program." "It's exciting that Maryland is the first state in the nation to implement welfare reform in all jurisdictions," said Carolyn W. Colvin, secretary of human resources. "We are working diligently to help welfare clients become self-sufficient and employed. While training, clients will be given the necessary support like day care, transportation and medical assistance to ensure their success." Through Project Independence, individuals learn and improve their job skills and are recommended and referred for employment. Federal law request AFDC recipients throughout the country to participate in welfare reform initiatives such as Maryland's

they are exempt. For more information on the Project Independence Program, persons may call 1-800-332-6347, or contact their local Department of Social Service or Service Delivery

A public informational meeting held Tuesday evening by the Garrett County Sanitary District yielded an unfavorable response by the public to the proposal of abandoning the Cherry Glade Run Sanitary District, north of Oakland.

The proposal was set forth by the Oakland Mayor and Town Council for the Garrett County Commissioners to abandon the district, so that Oakland could then govern the district. Following a brief summary of the project, alternatives were discussed, one of which was the abandonment of the district, according to Wendell R. Beitzel, administrator of the Garrett County Sanitary District.

Beitzel explained there were still problems to be solved before considering such a move, stating, "Even if all is resolved with the Town of Oakland, it appears it is going to be difficult to abandon the district because of the sentiment of opposition expressed at the public meeting."

According to Beitzel, the Town of Oakland now feels it was a mistake for the Cherry Glade Run Sanitary District to be created in the first place.

Beitzel said the commission had responded by stating, "We (the Sanitary District) also were in agreement that the district should not have been created, but did so at the request of the Oakland Mayor and Town Council. We feel that Oakland should honor their commitment."

Beitzel further explained that the Cherry Glade Run Sanitary district was created under a different mayor and town council than now exists.

He added that the Sanitary District has received a billing from Oakland in the amount of $48,250 for the local capital cost portion and permit fees in the

Funds Included In State Budget

The Southern High School renovation project is "one step closer to reality this week," stated District 1-A Delegate George Edwards, who reported that funds for the project in the amount of $4,661,000 have been included in Volume Three of the Maryland State Capital Budget Proposal. "If all goes as expected," Delegate Edwards said, 'school construction should begin this summer." Pending legislative approval for the funds, which have already been approved by the Interagency on School Construction, bids will open in April, stated Edwards.

Edwards added that realization of the project "looks very favorable," pointing to the project's inclusion in the printed budget volume as an independent project.

Del. Edwards also reported that the amount includes $300,000 for the proposed auxiliary gymnasium at Southern High School.

He also stated that funding for a number of other projects has been included in the Maryland State Capital Budget including: $250,000 for the Garrett County Public Safety facility, $250,000 for the Garrett County-Deep Creek Lake Sewerage Treatment facility, $208,000 for the Friendsville Water Improvement Project, $500,000 for the Oakland Water Commissioners this week Service (an agency of the announced the completion of a Department of Natural draft recycling plan for the county which has been submitted to the Maryland Department of the Environment, the Maryland Environmental Service and the Garrett County Roads Department.

According to commissioner Ernest J. Gregg, the draft plan includes the goals and objectives for the county's comprehensive recycling program and identifies several options for implementation of the program

Gregg stated that Garrett County is among only six counties in the state that has drafted a plan for recycling. He further stated that the information in the draft plan will be refined over the next several months and then incorporated into the county's final recycling plan to be

But the report notes that is it "economically infeasible" to do so because of the county's population distribution, geographic characteristics and distance form recycling markets.

The draft plan further states that Garrett County has investigated the possibilities of participating in a regional recycling program with neighboring counties but that option is also restricted because of geographic factors.

Juveniles Escape, Apprehended By Md. State Police

The Maryland State Police were able to apprehend four male escapees from the Backbone Mountain Youth Center about four hours after they left the center on Monday evening.

William Golden, 18, and three juveniles, fled the center around 7:45 p.m.

Golden was charged in the escape and is being held in the Garrett County Jail on $5,000 full bond.

Tpr. L.N. Smith and a K-9 unit trailed the four youths to an area approximately five miles east of the facility. The four were apprehended just after midnight, without incident.

Tfc. D.G. Riggleman investigated. Gregory Sayre, 24, Oakland,

Southern G.C. Elementary

Schools Garrett County Superintendent of Schools, Dr. Jerome Ryscavage, met with Garrett County Commissioners this week to discuss concerns with the elementary schools in the southern end of the county. Commissioner Groves stated that the oldest schools in the county are the elementary schools in the southern end, and that Dr. Ryscavage has requested the board to undergo a study to determine a solution for the fate of these schools. Of significance, according to Groves, is the issue of whether to approve new constructions or renovations versus consolida tion of schools.

Out-Of-County School Attendance

Also discussed at this week by the county commissioners was the issue of out-of-county school attendance by county residents which, according to Commissioner Gregg, is practical in some cases but not in others.

Gregg noted that the same amount of money is spent for those students who live in Garrett County and attend school elsewhere as is spent on those who attend in-county. He explained that the question to be considered is whether this method is cheaper than busing

Wildlands Commission It was announced this week by the Garrett County Commissioners that an Oakland resident, Ron Stemple, chief forestor for Allegheny Wood Products, Inc. was named to serve on the Wildlands Commission, a state program created out of the "wildlands concept," according to Commissioner Groves.

The concept, stated Groves, is that designated state forest land not be managed. In other words, he said, "Certain parcels of land are set aside and left alone to let nature take its course." This concept includes no timbering on these lands.

Three Vehicles 219 Accident

Three vehicles were involved in an accident on Rt. 219 when an Oakland man failed to yield the right-of-way while making a turn, according to Maryland State Police reports.

Eric William Eiswert, 19, Oakland, was northbound on Rt. 219 in a Dodge Vista on Monday, January 8 around 1 p.m. Eiswert attempted to make a left-hand turn into the parking lot of the Trading Post, but Sailed to yield the right-of-way. Eiswert's vehicle was struck by a Ford Bronco driven by Jerry K. Boling, 41, Fairmont, W.Va. Boling's vehicle slid sideways and was struck by a Chevrolet van driven by Douglas James Hixson, 32, Somerset, Pa.

Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad responded and Eiswert was taken to Garrett County Memorial Hospital, where he was treated and released. Tfc. J.K. Moore investigated the incident and Eiswert was charged with failure to yield right-of-way.

Russell Martin Long, 19, Vienna, Va., was traveling west-bound on U.S. Rt. 48 in a Ford truck when he lost control of his vehicle and skidded onto an embankment and the vehicle overturned. Long was traveling with Stephen Oliver Hurd, 19, Morgantown, W.Va. in the January 10th accident which occurred around 10:30 p.m. Tpr. J.L. Meyers investigated the incident and Long was charged with failure to control vehicle speed and driving while under the influence.

Kathryn Marie Dillsworth, 52, McHenry, was traveling southbound on Marsh Hill Road when she attempted to make a right-hand turn into the Wisp Ski Resort on January 10 at 6 p.m. Dillsworth's vehicle skidded on ice and snowcovered roadways and struck the curb. Tfc. D.G. Riggleman investigated.

Kenneth Junior Biser, 57, Deer Park, was traveling west on Rt. 39 on January 12 around 9 a.m. when a vehicle driven by Robert G. Mayfield, 37, Terra Alta, W.Va., skidded on the snow-covered road and struck Biser's vehicle head-on.

Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad responded and Mayfield and two passengers in the Biser vehicle, Edith Biser, 40, and Angela Biser, 19, were taken to Garrett County Memorial Hospital, where they were treated and released.

Tfc. J.E. Foley investigated.

DREAM OF A BETTER TOMORROW FOR OUR CHILDREN

This is perhaps the most precious dream of all. For generations, Western Marylanders have invested more than money with First Federal-they've invested their most treasured dreams. And that's a trust we take more seriously than we could possibly express.

Our level of liquidity and retained earnings most clearly expresses on a financial basis our commitment to conservative management and prudent investment. But more importantly in these turbulent financial times, every staff member of First Federal Savings Bank understands that we must continually carn the trust of the neighbors who trust their deposits with us. From the teller who takes the deposit, to the financial manager who invests it, we never forget that our first responsibility is to our neighbors.

There is no higher objective at First Federal Savings Bank than maintaining the trust and confidence of each Western Maryland neighbor who deposits with us.

Beitzel stated that for the past eight years, "the District has been in a construction mode" wherein "nearly $40 million of improvements on water and sewer systems has been completed." Beitzel then stated, "The District now must prepare for a to further discuss means of transition from a construction mode to an operational mode," adding that the facilities must operate in compliance with federal and state requirements. He stressed that "user support and co-operation are essential" for the success of the systems.

Noting the addition of an engineer to the staff, eliminating the need to hire outside consultants, Beitzel praised the staff for its "superb administrative support." He went on to say that the staff had been operating in an efficient, as well as highly effective,

Teacher Talk . . .

Just what is happening in education in America? The latest "report card" for our nation's students released by the Educational Testing Service is dismal at best, noting no improvement or a decline in writing and reading skills in most regions of the country since the early 1970s. Our students continue to lag well behind those of the majority of other developed nations in nearly every subject.

Is it too much television and video games? Is it the deterioration of the family unit in America? Is it too much emphasis and time spent on noneducational activities? Is life just too easy in America? Is it mismanagement of education funds and systems? Is it incompetency on the part of our teachers and school administrators? It is too much politics? Are parents too busy trying to make ends meet to get involved in their children's education the way they should? We suspect that all of the above, and many other factors, are playing a role in this national crisis. At least one editorial could be written about each one of them. Today we will select the teaching profession in America and suggest how it might be improved.

Teachers in Europe and the Far East are considered true professionals and enjoy a respect that is virtually non-existent in America. In some cases, a lack of respect may be warranted. We suggest that the teaching career in America should be "elevated" to the same status as that of a physician, engineer, or attorney. We propose that the college curriculum to become a teacher be changed from four years minimum to five or six years minimum and, along with that, entry-level salaries be comparable to those of other professionals. Such a system would tend to better weed out those persons who would be incompetent as teachers and encourage the more outstanding students to consider teaching as a career instead of going into research, industry, or another profession that pays higher salaries.

We would like to see a change in the salary schedule for teachers, which currently gives annual increases to the least experienced teachers and then terminates the increases for the most experienced teachers (those with 20 years or more). The current system seems to be just backward.

We would also like to see the end of tenure, which in general protects the weak teacher, and the initiation of merit pay for the more outstanding teachers.

We would like to see major reform in the teachers' unions, which are composed of teachers who want to be treated as professionals, but often use tactics and behavior more common to those of blue-collar unions.

We've said it before and we'll keep on saying it there is no job more important than teaching. When is our nation going to wake up to that fact?

Letters to the Editor

To me Editor:

1 am writing in reply to friend's" letter on Jan. 11. I am not writing to cause an argument, but merely to let my point of view be heard vmpathize with this lady her situation. More so, l impathize with her husband. Masse if he had more support and understanding, he would med help. Her opinion is rebe tell but does not relate in any way to us. Neither Dewane re dependant on mari-Julium. We do not do any other type of drugs nor do we drink which blows the theory hat pot leads to harder drugs. We have never neglected our daughter or let our bills go unpaid for a daily high. I have not had any since our arrest and neither has Dewane

I'd like everyone to know, I am not pulling out my hair, biting my nails, or abusing my daughter waiting for a fix. We have not had withdrawal symptoms of any, and the only harm it has done us is put me on a welfare list to make a living.

As for facing my life alone, wrong again, I have our families and friends to help me and keep me company. My parents, as well as Dewane's, are very supportive. They do not feel we have done anything that bad to be treated like this. We all agree with Dewane's letter 100% and congratulate it's about time someone spoke out for our rights. I feel if we choose to smoke in the privacy of our home, we should have the freedom to do so. The constitution was written for everyone. In fact, some of the most famous names on that paper were pot smokers.

It bothers me most that people can put down marijuana when they have no real knowledge of it. It is not addictive, and cannot be overdosed on. You have to consume 1500 pounds in 15 minutes to overdose. Now I know I can't do that, can you? I do read a lot of literature on this subject and wish everyone else would. As for my daughter and my marriage, I am proud to say they are both fine. She is eight years old and very bright. Her classmates have not bothered her at all. Her opinion was, "Everyone should mind their own business." She is against drugs and says she will never try them. I cannot honestly say she won't, but can you honestly say yours won't or aren't now? I can only say I hope she grows up decent a person as her dad.

Marijuana has not made us bad people. Dewane has been a kind and giving person. He helped anyone who asked. He constantly sought permanent employment. His personality is what made me fall in love with him. He brought me through some of the worst problems in my life. His love and support are what keeps me going today. I will never leave him or turn my back on him. I am behind him in everything he does. I love him more today than the day I said "I do. Marijuana has not personally harmed me either. I was always a very nervous and uptight person. It helped me keep off of nerve pills in the past. No one can tell me that has been bad for me. It helped me have an appetite, which has not harmed me either. For every bad point you can give me, other than being illegal, I can counteract base an opinion on it. Again, I sympathize with this anonymous friend, but your husband had to be addicted to something other than just marijuana. If you were to tell me that's all he was hooked on, I would personally and publicly apologize. I am also asking that if you have any more responses that you write to us. We will answer your letters. Please do not bother the editor of this good paper any longer. I thank all who have shown support and openness in these trying times. Dewane, I love you!

The Mind Wanders

Poor, helpless creatures. That's what they are. I refer to husbands/fathers. At least this is what I hear from about 75 percent of the happily married wives I know and love. I suppose they - we - remain happily hitched because we have accepted the poor, helpless nature of our mates.

A dear friend of mine related to me this scenario just the

"My husband," she laughed, "took the kids skiing on Sunday afternoon. Before choosing skis he was asked the height and weight of the kids. He told them that our teen-aged son was four feet, two inches tall and weighed 120 pounds. If that wasn't bad enough, he said our nine-year-old daughter towered at three feet and weighed 90 pounds! (The son in question is five feet, five inches and weighs 90 pounds, and I haven't seen a three foot nineyear-old since "The Wizard Of Oz.")

"This assessment of my daugher would make her as round as she is tall," chuckled my friend.

After a few good yuks about Janet's roly-poly Weeble child, we recovered long enough to ponder how some men manage to survive in this confusing world

It's amazing how the simplest of questions can throw some men into a complete tailspin. 'What kind of dressing would you like on your salad?," the waitress asks the head of the family "Um...mm," papa stammers as he frantically searches his wife's eyes for the answer. "And what vegetables?" the smiling waitress further

"Uh...uh," hubby gasps, once again imploring his wife for

By the time the now hysterical waitress asks how daddy wants his steak cooked, daddy is reduced to a pool of pure panic. "Daddy doesn't have a clue," whispers the toddler to her

These men haven't always been clueless. "My husband did have to choose his own laundry detergent and iron his own shirts ofter he left his mother and before he married me," quipped one wife. "That was between June, 1970 and June, 1972. We conclude that even now these helpless creatures could recall what years their children were born and recite their own social security numbers if they didn't rely so heavily on their personal memory banks - their wives Behind every great man is a great woman. Probably, but by the same token, behind every great married woman is a terrific guy who realizes it's time to reach his full potential and take on more responsibility at home. He's learning the three C's cooking, cleaning and car-pooling. So perhaps we can overlook the fact that he doesn't know the difference between Roquefort

To the Editor: A book by Ben Wattenberg, The Births Dearth, published about a year ago, has attracted best point of departure for a discussion of the sociological consequences of present population trends in the United States within the framework of the population shifts in

V.J. Chalupa, JUD, reviewed The Births Dearth in the January 1990 issue of Social Justice Review. I quote from Chalupa's

The population growth in the United States fell below reproduction level in 1972 and is still falling. In spite of this, the population is still growing in absolute numbers due to the extended life span of the older generations, and will continue to do so until the year 2020. By then, the numerous elderly will inevitably die and the popudonations to: NORML, 2001 S. lation will begin to shrink at an ever accelerating rate until it reaches 208 million in 2100.

"The economy will feel the effects of this development in the immediate future as the less numerous generations grow into their productive age and the more numerous older generations retire. The relative burden of sustaining the lives the very young and the very oldper member of the productive group as the proportion of nonproducers increases in relation to the producers.

"The funds consumed by the non-producers will decrease the share of the national product available for research, development and investment and slow down the economy. The economy will be further disrupted when the population reaches the point of decreasing in absolute numbers. Fixed assets (housing, production capacity) adequate for a larger population will be excessive for a smaller population and will

society gives practically no training. That job is being a good parent, and the parent is the most important teacher a child will ever have. Admittedly being a good parent is a tough job. I would like to give two examples of common problems that parents experience and suggestions on how to solve them. The first is picking up toys. Children often fail to pick up their toys making extra work for adults. One way to handle this problem is to deny the child the use of those toys for a period of

1. (First) Get a large box, such as a grocer's cardboard box, and tell the child that toys left lying around will be put in that box. 2. Anything put in the box may not be removed until the following day or until a particular day like Saturday or Sunday. enhance drug treatment during pregnancy and to expand Medical

3. You may help motivate the child by counting the number of toys that are put in the box during the first week. Offer him or her a special treat or privilege at the end of the second week if there are fewer toys in the box. 4. Since the purpose is to teach the child to be tidy, it is important to offer praise when he or she does pick up the toys. 5. The advantage of this system is that it eliminates the need for nagging; "Howard pick up your toys!" Once the box idea is established, you can stop reminding the child about picking up.

The responsibility has now become the childs The child who continually argues is another tough problem for parents. The child is usually either trying to get attention or attempting to get out of doing something. Here are some rules to help you deal with an argumentative child.

1. Establish a rule about arguing; "We don't seem to get anywhere arguing. I'm not going to argue with you anymore." 2. If a child starts to argue after you have refused a request, say nothing further. Go on about your business, and do not look at the child or say a word. Do not encourage arguing by paying attention to it. 3. If a child starts to argue after being told to do something, repeat the demand firmly. If the child still argues, ignore what he or she is saying and physically help with the task. 4. When a child does not argue, give praise right away. Say "Thank you for getting ready for bed" or "That's good. You did not beg for another cookie when I told you 'No!' " Follow immediately with a hug.

These suggestions were taken from the book, What Do I Do New? by Alan M. Hofmeister, Ph.D.

I hope they are helpful in the quest to be a better parent.

Maryland's 1989 Deer Harvest Is All-Time Record

Hunters bagged 34,200 whitetailed deer during Maryland's 1989 firearms season, Nov. 25-Dec. 2, according to the Department of Natural Resources. This year's harvest exceeds last year's record by nearly 10,000 deer.

The deer harvest was up in every county except Worcester, where in 1988 hunters were allowed to take two deer during the firearms season, because of an over-abundance of deer. This year hunters were limited to one deer in that county, unless they purchased a second-deer stamp Overall, this year's record will not have an adverse effect on the state's deer herd, reports Josh Sandt, forest wildlife program manager for the Department of Natural Resource's Forest, Park and Wildlife Service.

We had 140,000 to 150,000 deer when the season began," he said. "We should harvest 35 to 40 percent of the herd to maintain a stable population."

Based on a preliminary analysis of harvest records from county checking stations, Sandt does not believe the proportion of doe in the deer-kill increased significantly this year. "Hunters killed a much larger number of antlered deer. Because of that, I expect the buck kill will be down next year," he said after reviewing checking station records

Sandt attributes the size of this year's deer kill to several factors, including a plentiful supply of deer, ideal weather conditions on opening day, and the availability of the "second deer" stamp.

Deer have been increasing in number steadily throughout Maryland for the past decade. They now are abundant in every county in the state, and in many areas they are too numerous, he

Hunters had the opportunity to purchase a special stamp this year, to allow them to take a second deer during the firearms

Another factor in the record harvest was a change in hunting regulations which allowed hunters with antlerless deer permits to take antlerless deer in Garrett, Allegany, Washington and Frederick counties during the regular firearms season. In the past, antlerless deer hunting in those counties were limited to a special season held following the regular firearms season. Permitting hunting for antlerless and antlered deer at the same time helped to maintain heavier than usual hunting pressure throughout the season. More than one-third of the deer bagged during the firearms season came from these four

The unofficial combined antlered and antlerless deer kill totals for Garrett County for was 3,899, compared to 2,498 in the 1988 season. Garrett's total was second highest among the 23 counties. Allegany County's harvest of 4,050 led the state.

Vandals Drive Bulldozer Through New Weigh Station

A bulldozer was driven through a large metal building the weigh station construction site on Big Savage Mountain on U.S. Rt. 48 by vandals sometime last night and damage has been estimated at $8,000, according to Maryland State Police.

Apparently the person persons took a piece of equipment and ran it into the truck inspection building at the rear of the property. Damage to the northwest corner of the building was estimated at $5,000 and damage to building materials was estimated at $3,000, according to a report filed by Tpr. P.R. Brown,

Lake Management Office Completes Water Study

The Deep Creek Lake Management Office has announced it recently completed its water quality assessment of the lake for the summer 1989 season. Lake Management employees made extensive measurements of such things as temperature, pH, turbidity, nutrient levels, chemical and heavy metal concentrations. A copy of the report is available for review at the Lake Management Office. Conclusions from the study are similar to previous studies on the lake's condition. The Office will use the data obtained to provide baseline measurements for comparison in future years. The water quality monitoring program will be done annually, with the goal of determining long term trends in water quality.

The study was completed by Daniel J. Feller and Michael J. Pinder, graduate students from Frostburg State University. Others assisting were Greg Gruber of the Maryland Resources Administration, Ray Morgan of the Appalachian Environmental Laboratory, and Tony Abar of the Bureau of Mines. These individuals provided assistance in the form of study design, equipment, and sample analysis.

construction of the sewer system as it relates to the Cherry Glade Run district.

"With the exception of some disagreement on the number of ERU's (equivilant residential units) the Town of Oakland takes into account, the Sanitary District has no major problems with the bill except for the permit fees," said Beitzel.

Beitzel added that the Sanitary Commission will try to obtain financing in order to pay the Town of Oakland back in one lump sum. He noted that an Ad Valorum tax would most likely be the method for this financing.

At the regular meeting of the Garrett County Sanitary Commission, held following the public meeting, Beitzel stated that a User Charge System has been adopted for the Cherry Glade Run Sanitary District, and that an invoice prepared by Oakland was rejected by the commission based on the fact that the invoice was for the fourth quarter for operation and Beitzel noted that the fourth quarter covers the period from November 1 to December 31, and adds that the commission did not have a final cost accounting for the Cherry Glade users at the time. He stated that the Sanitary District did not even advise Cherry Glade Run residents to connect to the system until November, and that some residents had not connected at all by the end of the fourth quarter.

Beitzel remarked that the commission will review both costs but that "the permit discharge fee will most certainly so goes Frostburg State University," said President Herb. F. Reinhard, "and vice versa," explaining why the 4700-student campus has vigorously pursued such public service affiliations in the past as the 1989 World Whitewater Championships, Cumberland Summer Theatre, and the Rocky Gap Festival. And in the new decade ahead, the educator with a strong belief in fostering active community involvement sees FSU working even harder at maintaining its vital joint efforts with Allegany County and all of Western Maryland. A prime example is this year's coup: FSU will host the Maryland State Games July 20-22. "We need to do everything we can and use all the resources we have to assist Western Maryland in economic development, in promoting the tourism industry and, generally, in raising the region's pride. As a public institution, I believe we have that obligation," Reinhard said. He feels such a role reflects positively on the University. "It depicts to the average person," he noted, "that here's an institution in Western Maryland that's not in an ivory tower but instead wants to assist the citizens of the area by promoting and helping to make successful events such as Whitewater. Rocky Gap, and the State Games. In one way, FSU's serious commitment to such public service helps set the campus apart, statewide, from others in the recently organized University of Maryland System.

Reinhard cites FSU's recent progress and growth, especially in the two and one-half years

On the academic front, the University has equally ambitious plans for this year and into the 1990's. With a growing student enrollment, but internally capped at 5-6 percent growth per year, the University has several new construction projects in planning with the hope of breaking ground very soon. The first expected to get underway will be a 3700 square foot expansion to an on-campus food facility called The Greenhouse, in the Lane University Center. Bids are due back in February on the $250,000 project, which should take about three months to build.

Also, in June or July, FSU plans to begin construction on the first of a new residence hall complex, to be built on the Loop Road near the Monument to Mining. Designed apartmentstyle, the 200-bed facility will Improvement project, $70,000 for the planned renovation of the Bear Creek Fish Hatchery in Accident, and maintenance monies for the Meadow Mountain and Backbone Mountain Youth Centers.

Edwards stated that the Garrett County Public Safety facility plan calls for the construction of an 11,200 square foot, one-story masonry building at the intersection of Rts. 219 and 42 in McHenry that would house the administrative functions of the Maryland State Police, the Maryland Depart-

Fire Marshal

An adjacent 8,500 square foot building would house a full-service garage for storage and communication purposes, according to Edwards.

The five-year plan for the facility would allocate funds in the amount of $3,980,000 for construction and equipment, said Edwards.

The renovation plan for the Fish Hatchery calls for fish production there to double by next year, said Edwards. The amount that is hoped for in the five-year plan is $1,400,000, he said.

Edwards noted that the project includes the design and construction of six to eight new concrete buildings, including the renovation of the existing office and shop buildings, four new cool-water rearing ponds, site improvements and a facility to treat fish waste.

Edwards also noted that the latest report issued on the state budget indicated that it is $50 million over in spending affordability

"If the decrease of population points toward economic decline and deterioration, its international consequences are much more ominous. Because the growth rate of the rest of the world, especially in the Third World countries, will fall much slower than that of the United States (and of all industrial democracies in general), the numerical relationship between the U.S. and the rest of the world will change dramatically. At present, the United States with its 247 million (projection for 1990) represents 43/4% of the 5204 million world population.

"In 2020, at its peak of 277 million, it will represent 31/2% of the 7814 million people in the world, and in 2100 208 million, it will be a mere 1.97% of a world of 10,571 million people. This shift cannot fail to cause a political and cultural upheaval within the United States. At present, USA influences the entire world and radiates its strength and military power. As an economically failing and military weak society it will not be able to preserve its values against the cultural, economic and political pressure of an overwhelming majority of mankind in which democratic institutions and a market economy never took roots. Wattenberg considers this development as undesirable. In order to avoid it, he urges a reversal of the population trend in the United States through increase of the number of children. For his given purpose, i.e., preservation of present American values, a drastic increase of immigration would not serve. The immigration would unavoidably come from areas where American institutions and culture are not dominant, and the influx from these areas would weaken the United States internally and hasten the demise of American

On New Year's Day, my family and I were visiting friends at their cabin near the Wisp resort. At noon, my 2-year-old son fell and sustained a serious head injury. We called 911 for help. Emergency personnel arrived quickly, in spite of the blizzard in progress, and were brought up the hill to us by a 4-wheel drive vehicle. As soon as they examined the baby, they called for a helicopter to transport him to Shock-Trauma. They strapped the baby to a backboard to immobilize him so he could be moved to their ambulance and taken to invited to attend for an evening of worship and fellowship.

The hill was long, steep, and very slippery, and a 4-wheel drive ambulance got stuck halfway up. We had to get the baby to a second ambulance waiting at the bottom of the hill. So the Emergency Medical Technicians (EMTs) loaded the baby into a 4-wheel-drive wagon, and my wife and friends led us down the hill in another 4-wheeler. Both lost control due to the extreme slippery conditions, and collided hard in a wreck that totaled one vehicle and seriously damaged the other. But nothing seemed to matter to anyone except getting the baby to the hospital. The helicopter had to cancel due to the blizzard, so the ambulance took us to Oakland. At the hospital the baby was stabilized, treated and began to recover quickly, although his skull was fractured.

We are from Annapolis, and we are proud of the emergency medical services available here. But we were absolutely overwhelmed by the help we received that day. The ambulance personnel, the state police, the men from the Highway Department, the doctors, nursing staff and technicians at Garrett

County Memorial Hospital . . . all were heroes in this rescue. Their professionalism and dedication to helping my son were unforgettable. We are expecially grateful to Fran Pope and Rayma Weeks, the EMTs who aided my boy and endured that terrifying accident on the hill, and to Phil Rook, who has to be one of the best ambulance

Southern Girls Lose To Fort Hill, Allegany

The Southern High girls' varsity basketball team dropped to 4-5 this week when they lost to Fort Hill, 41-37, last Thursday night in Oakland and then fell to powerful Allegany last night, 50-35, in Cumberland. The Rams will attempt to rebound next Wednesday night at Bishop Walsh.

The Rams led the Fort Hill Sentinels throughout most of the first half, holding an 8-6 advantage after the first quarter and an 18-14 halftime advantage. But the Sentinels came back strong in the third stanza behind the shooting of Michelle Clise to out-score the Rams 23-4 in that period to take a commanding 37-22 lead. Clise scored all of her 13 points in that quarter and the Fort Hill fullcourt defense almost totally shut down the Southern offense

Heather Shepherd finished with 11 points for the Sentinels, while the Rams were paced by Melinda Evick and Shelly Cannon, who each netted eight points.

The win evened Fort Hill's record at 5-5.

The Southern jayvee girls' team won the preliminary contest, edging the Fort Hill junior varsity, 35-32. Alayna Harkins and Erin Dabney led the junior Rams with nine and eight points, respectively.

The 8-1 Allegany Campers proved to be too much once again this season for the Rams, as Tina Kearchner led the winners with 17 points and Stacie Smith grabbed 12 rebounds and recorded an incredible 12 block-

The Rams trailed at the end of the first quarter, 12-6, were down 20-16 at halftime, and were behind 36-28 after three quarters.

The Rams were forced to foul in the fourth quarter and the Campers capitalized on 10 of 16 free throws in that period to insure their win.

Evick led the Rams with 16 points and 10 rebounds.

The Southern junior varsity girls were victorious in the MARYLAND PROJECT SUPER FIT is a project in the public school system designed to promote participation in health fitness activities by the youth of the state. The program involves taking a test which measures flexibility, strength, and cardiorespiratory fitness. When the test was first administered to ninth grade girls at Southern High School in September of last year, not one of the 90 girls passed all four areas of the test, according to Helen Rostosky, physical education teacher at Southern. However, after several months of instruction and physical training, the test was administered to the same girls in December and 21 of them passed all four segments, while many just missed passing. Mrs. Rostosky said the testing will be done again in May and the goal is for 75 percent of the Southern sophomores to pass. Pictured are those who passed the test in December and received their excellence awards from the state. The Northern High varsity girls dropped to 5-5 on the season last night when they were flattened by Westmar, 64-17, in Accident. The Huskies will jump from the frying pan into the fire on Saturday when they travel to powerful Allegany for a 7 p.m. contest.

The Wildcats, now 11-2 on the season, jumped out to a 14-1 lead by the end of the first quarter and were on top 25-7 by halftime. Dawn Sloan, Lisa Green, and Marcie Wildman led the Wildcats with 17, 16, and 14 points, respectively.

Kristin Edwards scored 10 of Northern's points.

In the preliminary contest, the Northern junior varsity girls were nipped by the Westmar jayvees, 17-16. Northern's Cora Thomas led all scorers with seven points, while Missy Russell netted six to lead Westmar.

Southern Jayvees Whip Eagles, Spartans To Up Record To 10-0

The Southern High School Kurtz added 12 and Jeff Spencer junior varsity boys' basketball team, coached by Jim Bosley, remained undefeated this past week, despite losing their top scorer to a severe ankle injury.

Playing without the services of Britten Martin, the junior Rams defeated East Preston Monday night, 57-47, in Terra Alta and then held on for a 40-38 overtime win last night at Bishop Walsh. The victories upped the Rams' record to 10-0, which they will take to Mt. Savage this Friday night and to Petersburg on Tuesday.

Martin played in the early part of Monday's contest, but went down with the ankle injury and has been out of action since. He will not play this Friday and is listed as questionable for the Petersburg game.

Nathan Dixon picked up the slack for the Rams in scoring against East Preston, as he finished with 24 points. Dave netted 10 for the Rams, while Rich Kelly paced the Eagles with 12 points. Mike Duling, the Rams' second leading scorer, also sustained an ankle injury in the game, but was able to return for

No more than four points separated the two teams last night and the score was knotted at 34-34 at the end of regulation time. The Rams had the final shot in the fourth period, but missed. They out-scored their hosts 6-4 in the extra period to record the win.

Mastectomy Group Organizes To Provide Women With Moral Support

Judy Wilt, L.P.N., started the Garrett County Post-Mastectomy group after her experiences as the Reach to Recovery Program Coordinator led her to realize the need for a group to provide women with breast cancer the opportunity to talk about their experiences.

"We started the group because there are many, many mastectomy patients in Garrett ounty who didn't really have nyone to talk to. We don't give medical information; we're more of a moral support group," said Wilt.

The Post-Mastectomy Group is open to women who have had mastectomies and women who have been diagnosed as having breast cancer. Wilt explained that the group has discussed opening every other meeting to husbands, to provide the opportunity for the husband to understand better what is happening and how to support their wives through a difficult time.

Currently there are two men. whose wives have undergone mastectomies, who meet with husbands and talk about their experiences.

The Post-Mastectomy Group does not give medical information. "We feel that every surgeon should let the woman know what the options are and talk about what is best for each woman. We're more of a moral support group," said Wilt. Wilt has been the Reach to Recovery Coordinator for Garrett County since 1988. The program is sponsored by the American Cancer Society and Garrett County Memorial Hospital, and provides mastectomy patients with a one-on-one visitation. A former mastectomy patient visits a woman prior to or immediately following surgery, to talk about each other's experiences. The American Cancer Society provides the new patient with helpful items, including a bra, a temporary prosthesis, a pillow, exercise ball and rope and several pamphlets.

Breast cancer is one of the largest leading cancers in women. It is estimated that 2,700 new cases of breast cancer would be diagnosed in Maryland and that 800 women would die of the disease

There are several treatment options to consider once breast cancer has been diagnosed, including simple mastectomies, modified radical mastectomies. radiation therapy, lumpectomies, chemotherapy and mastectomies, followed by implants

But as Wilt explained, the key is prevention. The group encourages women to have annual physicals and mammograms done regularly.

'We're not sure what causes breast cancer, but it is recommended to eat lots of fruits and vegetables and less red meat,"

The Post-Mastectomy Group meets the fourth Tuesday of each month at 7 p.m. in the board room at Garrett County Memorial Hospital. For additional information on the group, call Judy Wilt at (301) 334-9200.

Heck's will receive a nominal consideration for its retail operation, but R.A.C. will assume all related expenses and burdens of those operations. The retail division's base rental expenses to be assumed by R.A.C. are approximately $3.5 million per annum, and mortgage liabilities to be assumed by R.A.C. will exceed $22 million. Under the letter of intent, Heck's will begin immediately to reduce its retail inventory levels.

contemplates that, with respect to the retail locations it acquires from Heck's, and any new retail locations opened in the future, R.A.C. will purchase automotive products exclusively from Heck's Steel City division, for a period of three years. Currently, purchases of automotive mastectomies, products by Heck's retail division from Steel City average about $5 million per year. In return, R.A.C. will be granted warrants to purchase Heck's common stock at a price based upon the average market price of the stock over the 10-day period immediately preceding the effective date of the definitive agreements. The amount of warrants will vary, depending on the level of purchases made by R.A.C. from Steel City, up to a maximum of seven percent of Heck's outstanding stock if purchases over the three-year period are increased by approximately $10

> The letter of intent is not binding on R.A.C. and the consummation of the transactions contemplated by the letter of intent is subject to a satisfactory completion of "due diligence" review by R.A.C., by January 31, 1990. Completion of the transactions also is subject to the execution of definitive agreements containing customary terms and closing conditions and, with respect to the purchase of Heck's assets and the assumption of Heck's liabilities by R.A.C., also to the approval of Heck's shareholders. If shareholder approval is not obtained, the letter of intent contemplates that R.A.C. may continue to operate its new retail business financial results, and management has recently begun to explore expansion opportunities for this business. In the fiscal year ended February 1989, Steel City Products' revenues were $30.3 million, and its operating profits were $1.8 million. Steel City Products currently has a net worth of about $8 million. Commenting on the termination of Heck's retail operations, John Isaac Jr., Heck's chairman noted that the Take 10 Discount Club concept which the Company had recently introduced was well received by Heck's customers, with over half a million members signed tv. up, accompanied by a reversal of declining sales trends, but that these factors have not yet led to acceptable operating results. The Company estimates that operating losses from the retail division in its third quarter ended November 25, 1989, were about $8 million, reflecting short-term costs of the introduction of the Take 10 program, exacerbated by the difficult retail climate, especially in West Virginia, where more than half the Company's stores are located.

Company's reorganizations) of about $9 million. Isaac referred to the highly competitive Christmas season, with many retailers offering significant discounts in an effort to stimulate sales and reduce inventories, and noted that this retail climate is not conducive to the successful growth of the Take 10 program without a continuation of operating losses, which management finds to be unacceptable.

In the first six months of the

retail operations incurred a loss

Isaac said that, in the opinion of Heck's Board, the contemplated agreements with R.A.C. provide the best opportunity presently available to Heck's to curtail operating losses so as to preserve value for Heck's shareholders. At the same time, employment opportunities are expected to be available for many Heck's employees in R.A.C.'s new suppliers. Maarten Hemsley, Heck's dent. chief financial officer, said that a substantial write-off would be recorded as result of the discontinuance of Heck's retail business. The amount, which has not yet been finalized, will be reflected in the results for the quarter ended November 25.

Currently, fraternities and sororities based at FSU have no on-campus residential space. Some, however, rent offcampus housing nearby.

Another major project - facing its last year of hurdles through the current Maryland General Assembly - is the $18.5 million Music/Theatre/Performing Arts facility. 1 medium onion, chopped

1/2 cup chopped green pepper

1 stalk celery, chopped 1 clove garlic, minced

2 cups (about 1 pound) cubed cooked chicken

Meanwhile preheat oven to 425°F, and prepare crust mix according to package directions through Step 1. Spread dough into the bottom and halfway up the sides of a greased 13x9x2inch baking dish to form crust. Evenly spread chicken mixture over dough, sprinkle with grated cheese from package. Bake in preheated oven 20 to 25 minutes or until crust is desired brownness. Serves 4 to 6.

COMPLEMENTARY PIZZA

Sauce:

3 tablespoons olive oil 1 cup onions, finely chopped

1 tablespoon minced garlic

4 cups canned tomatoes, chopped

1 small can tomato paste

1 tablespoon dried oregano

1 tablespoon fresh basil, or 1 teaspoon of dried basil 1 bay leaf

Dough:

2 tablespoons dry yeast 14 cups warm water

1 teaspoon honey

1/4 cup olive oil

21/2 cups whole wheat flour 1 cup soy flour

Topping: 1 cup Mozzarella cheese (made from partially skimmed milk), grated and combined with 1 cup Parmesan cheese, sliced onions, mushrooms, or

green pepper for garnish

To make the sauce, heat the oil and saute the onions until soft and not brown. Add garlic and cook 2 minutes more. Add the remaining ingredients and bring the sauce to a boil, then lower the heat and simmer, uncovered, for about 1 hour, stirring occasionally. Remove bay leaf. If a smoother sauce is desired, puree or sieve it. To make the dough, dissolve the yeast in a mixture of water and honey. Blend with the oil, whole wheat and soy flour in a large bowl. Knead until smooth and elastic on a floured board. Place in the bowl and let rise in a warm place until doubled in volume (about 11/2 hours). Punch down and knead again for a few minutes to make the dough easy to handle. To make 4 10-inch pizzas, divide the dough into quarters, stretch each quarter to a 5-inch circle while you hold it in your hands, then roll it out to 10 inches, about 1/8 inch thick. Dust a large cookie sheet or pizza pan with cornmeal. Place the dough circles in the pan and pinch a small rim around the edge. Spread 1/2 cup of tomato sauce on each pizza and sprinkle on ½ cup of the cheese. If desired, add the sliced mushrooms, onions or other garnishes. Bake at 500°F. for 10 to 15 minutes. Yield: 4 10-inch pizzas.

WHEN ARE YOU REALLY FREE? January 21, 1990

Background Scripture: John 8:12-59. Devotional Reading: John 8:31-36.

A woman encountered one of her next door neighbors, a little girl, striding down the sidewalk. Turning to the woman as she passed, the little girl announced "I'm running away from home!" Before the woman had a chance to response, the little girl disappeared around the corner. A few minutes later the little girl passed her again headed in the same direction, announcing, "I'm running away from home." Amused. the neighbor lady waited for her to round the corner again and this time she asked, "If you're running away from home, why do you keep going around the block?" Replied the little girl, "Because I'm not allowed to cross the street!"

NEVER IN BONDAGE

I like this story because it is so representative of many of our more "sophisticated" attempts to assert our independence. We are like the teenager who argues with his parents to give him more independence so that he can dress "like all the other kids." On a more sobering level, it is the story of any of us who rebel against something or someone and in the process become subservient to something or someone else. A recent study indicates that lots of people take up smoking to assert their independence. Unfortunately, in a short time they have lost their independence to a nico0

tine dependency. So, when are we really free? Often, when we are enslaved by something, we persist with the illusion that we are free. This is what Jesus is referring to in John 8:32 when he says: "...you will know the truth, and the truth will make you free." The response from his listeners is indignant: 'We are dependents of Abraham, and have never been in bondage to any one. How is that you say, 'You will be made free'?" This is a very strange response when you consider that the people of Israel had been in bondage to the Egyptian Pharaoh, to Assyria, to Babylonia, to the Hellenists, and were currently in bondage to Rome. Perhaps they meant that, although politically they had been in bondage, their spirits never were.

CLAIMS OR DEEDS Jesus doesn't buy that bit of reasoning: "Truly, truly, I say to you, everyone who commits sin is a slave to sin' (8:34). They are in bondage because they are slaves to their sin. It rules them; they do not rule it. Although they think they are free to do what they want, it is really their sin that calls the shots. "If God were your Father, you would love me. Just as the Pharisees' study of the scriptures had not enabled them to recognize Jesus as the Christ, so the people who claimed to be heirs to Abraham were no more understanding and receptive. We may wonder at their lack of perceptivity, but the real relevance of their story for us has to do with our own receptivity today. As these people claimed Abraham to be their father, so we claim Jesus to be our Lord and Savior. But the question is not what do we claim, but what do we do?

Etta Jacks has been named as Employee of the Week for the Garrett Transportation Program of Community Action. Mrs Jacks began her association with the program as a Transportation Driver. She is currently employed as clerk. She maintains certification in CPR, and she has received training in basic first aid and passenger assistance.

One of Mrs. Jacks' coworkers commented, "Etta's responsibilities include intake information as called in by prospective clients. Etta is able to guide the caller through the processing procedure and when she has finished the client has a thorough understanding of our services and know he has spoken with an individual who has a caring attitude. I also appreciate Etta's definite thrust towards community service.

Record Number Expected To Lobby For Arts

Over 1,000 concerned citizens Anyone wishing to register from all parts of the state are for this course or obtain addiplanning to gather in Annapolis tional information, should call on Thursday, January 25, the the Continuing Education second biennial Maryland Arts Division of the college at Day - to meet with members of the General Assembly and urge passage of a significant increase in support for the arts in Maryland.

For the past three months, Sue Hess, chairman of Maryland Citizens for the Arts, the statewide arts advocacy group, has been actively recruiting arts supporters to convene in the capitol. "Arts Day has a momentum of its own, when over 1,000 people who love the arts converge on Annapolis and have an opportunity to effect change, many for the first time," Hess said.

The day will include workshops, meetings with the legislators, a talk by New York playwright Michael Weller, and presentation of the Maryland Citizens for the Arts Award by Governor William Donald Schaefer to the Honorable Francis D. Murnaghan Jr., who founded Maryland Citizens for the Arts in 1977.

Schaefer, who has a long record of public support for the arts both as mayor of Baltimore and now as governor of the state, has recommended an unprecedented $2.4 million increase for the Maryland State Arts Council. The major share of the appropriation will be designated to fund up to 10 percent of the operating budgets of all qualifying arts organizations in Maryland.

The conference attendees, who will be bussed in from every county across the state.

will be meeting with their legislators over brown bag lunches, to underscore the vital importance of the arts in their home communities.

I am pleased to take this opportunity to fully endorse the "You Can Afford College '90" Campaign. You know, I cannot think of anything more important than a good education as appropriate preparation for life. Higher education serves as a solid foundation and valuable springboard for citizens to pursue their sound goals and dreams while helping them to become all they can truly be. It is also important for Maryland to have a well-educated population. All of us ultimately benefit from the tremendous influx of intellectual skills, creativity, and productivity which such individuals have to offer. With the present student financial assistance

The commendable efforts of the "You Can Afford College '90" Committee to promote awareness of the scholarship assistance

Westvaco Reports Major Drop In Dioxin In 1989

Westvaco Corporation, a major manufacturer of paper, packaging, and chemicals, reported this week on the solid results that have been achieved through late 1989, dramatically reducing the generation of trace amounts of dioxin found in its pulp bleaching process at the Luke mill. The company has notified the Environmental Protection Agency, the Food and Drug Administration, and the State of Maryland of results and progress made. John A. Luke, president and chief executive officer of Westvaco, said, "We are pleased to report that dramatic reductions in 2, 3, 7, 8-TCDD and 2, 3, 7, 8-TCDF have been achieved since data were compiled for a joint paper industry/EPA Dioxin Study in July of 1988. The overall Westvaco reduction of 96 percent had been accomplished by the end of 1989. These reductions were the result of Westvaco's early and voluntary commitment to make process changes designed to limit the formation of dioxin in the pulp bleaching process. We are pleased with our progress."

Since the time samples were collected for the joint paper industry/EPA Dioxin Study in 1988, the Luke mill has implemented a number of process changes which have resulted in reduced levels of chlorinated dioxins and furans in effluent, sludge, and final bleached pulps. In 1989, Westvaco was the first in the paper industry to announce a voluntary major capital investment program totalling over $30 million designed to reduce the extraordinarily small quantities of dioxin that were found in the pulp bleaching process currently practiced by the industry. To date, Luke says $15 million of capital has been invested at the Luke mill. In addition, over the past two years, Westvaco has committed approximately $3 million from its research budget to continue studies of how dioxin is formed and the most effective ways to prevent its generation, he said.

"Today, our cumulative investment for the total company for environmental protection approximates $330 million," Luke said. "It is our firm belief that all of Westvaco's products are safe and do not represent any danger to human health. The same is true for our workplaces and our communities.

"Westvaco is in compliance with environmental standards at each of our plant locations and we provide better performance than regulations require in a great many instances. We feel that the aggressive steps we are taking on our own initiative are consistent with Westvaco's long history of leadership in the protection of the environment," he added.

Curran To Argue Child Abuse Law In Supreme Court

Maryland Attorney General J. Joseph Curran Jr. said Tuesday that he will personally appear before the U.S. Supreme Court this spring to argue on behalf of a state law that is designed to protect child abuse victims from further trauma by allowing closed-circuit television testimony in child abuse cases.

The Supreme Court agreed Tuesday to review the July 24 decision of the Maryland Court of Appeals overturning the conviction of Sandra Craig, a to-face with their alleged Howard County day-care assailants in open court. operator whose 1987 trial involved the use of the closedcircuit TV procedure to faciliate the testimony of four children, ranging in age from 4 to 7. The Court of Appeals held that such child abuse victims must physically confront the persons charged with abusing them before the state can use the closed-circuit TV procedure to take testimony in the trial.

EARNEST MONEY TALKS!

Prospective buyers just left the home you have "For Sale". They said they would pay full price which sounded great, but then they asked you to hold the house for them until next month. They didn't offer to give you a deposit to hold the home either. Do you think you have a serious buyer? Would you be willing to hold the home, unsold, for a month for such buyers?

Chances are you've just encountered some serious "lookers", but probably not real buyers. The reason - sincere, motivated buyers understand that in order to purchase a home it will be necessary for them to give the sellers (or their real estate agent) an "earnest money" or "good faith" deposit. This would normally be a sum of money in an amount which would assure the sellers that their property was indeed SOLD, and which would insure final settlement on the

It is generally thought that the more money tendered by buyers as "earnest money", the more serious and committed they are to completing the purchase.

It is not uncommon for a real estate purchase agreement to call for the forfeiture of that deposit if the buyers should fail to &____ purchase. Thus, it follows that insincere buyers won't want to risk a penny, while real buyers will be totally cooperative in supplying a substantial deposit. Don't hesitate to ask your buyer for "earnest money". It's your assurance of a completed sale.

Schools Receive Maryland Taxes Course Materials

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein announced that, for the first time, his office has distributed a special instruction kit to nearly 800 high school teachers and resource personnel. The kit is designed to help students and teachers understand Maryland state and local taxes.

"We prepared this course to be used in conjunction with the 'Understanding Taxes' materials which have been provided by the Internal Revenue Service for many years," he said.

The course module provides materials to help students understand their tax obligations and how to complete simple Maryland state income tax forms. The materials also give an overview of the sales and use tax motor vehicle fuel tax and other kinds of taxes collected by Maryland state and local governments.

'Whenever young people get part-time jobs, buy a compact disc or pay for fuel for the family car, they have a direct role in the kinds of taxes collected by state and local governments," Goldstein said. 'This course helps them to understand that responsibility and gives them experience in filling out forms that will benefit them later in life."

The comptroller noted that the course should help OAKLAND eliminate common misconceptions about students and their tax status

"Students are not automatically exempt from the Maryland income tax. Maryland treats students just like any other taxpayers. This means that even though single students may have to file a federal return because of the kand or amount of their income, they don't have to file a Mary- McHenry

According to David Carroll, the governor's representative to the conference, "Maryland's trees and forests are part of our heritage and help shape the quality of life we all enjoy. The Governor's Conference will propose specific recommendations to ensure the environmental and economic health of these important resources, now and in the future

Forestry leaders and environmental groups from around the state will address a variety of issues that affect forestry in rural, urban and suburban areas. Their discussion will form the basis for an action plan, which conference organizers hope will be included in the Governor's Commission on Growth in the Chesapeake Bay

The action plan will include recommendations for forestry policies and programs, as well as legislative and budget initiatives that address Maryland's key forestry issues. "These recomendations could help shape the future of forestry in the Free State for the next 30 to 50 years," says Dwight Fielder, chairman of the Mary-

SHA Employee Of The Week

The March of Dimes Foundation reports that one out of every 750 babies has Fetal Alcohol Syndrome. That's a lot of damaged babies. Fetal Alcohol Syndrome is a pattern of physical and mental birth defects that are the direct result of the mother's drinking alcohol while pregnant. We don't know how much alcohol is "safe". The best decision is not to have any alcohol while you are pregnant - or when you might be. Remember, Fetal Alcohol Syndrome is completely preventable

Hearing Screening Test Available Over Telephone

Do you hear, but have trouble understanding speech? Does someone you know constantly complains that he or she can't hear because other people are mumbling? Is shouting becoming a household occurrence? These are common symptoms and complaints of hearing loss handicapping disability afflicting one in 12 people nationwide. For area residents, "Dial A

the nation's second leading

Hearing Screening Test" can help. This two-minute hearing screening test via telephone presents four tones for each ear. If callers do not hear all four tones, they fail the test and should have a more conclusive hearing examination. "Many Cumberland area residents have used and benefited from 'DAHST'," said Carol Clulie, M.Ed., director of the program. "The screening test is used mostly by friends and family members of a hearing impaired person to convince them of their problem. Hearing loss is a gradual process and sometimes goes unnoticed."

To take the free screening test, local persons should call 1-800-222-EARS from a quiet room using a good quality telephone. The program operates 24 hours a day, seven days a week. The Information Center operates from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Ag Secretary Yeutter Says: "1989 Was The Building Block For The 90s"

Secretary of Agriculture Clayton Yeutter characterized represents the most significant his first year in office as "a potential benefit to U.S. agrigood one for the American farmer" and one in which "building blocks were successfully laid" for agriculture in 1990 and beyond.

Looking back, Yeutter said during 1989 farm income reached a near record high; the value of farm exports increased remarkably since the low levels of the mid-1980s; burdensome surpluses of agricultural commodities dramatically declined; the farm credit situation eased for both lenders and borrowers; and farm program costs dropped significantly.

"We have worked hard this year to lay the groundwork for enactment of the 1990 farm bill and for a successful conclusion of the Uruguay Round," Yeutter told reporters at a recent year-end summary of his department's accomplishments. "We now need a strong, vigorous push if we are to open up market opportunities for the future

According to Yeutter, Undersecretary Richard Crowder is heading up 18 Agriculture Department subgroups focusing on different segments of new farm legislation.

We have not finished our own internal observations vet. so we're not ready for any definitive announcement. However, Yeutter called current farm legislation "a logical foundation" for new policy, and said he did not see any "fundamental changes in 1990." He assured reporters that USDA will "be ready for legislative activity when Congress begins" in January. Top priority issues for the Agriculture Department in 1989 included world agricultural trade, food safety, the environment, research and serving rural America, according to Agricultural trade reform culture between now and the year 2000, Yeutter said. "These final 12 months of the GATT talks will be difficult, intense negotiations, but we believe we're well-postured for that process." Yeutter said he opposed the European Community's (EC's) call for export subsidies and would have preferred the EC had gone "further down the reform road than they

According to the agriculture secretary, it will take a supreme effort from many interests for the GATT talks to succeed. "It will take a strong political commitment on everyone's part - not just the government but the private sector as well," he said. The negotiations "will affect our future and our children's future. It's important that we have broad support for the fundamental objectives" to have any chance of success.

Yeutter highlighted intergovernmental efforts or food safety among USDA, the Environmental Protection Agency and the Food and Drug Administration. Although USDA has little regulatory food safety responsibilities, Yeutter said the department did play a role in developing the administration's food safety plan that was announced in October, 1989. The plan calls for the government to respond faster to stem consumer concerns when a problem is found with pesti-

'Our farmers are dedicated to protecting the health of all Americans while maintaining the quality and quantity of food at reasonable prices that U.S. consumers have come to expect," Yeutter said.

MAEF Holds Successful Fund Raising Campaign

The Maryland Agricultural Education Foundation launched its fund raising campaign with a kick-off dinner at Stouffer's Harborplace Hotel recently. Over 250 people attended the $50 per person fund raiser, which raised over $15,000 to promote agricultural education programs throughout the state.

The evening's speakers included Shirley Traxler, director of the "Ag in the Classroom' program for the U.S. Department of Agriculture; Maryland Lieutenant Governor Melvin Steinberg; and Rev. David Simpson, a Methodist minister and former agriculture teacher. They emphasized the importance of agricultural education to let all students know about the importance of agriculture to Maryland's economy, and to increase the number of young people who choose agriculture as a career.

The Maryland Agricultural Education Foundation was recently established at the request of Governor William Donald Schaefer to coordinate public and private support for expanded and improved agricultural education in Maryland's schools. Work is currently underway with the Maryland Department of Education to develop curriculum

Maryland-Delaware commercial red meat production during November 1989 totaled 7.0 million pounds, down four percent from the November 1988 total of 7.3 million pounds. United States commercial red meat production for the United States in November 1989 totaled 3.41 billion pounds, slightly above November 1988. The percentages changes from 1986 accumulated production by individual components were: beef, down two; veal, down 10; pork up two; lamb and mutton,

Timber Bridges Promoted By

The Agriculture Department's Forest Service is conducting meetings across the country extolling the virtues of

One conference, sponsored by the Auburn School of Forestry in Birmingham, Ala., compared new technology timber bridges with traditional concrete and steel bridges. Engineers and wood technology scientists from across the Southeast are finding that timber bridges are less expensive and last longer than using proper treatment and installation procedures.

As an example of the use of timber bridges, an officer of the CSX railroad told of the positive low-cost experiences they have had over the last 40 years. For bridges with a span of 40 feet or less, timber bridges are usually the best choice. In addition, timber bridges built in the 1940s are still operating with minimal maintenance requirements. Most surprising, the CSX official noted that of the 4,000 timber bridges maintained by the CSX railroad, 95 percent are made of Southern Yellow Pine. The importance of the use of timber bridges in rural areas in increasing. USDA's Office of need of replacement on rural roads. The vast majority of those are in the south. In order to keep commerce flowing through rural America, those bridges will require replacement or significant improvements. In most cases the cost of replacement is incurred by local authorities.

Use of timber bridges also is expected to help keep tax burdens to a minimum. Timber bridges are installed using local labor and resources.

Roundtable Talks Scheduled By Ag Officials

Maryland business, political and community leaders will have a chance to share their views on issues involving agriculture and natural resources with University of Maryland System officials at a series of "roundtable" discussions held throughout the state this spring. These discussions are a continuation of outreach efforts first initiated in 1986 by Dr. Raymond J. Miller, vice chancellor for agriculture and natural resources.

'The roundtable discussions allow us to make sure that we at the university are in tune with the needs of Maryland citizens," explained Dr. Miller. We find out what they think of our programs and how they believe we can better serve their needs.

In addition to the traditional 'roundtable" topics of production agriculture, family concerns and youth programs, the 1990 discussions will focus on various natural resource issues.

'There is a growing awareness that the protection and enhancement of our natural resources are intimately tied to practice of agriculture," the said Miller. "Actions we take in the field today may be felt in Transportation has determined forests, streams, lakes and that nearly 50,000 bridges are in aquifers tomorrow - for better or worse. The University of Maryland's Agricultural community leaders, county Experiment Station and school administrators and Cooperative Extension Service are helping citizens make choices that protect both their profits and the state's natural resource base."

Miller will lead roundtable discussions in Maryland's counties for groups of 15 to 20 guests invited by county Extension directors. Past roundtables have included meat producers, owners and operators of supermarkets, seafood processors, elected officials.

"Our goal is to seek ideas and feedback from diverse groups and interests," said Miller. "We want to get a cross section of Sharing the forum with Miller will be county and regional Extension directors and Cathy Schwab, assistant to the dean for recruiting for the Colleges of Agriculture and Life Sciences at College Park.

That's the word from USDA. Prices for all milk reached a record $15.90 in December, but by the second quarter of this year the price could be as low as $11.05, analysts warn. Only an exceptionally strong demand for cheese and other products could hold prices up. The extremely strong rise in prices last fall was set up by the 1988 drought, which cut milk production sharply in Wisconsin and Minnesota. Manufacturers got into a bidding war for processing milk, pushing order market prices up. Now, production will be stabilizing or increasing, and dairy product prices declining. Dry milk, for example, is now down to $1.15 per pound compared to a high of $1.60. Cheese could well drop to the support level of $1.15 by spring.

Milk Price Support Cut 50 Cents

It's complicated, but here's how the 50 cents per cwt milk price support cut (to $10.10 per cwt) works, starting January 1. USDA doesn't automatically reduce milk checks. Instead, less money is paid out of CCC when surplus products are brought by the feds; then the farmer gets less. USDA is cutting the takeover price of butter 11.25 cents per pound to $1.0925, while the price of nonfat dry milk stays at 79 cents per pound. But by law the takeover value of butter and cheese must correspond, so block cheddar cheese and barrel cheese are cut 4.5 cents per pound to $1.11 and $1.07, respectively.

At Consumers

Agriculture Council of America (ACA) has announced plans for an extensive consumer education and awareness program. Implementation of the $50 million, five-year plan will begin this month when the campaign, "Food Watch - Safe Abundant Food For All," will be launched in Washington, D.C.

The purpose of the "Food Watch" program is to restore public confidence in the U.S. food and fiber production and distribution system, according to a spokesman for ACA.

"Consumers are becoming more concerned about current technologies used to produce, process and deliver food to their tables," explained Larry Stizman, chairman-elect of ACA and chairman of the "Food Watch" program. "The program is designed to educate the public on how safely our food is grown and processed and to increase their awareness of the complexity of feeding a rapidly growing world population.

"It's important to note that the total program is an industry-wide effort supported by producers, suppliers, processers and grocers and is the first combined effort of this magnitude," Sitzman, who is also a Nebraska corn producer,

President Signs Proven Yields Bill

President Bush has signed into law legislation allowing farmers to report actual 1989 and 1990 crop yields to the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS).

Bush had been urged by farm organizations to sign the bill. Farm Bureau believes "it would improve the operation of several important agricultural programs," and is "especially supportive" of the provisions permitting producers "to submit actual production yield

In addition, the secretary of agriculture would be required to determine the costs resulting from making deficiency payments to producers calculated by using the proven yield data. "This information will be particularly important to evaluate the costs and benefits of such a program change, which might be considered during the development of the 1990 farm bill," said Dean Kleckner, president, American Farm Bureau Federation.

According to Rep. Jim Jontz (D-Ind.), one of the bill's sponsors, "Current farm program payments are based on out-dated information and do not reflect producers' actual yields." Farmers were last allowed to update their yields in 1986. "Last year's drought brought this inequity to our attention," he said. Farmers discovered that "their drought payments were based on USDAestablished yields, which in many cases were much below what they had actually been producing.'

Jontz and Farm Bureau argued that the established yields were not reflective of actual production because producers were not allowed to update the information used by the Agriculture Department to set the yields for each farm. "The government has a responsibility to treat farmers fairly and to use updated information that accurately reflects farming conditions today," Jontz

Organic Food Workshop Held In Maryland

The Maryland Organic Food and Farming Association recently held a statewide workshop with more than 70 people attending, including growers, consumers, retailers, processors, and state agricultural personnel. After hearing four presentations on various aspects of the organic food industry, the meeting divided into committees and began to deal with the issues of organic standards, practices, certification, marketing, education and outreach within the state of Maryland. The Standards Committee drafted a definition of organic farming. The Certification Process Committee considered options for certifying grower products, including a graduated certification fee, some type of third-party evaluation and a transition period of two years on fertilizers and three years on pesticides. The Education and Research Committee addressed grower and food handler information needs and recommended closer ties to the University of Maryland's Cooperative Extension Service to prepare and distribute information to those in the organic foods industry.

The Marketing Committee discussed methods for selling, distributing and promoting organic foods throughout the state. They emphasized the need for an educational program to teach both growers and consumers about the nature of organic products. Finally, they suggested that a Produce Hotline be created to pass along product interests of organic buyers to growers.

The Outreach and Communications Committee discussed ways of increasing consumer knowledge about organic products and developed strategies for public contact through town meetings, programs for 4-H clubs, boy and girl scout groups, as well as foods at county fairs and local malls.

If the preference is for comes to buying sheets, fashion ranks right up there with dark colors, don't be put off if quality and performance as a the sheet feels stiffer than its consumer concern.

Not long ago, choosing sheets was an easy matter. Fabrics were mostly cotton; colors were limited to whites and pastels. Today, however, coordinated bed linens are available to harmonize with every decor in patterns and colors that range from the traditional to the

But, with so many options it can be difficult to narrow down bolder sheet fashions, while more conservative types may prefer traditional patterns.

Although pattern mixing is common in decorating magazines, the average consumer may find it difficult to achieve the desired effect. While patterns with solids is the easiest option, mixing pattern with pattern can be exciting. Because most mills coordinate their patterns, it isn't necessary to have a sophisticated sense of design. Advertisements, catalogs and in-store displays provide plenty of ideas for pattern mixing. Fiber content is another consideration. The two most common choices are 100 percent cotton or a cotton and polyester blend. Because cotton is naturally more absorbent than polyester, some people find the all-cotton sheets more comfortable for sleeping. However, a blend that is 40 percent cotton/60 percent polyester will still be quite comfortable; a blend that is more than 60 percent polyester tends to be coarser and slicker than cottonrich sheets. If the cotton is 'combed," it means that all the their care instructions are short fibers have been removed from the yarn leaving only the longest, finest and smoothest

For the traditional flat or fitted woven sheets, thread count is a favorite measure of quality. Thread count refers to the actual number of threads used per square inch. A higher thread count means a tighter weave, which results in a softer feel and a more durable sheet. A percale sheet is a fine. lustrous, smooth cloth with a thread count of 180 and up. A muslin sheet, which is more loosely woven and feels coarser than percale, generally has a thread count between 120 and 160. Although sheets are no longer labeled as "muslin," the term "percale" is used when appropriate. Several factors influence the price of a sheet. As a general rule, the higher the thread count and the greater the cotton content, the more expensive the sheet. Combed cotton sheets are more expensive than those made from carded, or that sheet prices are also affected by whether the sheet carries a designer name Specialty sheets include flannel sheets and satin sheets. With flannel sheets, weight, not thread count, is an important measure of quality. The heavier the sheet, the more yarn it contains. Better quality flannels will appear bulkier in the package. They will also have an even nap, with no lumps and few pills. Since most flannels are 100 percent cotton, look for flannel sheets that are pre-shrunk. Satin sheets, which Funds Available may be woven or knitted, are smooth and highly lustrous For Humanities Polyester satins are considered the top of the line. #### Barn Destroyed, Calf Killed In Wednesday Blaze

A barn located at Little Meadow Campgrounds along Chestnut Ridge Road near Grantsville was destroyed by fire Wednesday afternoon, as four area fire departments were summoned to the scene but found the 24-by-40-foot structure fully involved in flames upon their arrival.

A veal calf was killed in the blaze, plus a tractor and various other farm tools and equipment were destroyed, according to Guy Carola, fire investigator for Garrett and Allegany counties.

The barn and contents were owned by John Davies, who called the Garrett County Office of Emergency Management (911) at 3:25 p.m. after he looked out of his house and noticed smoke coming from the barn. Carola said that bales of hay inside the barn caused the flames to spread quickly. Carola said that his investigation into the cause of the fire indicated that it was electrical in nature. He estimated the loss to be at least $45,000 and noted that Davies did not have insurance on the building or contents. He added that about half of the wood-frame structure. which had a metal roof and metal siding, was still standing, but he said it was a total loss. Responding to the 3:25 p.m. alarm were units from the Grantsville, Eastern Garrett, Salisbury, and Frostburg fire departments, along with the county air cascade vehicle presently being housed at Friendsville VFD, and the Northern Rescue Squad. Carola said there were no injuries.

Firemen remained on the scene until 5:16 p.m.

House Fire, Husband Sustains Burns

A 71-year-old Grantsville area woman was killed and her husband was seriously burned last Thursday when fire gutted the victim's brother's house located along U.S. Rt. 40 about one-half mile east of Keyser's Ridge.

Lena G. McClintock was killed in the 3:25 blaze, which was believed to have originated in the kitchen area of the twostory, 100-year-old wood frame structure. Her body was found in the kitchen and Guy Carola, fire investigator for Garrett and Allegany counties, suspects that food left on the burner of a gas stove located in an alcove off the kitchen was responsible.

Luther P. McClintock, 68, and Mrs. McClintock's brother, Raymond W. George, who owned and occupied the house, were reportedly in a barn behind the house tending to cattle when they saw smoke coming from the house. They attempted to get into the house but were turned back by the smoke and extreme heat. Mr. McClintock sustained severe burns to his hands and face when he attempted to enter a window. Fire fighters from Grantsville, Accident, Deep Creek, Bittinger, and Salisbury fire departments responded to the 10:54 a.m. blaze. According to Grantsville Fire Chief Herman Yoder, flames were coming through the windows and doors upon their arrival. It took nearly an hour to bring the fire under control. Mrs. McClintock was pronounced dead at the scene by Dr. Herbert Leighton, Garrett County medical examiner. Mr. McClintock was transp the Northern Rescue Squad to Memorial Hospital

Cumberland, where he was admitted to the intensive care unit in "serious" condition. His condition this morning was listed as "stable." Grantsville units remained on the scene until about 3:30 p.m. Mrs. McClintock was born

April 1, 1918, in the Cove, the daughter of the late Melchoir and Louisa (Smearman) Georg. She was a member of St. John's Lutheran Church (ELCA) and the Ladies Aid of the church. Besides her husband and brother, she is survived by one son, Emerson McClintock, Grantsville; two other brothers, James George, Grantsville, and Robert George, West Salisbury, Pa.; and two grandchildren. Friends were received at the Newman Funeral Home, Grantsville, where funeral services were conducted Saturday afternoon by the Rev. Stephen Yelovich. Interment was in Addison, Pa., Cemetery.

The family requests that memorials take the form of contributions to a charity of the donor's choice.

Percolation Test Deadline Noted

Wet area percolation tests must be completed before June 1990, according to Edgar Harman, Garrett County director of Environmental Services, who urges anyone who is planning to build a house or other facility that will need a septic system for sewage disposal to check with the Health Department as soon as possible to see if the property is in or near a wet area.

Harman said that State Skis From Wisp Department of Environment regulations require that soils evaluation and percolation tests be done before the installation of on-site sewage disposal systems. The evaluations and tests are most accurate when done in the spring, at the time when the water table is the highest. Harman warned that a septic system installed in an area where there is a high water table may not work properly. The discharge from the septic tank may come to the surface causing a nuisance and a potential health hazard.

The Environmental Health Services of the Garrett County Health Department can help in determining if a site is in a possible high water table soil. The office has county soil maps that are published by the Soil Conservation Service. Wet areas are low areas near streams, areas near springs and seeps, and areas where it has been necessary to relieve wet conditions by installing field drains.

Harman noted that the Health Department expects a "very busy building season" again this year. During 1989, there were 300 individual sewage dis-

Garrett County Committee Joining

A small group of Garrett comparable to the more County residents, representing parents, teachers, and the Board of Education, will join together with others throughout the state to push for greater state funding of public schools. Looked upon as an effort which will probably extend over several years, two separate groups are taking the lead during the current session of the General Assembly to highlight the need for improved state funding of public schools through greater equalization of Baltimoreans United in Leadership Development (BUILD) is a Baltimore-based organization formed as a response of the churches of Baltimore to the pressures and concerns of inner-city congregations and families. The organization has worked since 1977 to improve education, employment, health care, and housing in the city. On Monday, January 29, BUILD will conduct a rally and lobbying night to impress upon legislators the need for greater equity in the funding of public schools.

A local group of Garrett Countians led by Mrs. Beverly Murphy, president of the Garrett County Board of Education, and Dr. Jerome Ryscavage, superintendent of schools, will join a small group of Allegany County residents to meet with the Allegany and Garrett county delegates to the General Assembly to discuss the issue. The evening will conclude with the local county and Baltimore City groups meeting together to plan further strategy.

The Baltimore City Branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) has taken steps to sponsor a second rally in Annapolis to be conducted on February 28. Again, enlisting the support of others throughout the state, the NAACP will focus its efforts on achieving a more equitable distribution of state funds for all of Maryland public school students. As in the rally on January 29, a delegation from Garrett and Allegany with other local citizen groups throughout the state.

The State of Maryland currently provides aid to local jurisdictions through 17 different programs. Only three of these programs (basic current expense aid, compensatory aid for children who are economically and environmentally disadvantaged, and special education aid) are equalized - i.e., the amount of aid is apportioned in terms of the relative ability of jurisdictions to pay for public services. Together these programs account for 53 percent of state aid for education. Two programs, teacher retirement and social security, comprising 26 percent of the total state aid, are distributed disproportionately to school systems, thereby substantially offsetting the equalizing programs.

The state-wide school funding movement will attempt to redress part, and hopefully all, of this imbalance. As a result, counties such as Allegany and Garrett, which substantially lag behind not only affluent counties like Howard and Montgomery, but seriously trail the state-wide average amount spent per pupil, will be able to provide an education more

Edwards Named To Task Force

It was announced this week that District 1-A Delegate George C. Edwards has been appointed by the Maryland Speaker of the House to serve on the Governor's newly formed Task Force on Forestry, a strategy developed to enhance and protect the forests of Maryland.

Edwards joins Garrett County Commissioner John C. Braskey as the second Garrett County member of the task force, and is one of only two delegates who will serve on the committee.

Edwards stated, "It is good that John and I will both serve the committee so that forestry concerns of Garrett County will be well represented."

He added, "Forestry is important to Garrett County. The forestry concerns of a rural community are different than that of an urban or suburban area." He concluded by saying that all regional needs should now be served by the creation of this task force.

The first meeting of the task force was held Wednesday morning for organizational purposes as well as sharing ideas on natural resources, air and water quality, wildlife habitat, urban forestry, insect and disease control, public ownership and land use issues.

Ridiculous Proposal? . . .

The problem of rising prison populations is rapidly reaching an alarming level in our state and nation, and there is no easy answer to the dilemma. Right here in Maryland, the state prison system that is designed to accommodate 12,000 inmates is currently housing 16,200 and there is a proposal to place prisoners in temporary tent campgrounds until new prisons can be completed. Some new state prisons are scheduled to open this spring, but the fear is that, at the current rate of criminal activity in our nation, we will never be able to keep up with the growing numbers. Not only is prison construction expensive, but there is simply not enough time to build the number of prisons that are needed.

Much of the problem could be erased if the extensive use of illegal drugs in this country were eliminated. The great majority of persons who land in prison are there because of criminal activity directly or indirectly involving illegal drug use.

Of course, there is also no easy answer to the drug problem. The public cries for stiffer penalties for drug abusers and wants these people off the streets, but such removal results in greater space problems in our prisons.

We propose an idea that may seem ridiculous to many, but is somewhat gratifying to at least think about. There are many remote areas still left in the world that could serve as a giant prison for the hardest of American criminals. Perhaps a currently unoccupied island somewhere would be a choice spot to ship these people. There they could reside together, totally removed from the rest of society, where survival of the fittest would preside. Hungry sharks could be used as guards and food and other supplies, if it were deemed necessary to provide them, could be dropped by air or delivered by boat. Charles Rothenberg, who was released from prison yesterday after serving seven years for setting his own son on fire, should be in the first shipment of prisoners to that island. Instead, he was freed and the California taxpayers are paying 88,000 per month to keep track of him, while his former wife and severely scarred child must live in æar.

Our proposal sounds far more cost-effective and definitely more judicious.

To the Editor:

In response to the articles in Danuary 18 issue of The Republican, I would like to Express my views on the subject presented by Brenda and Dewane Smith. Not only are Brenda and Dewane good friends of mine, But I myself belong to an -organization called NORML. I Delieve marijuana should be Jegalized and alcohol and cobacco use should be illegal. I've smoked marijuana for quite some time now. I don't see what harm it did to me. Some of the our most important people in America, from presidents on down, have grown and smoked it.

The government urged people Ia grow more hemp during World War II for the war effort. There was even a song called Hemp for Victory.

Marijuana not only has a -medical purpose (used for glaucoma patients), but also Tran be used for making rope, Inaterial for clothes, etc. The Thinese have used hemp for making material for blue jeans, which is stronger than regular eans. If our country thinks they -could put every "pot smoker" In jail, then they better start building a state prison a week to house them all. On an average, There are 30 million pot smokers In America. If they put each one In jail it would cost on an aver-Tage of 30,000 dollars a year to -house each of these people. Take that times three million. You people are paying for this in tax money. Take that kind of money and put it towards better Toads, education, helping the poor. Why not tax marijuana? Say, if each person who manted the privilege of smoking pot in their home pay a users tax, say $100.00 a year, not only uid the government know who uses pot, but could use the Tevenue to help other addicts off to say heroin, LSD or rerack. 'friends" letter on January 11. I am 11 years old and in seventh grade. Four years ago, my father and mother were arrested on marijuana charges. My classmates had nothing to say. They didn't even know.

Even though my parents are separated now, it has nothing to do with that. And I still love them both very much. Just because they smoke pot doesn't mean they are bad people. People who are high on marijuana are mellow; not destructive.

I have nothing against people who smoke marijuana. Both Dewane and Brenda Smith are good people. I think it's wrong that Dewane should sit in jail and sex offenders (who have been arrested) can roam the streets. Is smoking marijuana terrible as child molestation? I don't think so.

I would never do drugs because it's my choice. My parents and their friends chose to do marijuana, not drugs. Drugs are cocaine and crack and I sincerely think marijuana

To the Editor:

In November of 1988, I was placed on the Garrett County Board of Education by the good citizens of Garrett County After serving my first year, I would like to take a few moments to share with you what I believe to be the most serious threat to public education in this county, or perhaps the entire nation.

First of all, it is not a lack of money. We spend more on education than we ever have. Second, it's not that we have bad teachers. We are blessed in this county with a lot of very dedicated and caring teachers, staff and support personnel. So what is the problem?

I believe the greatest problem is a lack of parental concern. There are parents in our society who believe that public schools were developed to become dren. We are receiving children in pre-school and kindergarten who can't use the bathroom without help, who can't walk up and down stairs properly, children who have never been disciplined and therefore can't get along with other children or their teachers. Public schools were developed to teach children skills, such as reading, writing, etc. It is the job of the parent to teach their children how to live and function in society. Public schools, with their atheistic, humanistic slant on education, can never give children the proper foundation on which to build their lives. And if we, as parents, don't care enough to do our part, then our children will become defective

Fellow parents, we have a God-given responsibility to raise our children in the way they should go. The schools can't take our place. If we fail, there's no one to blame but ourselves. A society is only as good as its people and it takes everyone doing his or her part to make a society strong

So the next time your child comes home from school, ask him how he's doing, sit down and talk with him, let him know you love him and care about his life, go to parent/teacher conferences, find out what you can do to help in your child's education, and most importantly. go to a Bible-believing church where they teach strong family

It's up to you and me to see that our children become all they can be. I count it a privilege to serve you on the Garrett County Board of Education, and if there is anything I can do to help you, feel free to contact me garaunteed. Sincerely,

I am presently running against Mayor Spencer Schlosnagle for the position of mayor in the upcoming February election in the beautiful town of Friendsville.

My only promise to the people is to do the best job that I can possibly do. I will not travel around and make a lot of promises I can't keep, because half of what is done for the town and the people of the town is voted on or decided by the council members. Besides, what more could be asked, only to do the best?

I may have done somethings in the past that bothered others, are those who have been known to change.

Some of the dreams I have for the town are to pave the streets, patch the potholes, clean all the streets (not just a few), trade the present town truck for a four-wheel-drive dump truck, (with a snow plow), paint the

To the Editor:

I'm writing this letter to express my gratitude to the people of Laurel and Backbone Mountain.

On January 8 I was on Route 50. I was absolutely awestruck by the beauty of the area. I am also awestruck by how kind, good and gracious the people of the area are. It started snowing, although I had considered myself a good driver, I was not prepared for just how dangerous the mountain roads could be. After I ended up in the ditch. I was not so sure of my driving skills. Everyone who passed offered but nobody's perfect and there assistance and two men pulled my car out with a pickup and chain.

Deciding to stop before anywill be turning over a new leaf thing else happened I tried to in my life by taking on a new pull into the Maryland Motel,

Friends of The Ruth Enlow Library by Sull McCartney

The bad news is that Maryland has dropped from fourth in the nation in 1984 to 12th in 1986 in spending per person on library materials. Worse news is that Garrett County ranks 22nd in the state in this category.

The good news is that the new carpet has been installed in the Oakland library. All of the staff worked some long, hard hours to do the necessary moving. I want to congratulate them and their volunteer helper, Jack Caruthers, on a job well done.

Mrs. Jean E. Royer and Ethel Ridder are our most recent Life Members.

The Children's Book Fund has received donations of $100 each from: Dr. Robert and Deborah Goralski, Dr. and Mrs. Donald Richter, and the Potomac Division of Island Creek Coal Company. The Southern Garrett County BPW Club made a generous donation of $200. We have had many donations in memory of Mary Drake Naylor Bennett. I will list some of them in my next column.

The Garrett National Bank has named Friends to be the local organization to benefit from their 1990 Annual Charity Golf Tournament. This is a tremendous boost for our group and we are very grateful. The Garrett National Bank's initial tournament last year raised over $10,000 for the Garrett Organization for the Handicapped. They plan to continue these events as a means to raise funds for deserving local causes. This is a truly commendable effort on their part . . . and I would say that even if they hadn't chosen us.

If you enjoyed either of Stephen Coonts' first two books, I am sure you will like The Minotaur. His leading character, Jake Grafton, who apparently died in Final Flight, miraculously reappears to thwart the bad guys. The Minetaur has somewhat of a local flavor in that two of the characters get married in Oakland. I am sure that Cliff DeWitt will be interested to learn that they managed to get a marriage license on Sunday. The prosecuting attorney of Hampshire County, W.Va., is also mentioned and the author used the name of Hampshire County's real prosecuting attorney, Don Cookman. I thought that was rather unusual. Some people, such as my good friend George VanMeter, consider reading fiction to be a waste of time. For anyone of like persuasion or who is just looking for something educational but interesting, I would recommend Hidden History, by Daniel Boorstin. Hidden History is a collection of 24 essays, most of them previously published, which deal in one way or another with American history. This is the fifth book of Dr. Boorstin's that I have read and I always find his point of view to be interesting. When speaking of the barrage of advertising hype which was used to lure settlers here from England in the 17th century, he asks, "How long might it have taken to settle this continent if there had not been such promotion by enterprising advertisers? How has American civilization been shaped by the fact that there was a kind of natural selection here of those people who were willing to believe advertising?" In a chapter on pseudo-events, such as televised political debates, he states, "Even if we cannot discuss intelligently the qualifications of the candidates or the complicated issues, we can at least judge the effectiveness of a television performance. How comforting to have some political matter we can grasp!"

Life, Liberty And The Pursuit Of Happiness by Pam Ashby

We citizens of the United States have been guaranteed certain inalienable rights - life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. Big deal? You bet it is.

While it's true that any healthy male and female can create a life, it's the quality of that life which counts. And what is liberty? Well, in its simplest form, it is freedom. But freedom from what? And what of the pursuit of happiness? The possibilities are endless

Many great minds have pondered the meaning of life. Why all the fuss about the universe and the role we play in it? Life is food to sustain us, rest to refresh us, love to renew us, It's laughing, crying, paying taxes and dying.

Life is nurturing others and self-preservation. It is packing lunches, sorting laundry, grocery shopping, changing diapers, typing your son's term paper the night before it's due, writing a book, running the vacuum cleaner, pursuing a college degree, paying bills creatively when the money runs out before the week does. Get the picture?

Life is who we are and what we do

And the privilege called liberty - what is this? Liberty is: a day off with pay, the day your toddler says, "I have to go potty," a sugar-free dessert that actually tastes good, removing a tight girdle, losing 40 pounds, waving a tearful goodbye as you last child leaves home. (Excuse me. This is your child's liberty, not

The pursuit of happiness — this trite phrase is nothing more than wishes. Most of us have more happiness than we deserve; we're just too busy practicing misery to realize it.

But back to the wish thing.... If I had one wish granted to me, it would go something like this, "I wish I were a thin, glamorous writer with a nursing degree who has a maid, a six-figure bank account, properly-fitting lingerie, and courage to let go of the kids as they leave the nest to further explore their own lives, enjoy liberty and pursue new heights of happiness.

Whew! Okay, so it's a seven-part wish. Big deal? You bet it is.

Town of Oakland is pursuing the bypass project. One major reason for pursuing the project is to reroute truck traffic for safety. John Nelson, Planning and Zoning, explained that the by-important to prevent future traffic problems from arising. 'A project of this nature has to have total local support and will probably take a minimum of ten years to complete." said

Beaulieu. "The County Commissioners feel that revitalization of the process must come from within the town (of Oakland)." stated

Mayor McCain read a letter from Delegate George Edwards Garrett-Allegany counties, that stated that he is in support of the bypass, but that it should only be pursued if the Mayor and Town Council are in favor of the bypass. However, his letter also stated that a top priority in the county is the development of a fourlane highway from Rt. 48 to Oakland, and eventually to the West Virginia line.

"Originally GOBA was against the initially proposed bypass, but we are in favor of a truck bypass and we definitely recognize the need for traffic control," stated Jack Jones, toll-free phone number, president of GOBA. "We believe that we should get along now in planning the bypass to might develop when and if Rt. 219 is upgraded to a four lane highway. As Rt. 219 stands now, we do not believe the expenditure involved in building an Oakland bypass is economically feasible.

One option that the State Highway Administration is currently looking at is the purchase of the vacant corner on Third and Oak Street. If purchased the radius of the turn from Oak Street on to Third Street would be expanded and the remainder of the property would possibly be used for a small park. Beaulieu explained that the State Highway Administration is currently working with the Town of Oakland and the County Commissioners to determine if an agreement can be reached.

SHA PROJECTS Beaulieu explained two projects that the State Highway Administration is currently looking at for 1990.

An overlay will be done on Rt. 219 from the southern corporate limits of Oakland to the northern corporate limits. Beaulieu explained that an overlay in an urban setting is removing some of the roadway material and redoing the road, A study will be started in the spring or summer of 1990 on the feasibility of rebuilding the Rt. 39 bridge (crossing the Little Youghiogheny River) in Oakland. Beaulieu explained that the design and costs of rebuilding the bridge will be examined and if the project if feasible, it will then be programmed.

The governor also submitted a $897.8 million plan to build new prisons, schools, campus facilities and office buildings. More than half the dollars would go to environmental and natural resource projects ($377.7 million) plus primary, secondary and higher education ($213.8 million)

The Fiscal Year 1991 budget proposal projects the state real estate tax to remain at 21-cents per $100 assessed valuation, but calls for the closure of tax loopholes amounting to $35.7 million. Well over half this revenue ($26.6 million) would be used to help the developmentally disabled and other persons in need. The balance would go into prisons and public safety programs.

Governor Schaefer noted that while the economy of the state remains sound, the growth in tax revenues has slowed from previous years and reflects a national trend. The total operating budget is $254 million higher than the FY 1990 budget as it stands today "I have therefore had to many competing needs. Only a

To intensify the battle against illegal drugs, Governor Schaefer requested $88.9 million, including a $23.3 million response to recommendations of his Drug and Alcohol Abuse Commission. The $23.3 million of new dollars would have $9.3 million for treatment programs, $8.1 million for law enforcement, $5.5 million for education and prevention, and more than $300,000 for research. Prince Georges County would receive another $1 million grant to continue its war on drugs.

New anti-drug units would be set up in the State Police and the Department of Natural Resources Police. The anti-drug budget request includes $9.1 million for a new campaign against drunk and drugged

To improve social programs, the governor is asking for a five percent increase in Aid to Families with Dependent Children (ADFC) and a five percent increase in General Public Assistance (GPA). To further expand the services of the Developmental Disabilities Administration (DDA), the governor is requesting an increase of $15 million. This would provide 875 new spaces to help the handicapped and establish a new center to train parents to better care for their handicapped youngsters. The DDA total $258 million budget includes $8.5 million for the tax loophole closure.

The governor is asking for $4 million to help the homeless, an increase of $1.1 million. This includes $600,000 in health care for the homeless, plus 134,640 'bednights" in shelters - an increase of 40,000.

Focusing on higher education, Governor Schaefer is proposing $1.73 billion in all funds, an increase of 8.2 percent. This includes $917.3 million in general funds, a jump of 10.8 percent. Enhancements are requested for all campuses, along with $1 million in challenge grants for the community college network.

The budget provides $6 million for the state takeover of the Community College of Baltimore. $3 million for the Peabody Conservatory and $2.4 million to go toward the music school's endowment. Another $1.5 million would be used to help make the Enoch Pratt Library in Baltimore City the state resource center.

For the six state agencies and University of Maryland programs to restore and preserve the Chesapeake Bay, the governor is asking $73.8 million in operating funds and $51.9 million in capital money. Included is $300,000 to help local governments implement plans to protect critical shoreline areas. More than $2.7 billion of the budget would be in direct local aid, and returned to Baltimore City and the 23 counties for various programs. This represents an increase of almost $250 million.

Other enhancements sought by the governor include a four percent cost of living pay raise for state employees, with higher increases for state troopers and a number of positions where the state has had a longtime problem in recruiting qualified personnel.

The budget also provides for the lease-purchase of three more medevac helicopters ($2.4 million), the Maryland School Performance Project recommended by the Sondheim Commission ($1 million), a new state convention center projects, including DDA authority to assist facilities in facilities.

District One Senator John N. Bambacus (R-Allegany, Garrett) announced this week that he is the primary sponsor of a package of bills in the 1990 Maryland General Assembly session concerning victims' rights legislation.

The bills, according to officials at Bambacus' office, were released Monday by the president of the Senate. Senate Bills 346 and 347 give the victims of serious crime a voice in criminal proceedings, "a process in which they are so often not heard," stated Rambacus

The bills also add a new article to the Maryland Declaration of Rights, part of the Maryland State Constitution, establishing the constitutional right of a victim of a serious crime to be informed of. present at and heard in appropriate criminal justice proceedings.

In addition, Senator Bambacus has re-introduced the warrantless arrest bill (SB 7), which extends law enforcement powers in cases involving domestic violence. The proposed legislation permits a police officer to arrest a person without a warrant if the officer has probable cause to believe the person has battered a spouse, child, or any individual with whom the person resides.

Senator Bambacus has been a primary sponsor of victims' rights legislation during his eight years in office. "All victims, children as well as adults, must be afforded the maximum protection under the law." said Bambacus. "We must send the message that this type of behavior will not be tolerated," he added.

All three pieces of legislation have been assigned to the Proceedings Judicial Committee. Hearing dates have not yet been announced.

District 1-A Delegate George C. Edwards this week expressed confidence over two bills he is sponsoring regarding axle load limits, which are scheduled to be heard Wednesday, January 31, during the Maryland General Assembly 1990 session

The bills were introduced into legislation January 15 and will be heard by the Constitutional and Administrative Law Committee in the House of Delegates. Edwards stated, "I feel confident the bills will get through," noting that a similar bill failed to pass during last year's session.

House Bill 317 states, 'Requiring law enforcement officer, before using citation, to allow up to three hours for operators of vehicles that are in violation of specified axle load limits to bring the vehicles into compliance by shifting the load distributions, if the vehicles do not exceed their registerd gross weight and shifting the load distributions is likely to satisfy the specified limits; establishing that the vehicle operator may not be cited for violation of the Act if compliance is achieved within three hours; and generally relating thereto." HB 318 states, "Authorizing an axle load limit tolerance of 10 percent of the established gross weight formula for vehicles carrying forest products that have been loaded in the forest or other similar offhighway locations.

Public Service Announcement Contest Underway

The American Heart Association (AHA) has announced a new writing contest for middle school and high school students in conjunction with the upcoming Save A Sweet Heart (SASH) program. The SASH contest will focus on short public service announcements (PSA's) emphasizing an increased awareness by students on the adverse health consequences of smoking. A PSA is a radio commercial that publicizes programs, activities, or educational themes of non-profit organizations. In most Allegany and Garrett County schools, the SASH program is coordinated by the home economics teachers.

Each school's SASH faculty advisor and student team will be responsible for selecting five finalists. Final judging will be done by a selected AHA/Radio WKGO panel. PSA scripts should be 50 to 70 words in length, equal to a 30-second radio announcement, with emphasis on the dangers of smoking.

The contest will run from January 21 to February 1, the beginning of Heart Month. Winning entries will be recorded during a Save A Sweet Heart Week, February 12 to 16.

Entries must be neatly typed or printed on standard 81/2 x 11" white paper. Students should write their name, grade, school, home address and telephone number on the back of their entries. Entries will be submitted to the selected SASH coordinator at each school. Individual entries are encouraged; however, group entries will be accepted. The PSA may use music or sound effects, but the wording of the copy must be reduced to fit Into a standard 30-second announcement. The writer should keep in mind that the winning copy will be spoken, not read. It should grab the attention of the minds of the audience, and then implant the important message in the minds of the audience. "A PSA can be clever, funny, or even outrageous, but it may never be boring," an AHA spokesman

Each school may submit up to five entries to the AHA/WKGO judging panel. Appointments will be set up for winners to tape their PSA's at Radio Stations WTBO/WKGO. Pictures will be taken at the winners' schools for news coverage and publicity

Awards will be presented to the first, second, and third place winners and their winning entries will be aired on Radio Station WKGO, Cumberland, during Save A Sweet Heart Week in February.

Better Business Bureau Handles 200,000 Calls

The Better Business Bureau of Greater Maryland continued to assist consumers and businesses at record levels in 1989 with nearly 200,000 requests for help and information.

Philip Kershner, BBB president, reports that the BBB settled 92 percent of consumer complaints received against local businesses, and issued over 53,000 reliability reports.

According to Kershner, the 1989 "scam of the year" was a scheme perpetrated by the issues of bogus credit cards. The Better Business Bureau was swamped with inquiries from consumers across the country who received letters stating they had been preapproved for credit cards. The letters implied that for a fee, consumers would receive a Visa or MasterCard. What they actually got for their money was a virtually worthless "credit card," which could only be used for merchandise in the seller's catalog

"We understand that the perpetrators of this scam bought mailing lists with the names of people who might be most susceptible to buying credit cards," said Kershner, 'like consumers who had filed for personal bankruptcy, or had a poor credit history or no former credit history.

The Better Business Bureau checked into these scams and was able to save money for the thousands of consumers who made pre-purchase calls to the BBB. Kershner advised, "We were able to help the public distinguish between genuine offers of credit, and scams designed to simply rob people of an application fee.'

ROTARY NEWS

The Terra Alta Rotary Club President Mac Luther announced during a January 11 breakfast meeting of the organization that the Board of Directors recently met to discuss fundraising for scholar- attend. ships and the possibility of changing morning meeting back to the evening. Also discussed was the possibility of having the meeting some place other than Alpine Lake Lodge. The fundraising activity involves a project within the club itself that would result in half of the money earned going to a winner and the other half to the scholarship fund. Also discussed was a plan to have a party in the near future at the boat house at Alpine Lake. The public will be invited.

In an effort to try another location for Rotary meetings, the Rotarians met January 18 at the Encore Restaurant in Corinth. Rotarians will decide whether to continue to meet at Alpine Lake or to move to the Encore.

Lakers Break 100 Points In Wins Over Prince George's, Catamounts

The Garrett Community College Lakers added their 13th and 14th victories against just three defeats this past week, topping upset-minded Prince George's Community College Saturday night, 101-92, in a JUCO match-up in McHenry and then defeating Potomac State College last night, 100-84, also on the Lakers' court.

Chuckie Moore continued to pace the Lakers' effort against Prince George's, as he recorded 29 points and pulled down 11 re-

The Lakers never trailed in the contest and held a nine-point lead at halftime, 53-44; however PG cut the lead to just three points at the 15-minute mark of the second half. Moore and Shane Scott then hit three-pointers to erase the threat. The Lakers were out-gunned from the floor by a 39-35 margin and actually won the game at the foul line where they converted 25 of 29 attempts, compared to a seven-for-12 showing by PG. Moore was one of five Lakers to reach double figures, as Scott netted 22 points, Bruce Boldley finished with 17. Derek Young netted 15, and Travis Bohrer scored 13. Young's points came on a perfect six-for-six from the floor and three-for-three at the foul line. The top scorer in the game, however, was Prince George's Derrick Price, who ripped the nets for 36 points, while teammate Price Williams finished with 19 and Rayford Young contributed 10. Moore and Boldley led the Lakers last night against Potomac State, finishing with 30 and 26 points, respectively, while Scott netted 17 points. The win over the Catamounts avenged an overtime loss on Dec. 2 by the Lakers. Potomac State came into the contest with a 10-3 record.

The Lakers led throughout the entire contest, holding a 46-41 edge at halftime and then expanding the margin to as many as 18 points, 79-61, at the 9:08 mark of the second half. Also reaching double figures for the Lakers was Derek Young, who finished with 12 points and pulled nine rebounds. Scott was credited with five assists. Evan Saunders paced the Catamounts with 22 points, Scott Riggleman pumped in 19. and Kevin White hit 16, and Chuck Rutherford finished with

The Northern High School wrestling team upped its dual meet record to 6-2 last night by defeating Westmar, 48-28, at Lonaconing.

Recording pins for the Huskies were Greg Miller, in the 119-pound class; Tim Thomas, 130; Ron Sines, 145; Randy Dolan, 152; Jerry Harris, 160; and John Mickle, 171.

Gaining pins for the Wildcats were Steve Woods, 103; Dave Harman, 125; and Jason Fogg,

The Huskies were also awarded the single-A championship trophy in the Pepsi/Fairmont Invitational, held last weekend in Fairmont, W.Va. However, Beall has contested the scoring and has claimed the top award in that division and a decision is pending from Maryland state officials

The Huskies finished third overall in the tourney, which featured 25 teams, about half of which were in their division. That finish will drop to fourth overall if Beall wins its appeal.

Coach Lynn Brenneman's Huskies will return to the mats this Saturday in the University High Tournament in Morgantown. They will then host Rockwood next Tuesday.

13 rebounds and six blocked shots.

DeBerry turned in a 26-point performance and the Lakers out-rebounded their opponent, 28-24, Monday night at home against Essex, but it still wasn't enough for a win. The Lakers also held a twopoint advantage at halftime, 25-23, but could not maintain the lead late in the game. Henline was credited with 10 rebounds and DeBerry also had five steals.

Leading Essex's scoring were Allison Armiger with 18 points and Melissa Balog with 12.

Moore also paced the Lakers last night against Potomac State, as he finished with 30 points, while Boldley was close behind with 26 and Scott netted 17 in the 100-point effort.

The win over the Catamounts. now 10-4, avenged a 92-91 loss on December 2 by the Lakers, who are now 14-3 on the season.

It appeared the Lakers were going to break back into the win column on Tuesday against the ACC Trojans, as they held a advantage. Garrett scored the 32-25 halftime lead and went on top by as many as 12 points in the second half. However, the Trojans came back and Melanie Ours nailed some critical free netted 12. Henline also recorded throws in the closing moments to give her team their fourth win in 13 starts.

Renee Mullin paced ACC with 16 points, Tonya Christner finished with 15, Ours netted 13,

Artice To Teach Tae Kwon Do At Frostburg State

The Continuing Education programs office at Frostburg State University has announced the start of Tae Kwon Do classes with a Friendsville resident as the instructor.

Tony Artice will be the instructor with the first class scheduled to begin on Monday, January 29, 7-9 p.m., in the Physical Education Center.

Artice practiced Tae Kwon Do for 10 years in Washington, D.C. at the Chung Do Kwan headquarters under Duk Kyang Choi; eighth degree black belt, and one of the world's most renowned persons in this martial art. Choi is now the East Coast TKDCDK director and teacher. Artice is currently teaching Tae Kwon Do at Garrett Community College, West Virginia University, and has his own studios in Morgantown, Uniontown, Pa., and Terra Alta, W.Va.

The class is open to all ages and both sexes. Participants will be taught a variety of effective self-defense techniques that will improve their mental, physical and general well being through extensive cardiovascular and isometric exercises. Lecture, discussion, demonstration, repetition, and guided practice will comprise the class

Artice says Tae Kwon Do is the fastest growing martial art because of its effective, nononsense style of training and self-defense. In addition, Tae Kwon Do is the first martial art to be an official Olympic sport. It is also a part of the state games to be held at Frostburg State University this coming July.

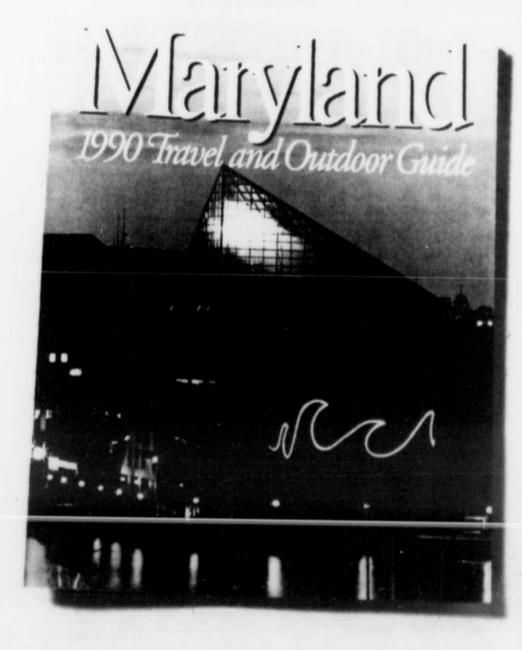

Persons interested in registering for the class, or who would like additional information, may call the continuing education office at 689-4231.

Improving the quality of life and learning for the people of Garrett County is a goal of the Garrett County Board of Education, and according to a spokesman, to accomplish this goal it is necessary to link community resources - families, schools, businesses and community organizations.

Another step in this process to improve the quality of learning and living in Garrett County was launched recently when the Garrett County Board of Education, in cooperation with the Mt. Top Chamber of Commerce, invited members of the business community to a luncheon meeting at Southern High School to discuss "Partnerships in Education."

Mrs. Mikal Moomau, president of the Board of Education, welcomed over 40 guests and expressed the desire of the Board of Education to foster communications between the business community and local many guest speakers who par-schools. A roast beef lunch was then served by the Vocational Food Service Department at Southern High School.

Following the luncheon, Luther Parrack, director of secondary education, gave an overview of the concept and value of school-business partnerships as it relates to helping students succeed and improve their quality of learning experiences, as well as impacting upon the quality of life in a community.

Mrs. Jo Ann Vent, career

employability teacher, then reviewed many of the activities that are already taking place which are part of this partnership concept. Some of these partnerships include: try-out employment and work experiences at over 100 different businesses in conjunction with the Career Employability/Maryland's Tomorrow and Vocational Marketing Programs; the computer labs provided through Potomac Edison; the ticipated in the various career man and Wayne Johnson; education programs; the awards and scholarships provided for College Night and graduating seniors; the Career Awareness job shadowing sponsored by the Oakland Rotary Club; the support provided to the Vocational Industrial Clubs of America (VICA) by many local businesses; and the "College and Me" program at Garrett Community College for fifth graders sponsored by Bausch and Lomb

Mrs. Nancy Nemith, public relations representative of C&P Telephone, presented and recommended a partnership program called Americans for the Competitive Enterprise System (ACES). This program would provide in-depth exposure for teachers to eight different businesses. The teachers could then earn in-service credit for participation.

The luncheon was concluded with Dr. Jerry Ryscavage, superintendent of schools, inviting comments from the business representatives. Dr. Ryscavage explained that the Board of Education wanted to provide this type luncheon as an annual opportunity to develop an open dialogue between the board and the business community. He thanked each one for his or her participation and indicated that the schools will be interested in increasing activities that will utilize the resources of an improved school-business partnership "for the good of our youth and our community."

Garrett County Roads Administrator Paul Shockey also presented the commissioners with a preliminary bridge priority schedule which the commissioners will now review for their acceptance.

He continued, "We have tried, as a board, to maintain an aggressive bridge replacement and rehabilitation program over the past several years and this bridge program has always been done based on priority of

Lee Thorn, Garrett County Roads engineer, explained that 125 bridges throughout the ounty have been inspected and rated, and those with very low ratings will be taken care of first, some within two weeks. He noted that ratings were based on factors such as the number of residences served by the bridge, whether or not the bridge served school buses, whether or not the bridge was part of a truck route, whether or not an alternative route and how much of a detour was involved, and the cost to replace or rehabilitate the bridge.

He added, "We must also take into account funding availability, manpower, and whether

According to Luther Parrack, secondary education of the school Garrett County Board of Education, surveys were sent Middle and Southern High School students, in an attempt to discover preferences in the school. event that the split-shift alternative would be adopted by the Board.

Parrack stated that the Housing Committee received 1,222 responses to the survey and that a large majority of parents of both middle and high school students preferred that their children be on the morning shift

Parrack noted that conflicts with students' after school jobs were often brought up as a concern by parents of high school students. Parents of work-release participants voiced the same concern.

Arthur Refosco, principal of Southern High School, then presented an alternative split shift proposal which is currently being considered by the Housing Committee. Refosco proposed that middle school students attend Southern Middle School in the morning, ninth and tenth graders attend the middle school in the afternoon, and eleventh and twelfth graders attend Southern High School in the mornings.

Refosco stressed his plan would allow for less disruption in the work schedules of many juniors and seniors in high school. Refosco stated that many logistical problems still needed to be ironed out.

Public Concerns Addressed A parent raised the question out to all parents of all Southern of why ninth and tenth graders were not being considered for housing in the senior high > Refosco responded that most open classrooms that will be available for use, such as the machine shop, cannot accomodate ninth and tenth graders well, and are more specifically geared toward the needs of the high school juniors and seniors. Refosco also pointed out that many morning seniors will be on work release.

A parent asked about the cost of a portable classroom. Ryscavage responded that each classroom unit would cost $30,000 per year. emphasized that this would not be feasible, given the current fiscal situation.

> What if the renovation is not completed in one year? Ryscavage responded that he had been assured by the architect that the renovation will be completed in 15 months. He stated that he feels confident that it will be ready to house students in the 1991-92 school special education students in self-contained classrooms was raised by another parent.

Albert Coviello, director of pupil services, responded that the Housing Committee was currently looking for a place to house these students that would allow them to adhere to their regular schedule.

Ryscavage added that the needs of handicapped students will be better met with the renovation of the high school. Bathrooms, elevators and special entrances have been designed to accomodate the needs of those students.

Concerns were voiced by several parents over their children's participation in sports and other extracurricular activities.

Coviello responded that when Northern High School's renovation occurred and a splitshift was implemented at the middle school, sports and other activities were not affected.

A parent voiced concern over whether or not students would be exposed to asbestos during the high school renovation. George Brady responded that renovations would not begin until all the asbestos has been removed from the school. He added that this will be a large task and he anticipates receiving an estimate for the removal in February.

Other alternatives, including a six day school week (three for high school and three for middle school) are also being considered by the Housing

Universal Voter Registration Now In Effect

Universal registration passed into law by the General Assembly, went into effect January 1, 1990, providing that when one registers to vote with a county, one is then eligible to vote in municipal elections occurring in the area of residency; additional registration is no longer necessary.

Residents wishing to vote only in municipal elections may be maintained on a supplemental list kept by the municipality. Some municipalities allow persons on the supplemental list to vote in a city election even though they may not reside in that municipality.

The county election board and the municipality will develop a plan for updating voter history of persons registered in the county; those voters maintained on the municipality's supplemental voter registration list will be updated according to method devised by the municipality.

Voters casting ballots only in municipal elections although registered in the county will be maintained on the voter rolls of both jurisdictions as long as they vote within five calendar years. Additional information about universal registration, as well as voter registration, may be obtained by calling the local election board or by calling the State Administrative Board of Election Laws at 1-800-222-VOTE.

Murder Has Few Meanings! Abortion Is Murder

If you have belief in the Bible, then you cannot after the above statement. If you do not believe in the Bible, then you are most unfortunate, as you will be lost forever - a somewhat lengthy period of time.

Abortion does not need to be specified, however, it is well covered: In Psalm 139, David is speaking, verse 13+, 'for You have formed by inward parts: You have covered me in my mother's womb". In Jeremiah, chapter 1, verse 5, the Lord said "Before I formed you in the womb I knew before you were born I sanctified you .

If you have any doubts about murder, that too can be reviewed in the Bible, and in the process it is God's hope that you will not only be against abortion, but also, you will turn to God for that peace you have always sought. Turn to Him for your every need: seek Him and you will place an end to your worldly goals and look forward to the goals of spending eternity with Him, instead of the ways of the wicked man (see Proverbs 7, verses 12 through 19.) If you do not know God, my friend, you have never known

ative Cooking For The Kids!

In this age, basic computor classes get more emphasis than home econonmics. Parents can help their children by teaching them important kitchen skills that can lead to self-sufficient "petite gourmets' who find rewards in cooking for themselves.

Creating food can be exciting to children, especially when they help in the preparation. Taking children through simple recipes means they not only create different dishes to eat, but they learn the basics about the "science", safety and nutrition of food. As a result, children know how to plan a variety of healthy meals and can be trusted alone in the kitchen.

Children can begin helping in the kitchen at a young age reading recipes, setting the table or cleaning up after meals.

Because children have short attention spans, select recipes that have few steps. Point out the things adults sometimes take for granted, such as food changing color during the cooking process. Explain how to protect food from spoilage by wrapping it tightly and refrigerating after use.

Children who learn cooking basics can find reward and a sense of independence when they cook for themselves. Encourage them with positive feedback whenever possible. The biggest compliment is simply eating - and enjoying - what they prepare.

ARE WE ALSO BLIND? January 28, 1990

Background Scripture: John 9. Devotional Reading: John 9:1-5.

One of the unique aspects of the Gospel According to John is that many of the incidents recorded have various levels of meaning. On one level, John 9 is the story of a man who is healed of blindness by Jesus and the controversy this healing generates between Jesus and the Pharisees. On a deeper level, however, John 9 is an exposition on spiritual blindness and Jesus as the Light of the World.

The passage begins with one disturbing theological question and quickly turns to another. 'Rabbi, who sinned, this man or his parents, that he was born blind?" (9:2). The prevalent belief in Jesus' day was that illness or physical handicap was almost always a punishment for sin. NOT PUNISHMENT

But Jesus did not subscribe to that theology. In the gospeis it is apparent that Jesus does not look upon sin as the cause of illness and impairment. Not once does he refuse to heal someone because he might interfere with God's punishment of that person. That does not mean that there are no consequences to sin. If I drive recklessly and have an accident. I may sustain a serious injury as a consequences of my hazardous driving, but not as punishment placed upon me by God.

So, Jesus replied to the question of his disciples: "It was not that" this man sinned, or his parents, but that the works of God might? be made manifest in him" (9:3).

No sooner do we read these? words than we find that Jesus has? solved one question with the posing of still another. When Jesus says this, is he saying that God sent blindness to this man in order. to display God's miraculous; power? A footnote in Oxford Annotated Revised Standard Version of the Bible suggests an answer: "Jesus...shifts attention from cause to purpose; this is an opportunity for God to act." If this is correct, it would mean that, although God does not cause illness and injury, he can use human affliction for his own redeeming purpose. In other words, God uses, but does not #### cause it.

Yet, note how the Pharisees are preoccupied with sin. The man born blind they pronounce a sin-"You were born in utter ner: ." (9:34) and they also resin. gard the one who healed him in the same manner: "We know that this man is a sinner" (9:24). The Pharisees were obsessed with sin (at least the sins of others) and they were really much more concerned with their traditions than the recovery of the man's sight. They are angry, jealous and resentful. Isn't it strange how religious people can be so blind?

OBSESSED WITH SIN

Because of their preoccupation with the possible sins of the Jesus and the man born blind, they were unable to see the wonder and glory of what Jesus did for this man. Nor were they able to see their own sin. "If you were blind," says Jesus, "you wouldhave no guilt; but now that you say 'We see,' your guilt remains" (9:41). It is our pride that. blinds us both to others and ourselves.

Garrett County Schools Receive CD-ROM Players

Through block grant funds, Northern High, Southern High and Northern Middle schools have received CD-ROM players to be placed in each library/media center. Southern Middle has had this technology for two years and, through local funds, Broad Ford Elementary school also is included.

A CD-ROM player is a computerized device that stores and eccesses information on a small plastic disc called a "CD" (compact disk) through a computer terminal. Through each school's computer software budget category, the first package to be purchased was Grolier's Academic American Encyclopedia. Grolier's is an entire 21-volume encyclopedia stored on a single "CD." A student may enter words or topics to search and receive back a list of articles available in the encyclopedia. The next step is to decide which articles can be used and display on the computer screem the full text of those articles. Since an encyclopedia is only the first step in researching a paper, this information can then be used in a word processing program to continue research from other Sources

An added advantage to this dechnology is that CD's are less

According to a Board of Education spokesman, the use of this technology will eventually allow Garrett County schools to more fully participate in the Maryland Intra-library Loan Network, a state-wide system of public and school libraries, whose listings are found on CD. As students get more efficient in searches, the next step is to access other databases by way of telephones and modems.

Additional block grant funds were used to complete network configurations in elementary schools, initiated by the Maryland Educational Project and

On Dean's List

Dr. Curtis J. Tompkins, Dean of the West Virginia University College of Engineering, has announced that John Dolan, who was graduated in December, receiving a bachelor of science degree in mechanical engineering, was placed on the College Dean's List for the fall semester 1989.

Dolan, a graduate of Southern High School, is the son of William and Kiyo Dolan, Oakland.

Enrollment At FSU For Spring Sets New Record

The second half of the 1989-90 academic year got underway January 22 at Frostburg State University, as classes began with another record spring enrollment, including a record number of new students for spring

While exact enrollment figures aren't available yet, University officials expect the number of new students to top 300, up from last year's 269 new registrants, and generally look to an overall spring enrollment of about 4,500 students. Included in the enrollment figure are some 300 students taking classes at the FSU Center in Hagerstown, which is experiencing steady growth. Last Thursday and Friday, the University conducted testing and orientation and advising sessions for new and transfer students. Registration also opened on Friday and continues through this week for any students who did not preregister. The drop-add period runs through January 26. New students moved into residence halls last week while returning students returned Sunday, January 21.

New FSU students hail from all parts of Maryland and several are from foreign locations, including Africa and the Peoples Republic of China. With FSU's new international studies program initiated last fall, notes University officials, many students are opting not only for the program, but are choosing to study abroad as well. FSU's recent global outreach and the fact that many international college presidents visited the campus last fall reflect on the increased visibility of international studies, according to an FSU spokesman.

DHMH Funding Upped 9.68% In Schaefer Budget

Officials with the Department of Health and Mental Hygiene (DHMH) have expressed their support for Governor William Donald Schaefer's spending plan which calls for a 9.68% increase in the department's budget, boosting its spending to $2.19-billion beginning July 1, 1990. The governor presented his Fiscal Year 1991 state budget to the General Assembly on January 17.

With this increase we will be able to expand needed services, such as implementing the governor's substance abuse initiatives, while keeping spending in line with the affordability limits set by the legislature," said Adele Wilzack, R.N., M.S., Secretary of DHMH. "We will be able to do this by putting into place some cost containment measures that will require us to manage our dollars more closely and make the most of what we have," she said. "Without these measures the department's budget would have been a lot higher - about $48-million higher!" she added. The DHMH budget includes a number of programs that will result in cost-savings to the *Maryland Medical Access Program: Medicaid recipients will be linked with primary care providers to emphasize preventive care. Cost savings: $7.6-million

*Out-Of-State Hospital Reimbursement: Standardization of out-of-state Medicaid hospital rates. Cost savings: $7-million.

*Managed Care and Preventive Services for Diabetics: Medicaid diabetics will be placed with a managed care provider following discharge from the hospital, enrolled in a one-time intensive diabetic education program as well as on-going one-on-one nutrition counseling as a means to reduce costly hospitalization by 13% in the first year. Cost savings:

$2.5-million. *Health Insurance/AIDS: The state will pay the premium to continue the employer coverage up to 18 months after the patient has become unemployed due to AIDS. Cost savings: $2.2-million.

Catas-Motorcycle trophic/Rehabilitation Insurance: Will require cyclists to carry catastrophic/rehabilitation health insurance in order to register their motorcycle. This will decrease the financial burden on state taxpayers for the costs associated with motorcycle injuries. Cost savings: $2-million.

There are a number of areas in which the DHMH FY '91 budget will expand existing programs as well as create new services:

*$12-million for Governor Schaefer's substance abuse prevention and treatment initiatives.

*$6.7-million in General Funds to continue expansion of community placements and other services in year three of the Governor's Mental Health Initiative.

*$131-thousand to provide outpatient mental health services to 150 hearing impaired individuals living in the eastern and western regions of the state. *$600-thousand to expand services to clients diagnosed with both mental retardation and mental illness. *$277-thousand to provide housing, treatment and support services for homeless individuals who are mentally ill or substance abusers.

*$611-thousand for Health Care For The Homeless, Inc. the DHMH budget will increase which provides medical serspending

*$5.8-million in General Funds to provide community placements for 242 developmentally disabled clients.

*$192-thousand to ehhance food control measures throughout the state under the second year of a multi-year initiative.

The DHMH budget for FY '91 includes a $111-million or 8.40% increase in General Funds well below the 9% spending affordability limit set by the General Assembly last week. The department's budget also includes $74.5-million new dollars from the federal government; a $5.6-million increase in Special Funds: and $2-million in additional reimbursable funds. If approved by the legislature, the semester.

WITH SINCERE THANKS

I would like to thank everyone who helped out in any way after my accident on January 10, 1990, on the Sand Flat Road. Special thanks to the man who first stopped and helped me out of my Bronco, the two men who helped find my things and took me to John and Judy's, to the Southern Garrett Rescue Squad, Garrett County Memorial Hospital, Deer Park Fire Department, to Mr. Filsinger and John and Judy Filsinger for all their help.

All the help I received was greatly appreciated!

> Transportation Program Sponsors Special Training

> The Garrett Transportation Program of Community Action recently sponsored two special training sessions for their employees.

The first class was conducted by Randy Ashby of the Ashby Fire Company, who instructed the entire transportation staff on the proper handling and use of fire extinguishers. The group met outside of the Community Action building for a demonstration, and then participated in the actual usage of the fire extinguishers.

Linda Green, program director, commented, "We are aware of the importance of keeping our employees current on all safety related instances. This exercise is just one in a series of refresher classes that is intended to be used as a tool to keep our employees knowledgeable."

The second of the training sessions was conducted in Hagerstown at the Sheraton Inn. A course entitled "How To Be A Better Proofreader" was offered by Success Builders, a company that specializes in diverse practical office skills. The class was designed to sharpen the proofreading techniques of those who deal with entation on a daily basis. Those attending the seminar were Beth Paugh, Vicki Meyers, Lawrence Ford and Ray Teets. #### GOP Fundraising Letter Denounced By Party Leader

Joyce Terhes, the recently elected Maryland Republican state party chairman, has denounced a fundraising letter ent out by a group calling itself Maryland Republican Fund, sliving that the letter incorrectly suggests to its recipients that they are being asked to Monate to a legitimate arm of the state party.

"According to Terhes, the Reter - signed by Albert E. Bullock, a Montgomery County Republican Central Committee member who is a close ally of Dan Fleming, the Maryland Republican chairman who resigned under pressure last November and was replaced by Perhes - purports to represent an organization that worked for George Bush's election in 1988, and received donations from the letter's recipients for the 988 Republican victory in Maryland.

The letter reads in part, "In politics they say it's hard to tell who your friends are. But you have always been a generous triend. And together in 1988 we accomplished great things . . . With your contribution, we an mount the same kind of fort that carried Maryland for eorge Bush. And just like in 988, your contribution will nake a difference."

Terhes said that these statements are misleading because the Maryland Republican Fund did not exist during the 1988 campaign. It was just filed as a committee with the Federal Election Commission on January 16, 1990, the same day its fundraising letter is dated. She said that Richard Andrews, another Fleming ally, is listed by the FEC as treasurer of Maryland Republican Fund.

Terhes said that the letter, sponsored by representatives of the same group who left the Maryland party $40,000 in debt at the time of Fleming's resignation, is undermining the state party's fundraising efforts.

"We have received calls from previous state party contributors all over Maryland wanting to know if this is our fundraising letter Many people will obviously believe it is and will send donations to Maryland Republican Fund thinking they are helping the state party to get out of debt and finance Republican candidates in the 1990 election. I want to make sure that people are not misinformed by stating categorically that there is no connection between the Maryland Republican Fund and the state Republican Party," Terhes said.

Terhes said that a fundraising letter from the state Republican party will be sent out soon and will be signed Joyce Terhes, chairman, Maryland Republican Party.

Low-Cost Phone Service Program Expanded Jan. 1

Low-cost telephone service became available on January 1. 1990, for as many as 63,000 Marylanders who are certified participants in the Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC) Program.

Called Tel-Life, the service is currently available to elderly and disabled Marylanders who are certified participants under the Supplemental Security Income (SSI) Program and the Department of Human Resources (DHR) administered General Public Assistance (GPA) Program.

According to C&P spokeswoman Nancy Nemith, "Tel-Life service was originally the result of a bill which was passed by the 1985 Maryland General Assembly. Its purpose is to ensure that those low-income elderly and disabled individuals who may have the greatest need for telephone service are not precluded from such service due to cost. We believe that the most recent legislation, which was passed by the 1989 Maryland General Assembly and extended the benefits of Tel-Life service to AFDC recipients, is a logical expansion of Tel-Life service. Now, an even larger segment of our community will benefit from this program."

"We are very pleased to work with C&P Telephone to provide Tel-Life to AFDC recipients," said the Department of Human Resources Secretary Carolyn W. Colvin. "Tel-LIfe is a much needed service for our clients because a telephone has become a necessity rather than a privilege."

Tel-Life service includes local residential service plus 30 local, untimed calls per month. Participants will be billed by C&P for only 50% of its approved charges for this service. "At current rates, the basic monthly rate for the line equates to $2.53 for rotary dial service or $3.16 for touch tone service - plus applicable taxes and 911 fees," said Nemith. "In addition, Tel-Life customers will receive the 50% discount on the first 30 local calls each month, which will be billed at the rate of 4.5 cents per call. All calls over 30 will be billed at the approved rate of 9 cents per

There are certain restrictions built into the program. For example, a participant may not have any other local telephone service in his or her dwelling unit and may not have any premium services such as Call Waiting or Three-Way Calling. However, since some disabilities preclude the use of dial telephone service, touch tone service is available at a 50% discount. Participants in the program are required to pay the full, approved rate for all other services - including the total charges for any local calls after the first 30 and for all long distance calls.

The State Department of Human Resources began mailing information about Tel-Life service on December 30, 1989, to individuals who were receiving AFDC benefits. The information includes an application form for customers to mail to the Department of Human Resources, along with a brochure explaining the service in detail. The Department of Human Resources will screen and certify applicants who qualify for Tel-Life service and forward the completed form to C&P to process the application for service. This application process could take up to 30 days from the date the customer mails the completed form to DHR.

DHR anticipates having all mailings out to ADFC recipients by early February. Any customer who has not received an information package by February 15, 1990, should contact the Department of Human Resources in Baltimore at 333-0847, or call DHR's Information & Referral Service at 1-800-332-6347 for assistance. DREAM OF A BETTER TOMORROW FOR OUR

This is perhaps the most precious dream of all. For generations, Western Marylanders have invested more than money with First Federal-they've invested their most treasured dreams. And that's a trust we take more seriously than we could possibly express.

Our level of liquidity and retained carnings most clearly expresses on a financial basis our commitment to conservative management and prudent investment. But more importantly in these turbulent financial times, every staff member of First Federal Savings Bank understands that we must continually earn the trust of the neighbors who trust their deposits with us. From the teller who takes the deposit, to the financial manager who invests it, we never forget that our first responsibility is to our neighbors.

There is no higher objective at First Federal Savings Bank than maintaining the trust and confidence of each Western Maryland neighbor who deposits with us.

Save with confidence.

You can work through your money problems with some creative thinking. Loved ones will surprise you with something special this week; show your appreciation.

GEMINI (May 21 - June 20) Geminis must be a little more stringent about their work this week. It is important for someone in authority to become impressed with your creative abilities.

CANCER (June 21 - July 22) You appreciate someone young, but knowledgeable. Don't overestimate your worth in a particular situation. You could end up with unwanted company at week's end. LEO (July 23 - August 22)

An authority figure will help you plan career goals if you would just ask them to. You will face a crisis concerning either a love relationship or work. VIRGO (August 23 - September 22)

You seek prestige through your work. Be careful not to do too many things at once. Stretching yourself too thin could cause suffering for you and loved ones. LIBRA (September 23 - October 22)

You could get lost on a tricky path this week. Don't be tempted by those making false offerings. Also, don't let others exploit your talents to meet their own goals.

SCORPIO (October 23 - November 21) A crisis at home could cost a great deal if not attended to quickly. Someone mature may grant a special wish that will make you very happy this week

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 - December 21) Take a closer look at yourself this week and you may discover some hidden talents. Opportunities will come your way this week; make sure you are ready for them.

CAPRICORN (December 22 - January 19) Greed could lead you down a path of destruction if you let it this week. This is no joke. Take pride in your work and don't sell yourself short.

CHILDREN'S CHOICE

It's your 40th anniversary, Charlie Brown

By Mary Ann Townsend Charlie Brown and his friends the Peanuts gang help Americans celebrate just about every holiday now, from New Year's Day through Valentine's Day, July Fourth, Halloween and Christmas, and this year the popular comic strip characters observe their 40th anniversary with a new special.

Charlie Brown's 40th Anniversary, airs Friday. Feb. 2, on CBS.

The special celebrates four decades of Charles M. Schulz' Peanuts comic strip and 25 years of the animated specials that have appeared on CBS. The hour-long program combines animation and live action, and will examine what the strip has meant to Americans and to others around the world and the impact it has had on cartoons and animation.

Schulz has joined with Lee Mendelson and Bill Melendez on the more than 30 animated Peanuts specials that have appeared on CBS since 1965. This longestrunning series of animated specials in television has won a record five Emmy Awards in the Best Animated Special category, two Peabody Awards and 20 additional Emmy nomina-

Later this year, look for another new Peanuts special, Why. Charlie Brown, Why?, a sensitive half-hour in which the gang meets a child suffering from leukemia.

PERSONALITY PORTRAIT

Celebrity was inevitable for actress Tracy Nelson

By Shelia Odak

Tracy Nelson was literally born to be a star. This actress, who can currently be seen again in The Father Dowling Mysteries on ABC. has a heritage of talent behind her that practically assures her success.

Of course, everyone knows that her dad was the famous singer/actor Ricky Nelson. but few know that her mother. Kristin Harmon Nelson, is a talented painter. Her twin brothers are also musicians and have their own band.

Everyone has heard of her grandparents. Ozzie and Harriet Nelson. Ozzie first established himself as a band leader, and then went on to direct, produce and star in The Adventures of Ozzie and Harriet. Harriet Nelson was a vocalist in Ozzie's band, and also an actress prior to that television

Tracy's maternal grandparents are Tom and Elsye Knox Harmon. Elsye was an actress who appeared in a number of films, including The Sweetheart of Sigma Chi. Tom Harmon was an all-American football hero from Michigan and was the subject, and the star, of the film Harmon of Michigan. If the name Harmon

Mark Harmon, well Tracy is related to him, too. He's her uncle. As if that weren't enough. Tracy is also married to

Cawley Testimony

Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Wayne A. Cawley Jr., with members of his staff, testified January 9, before the Governor's Commission on Growth in the Chesapeake Bay Region. The testimony focused on agricultural land preservation and the future profitability of farming.

"We realize the importance of green space to the quality of life for Marylanders. This has been well established. For us, the good news is that we are in the process of learning how important well managed farmland can be to the health of the Chesapeake Bay," Cawley said.

Testifying along with Cawley were Assistant Secretary of Agriculture for Animal Health and Consumer Services Dr. Archibald B. Park, Vice Chancellor for Agriculture and Natural Resources at the University of Maryland Dr. Raymond Miller, and the Executive Director of the Maryland Agricultural Land Preservation Foundation Paul W. Scheidt.

The Governor's Commission on Growth is chaired by Michael D. Barnes, former Congressman from Montgomery County. Its mission is to provide the Governor with a recommended "Action Agenda" to maintain economic growth and ensure a healthy environment and cleaner

Chesapeake Bay. In preparing its recommendations for the next century, the commission is taking testimony from groups and individuals over a broad spectrum of Maryland society. It will report back to the governor with its findings and recommendations at the end of the year.

Pres. Bush Calls Capital Gains Tax Cut "Top Priority" For 1990

President George Bush told more than 7,000 farm families attending the American Farm Bureau Federation's 71st annual meeting, held this month in Orlando, Fla., that through "sound fiscal practices, wise management of our resources, common sense attitudes and, God willing, good weather, we can succeed" in keeping "rural America strong and American agriculture thriving in the

President Bush praised the efforts of Farm Bureau in the fight for fiscal responsibility and a reduction in capital gains taxes - two priorities of the organization. "Your support has been instrumental in the fight for the capital gains tax cut and the fight isn't over yet," he said. "Passage of our capital gains proposal, which would apply to the sale of farmland, will be one of my top priorities in this legislative year," he

In what he termed his "first major address of the decade," Bush called on Farm Bureau gains tax cut when Congress returns to Washington this week. "For us to reap the full benefits of a competitive economy, we must cut the capital gains tax rate. With our capital gains proposal, we can help keep American agriculture dynamic and prosperous. And, with continued economic

"To be competitive, we must have market-oriented farm policies that allow producers more flexibility to decide what crops to grow, so American farmers can do what American farmers do best: compete." Bush said. "At the same time, we've got to maintain a safety net to protect farmers from conditions beyond their control. But market-oriented farm policies are only a part of the agricultural picture," the president said. "We've got to expand markets and enhance productivity. We've got to asure the public that America's food is the safest in the world, and precious environment." President Bush emphasized his support for fighting international trade barriers "through negotiation, not reciprical protectionism." He stressed that "any agreement we sign will be an agreement that's also good for American agriculture. Our goal is simple: open markets and free trade."

The efforts of farmers as environmentalists also were praised. "America's farmers understand the importance of a clean environment. Many of you here today come from farms that have been handed down from parents and grandparents," Bush said. "You know that to protect the land is to protect not just your livlihood, but your heritage.

"You've been through the worst droughts and natural disasters of the 1980s and survived economic tough times. But you have worked with your minds and your hands to beat adversity with a kind of can-do commitment that's been the hallmark of American farming for generations.

AFBF Delegates Re-Elect Leaders;

Call For Greater Crop Flexibility to a third two-year term at the American Farm Bureau Federation's 71st annual meeting in Orlando, Fla., this month. Vice President Harry Bell also was

In official policy action, Farm Bureau delegates endorsed the basic principles of the current farm bill. The delegates stressed, however, that Congress should provide greater flexibility in planting choices among farm program crops.

The assembled farmers and ranchers said producers should have greater freedom to interchange base acreages among program crops and approved non-program crops.

On the farm bill, the delegates said, "We support enactment of a new five-year or longer farm bill which will continue to move the United States in the general direction of a market-based, export-competitive agriculture." The delegates reaffirmed their opposition to any type of mandatory production control, acreage

Dean Kleckner was selected control or marketing control programs and called for a freeze of target prices at their 1990 levels

The delegates also called for a 45-million-acre cap on the conservation reserve program, the level stipulated by the 1985 farm act, and said loan and farmer-held grain reserve levels should be tied to market

In addressing food safety concerns, the farm group called for an aggressive program to educate consumers on the standards of safety and nutritional value of the American food supply while calling for support for the concept of negligible risk and national uniformity in pesticide residue standards.

They also asserted that proposed environmental laws and regulations must not shackle U.S. producers and cause lost foreign and domestic markets. The Farm Bureau delegates voiced strong opposition to any attempt to mandate low-input methods of farming or any efforts to require low-input methods as a condition of participation in government farm programs.

"We support research aimed at reducing overall inputs needed to sustain a profitable farming operation and information programs to farmers on proven means of improving the efficiency of inputs," the delegates said. In related actions, the farm group voiced support for seafood inspection by the Agriculture Department, a national labeling program for organic foods and improved imported food products. The delegates also called for a cut in capital gains taxes for timber, livestock, depreciable assets and land. President Bush had earlier received enthusiastic response to his convention call for a reduced capital gains inspection services for

The delegates continued the organization's support for efforts to liberalize world farm trade. "We support the concept embodied in the U.S. world trade proposal that all tradedistorting government proposals be subjected to progressive and substantial reductions worldwide," they de-

But if the current trade negotiations fail to achieve substantial progress, the delegates reaffirmed their support for retention of domestic farm programs, existing Section 22 waivers and retention of the U.S. Meat Import Act. They also called for a waiver of the Jackson-Vanik law to allow bilateral trade negotiations with the Soviet Union and other Eastern European countries, which could lead to establishment of most-favored-nation treatment for those countries.

On the domestic side, the farmers and ranchers called for a sound crop insurance program. "We support the abolishment of disaster programs when the federal crop insurance program is made equitable and workable," they said.

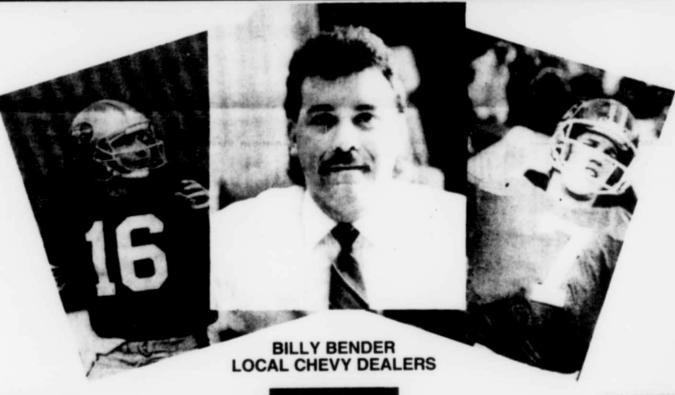

In other actions, the delegates called for expanded farm credit services, reasonable acreage levels for wetland designations, greater oversight by the Commodity Futures Trading Commission of futures exchanges and floor traders to ensure the integrity of future trading.

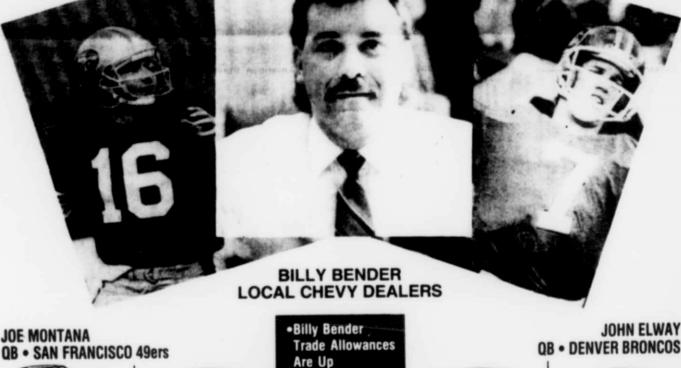

On environmental issues, the delegates said producers should be compensated when agricultural production costs are adversely affected by actions taken to protect endangered species. They also expressed opposition to proposals to tie farm program benefits to welltesting and groundwater contamination. While acknowledging a need for increased research in integrated pest management, water quality and biotechnology programs, the delegates said the efforts should result from new funding, not at the expense of existing productive research programs.

Farm Bill Review

..... A Garrett County Viewpoint

by Bernice Keppel

Congress began work again this week in Washington, D.C., and one major topic on their legislative agenda for the year is the 1990 farm bill. The farm bill is a five-year program, last revised in 1985. This year, the lawmakers have three basic options: they can let the 1985 farm bill expire, whereby all programs would revert back to the old legislation; they can extend the 1985 farm bill for another year (postponing the time-consuming and controversial issue to a non-election year); or they can write a new farm bill.

Those observers close to "the hill" expect a new farm bill to be written and passed some time next year. Few believe the 1985 farm bill will be allowed to expire. Senator Patrick Leahy (D-Vt.) chair of the Senate Agriculture Committee pointed out that hearings will be conducted the first three months of 1990, and he hopes to fashion a farm bill prior to Labor Day. Getting a bill passed after that will be difficult, he said, because about half of the ag committee will be up for reelection next year. Given a choice between working on a farm bill and campaigning for reelection, the latter may be a more powerful draw, he added. American Farm Bureau Federation President Dean Kleckner is urging Congress to wrap up the 1990 farm bill by mid-summer to avoid the frenzy of election-year politics.

Some correspondents look for improvements to be made to commodities programs. That improvement may take the form of giving farmers more flexibility within the quota system, enabling them to shift from one crop to another as market conditions change. The increase in demand for oats and processed oat bran is an example. Large quantities of oats are now being imported from Canada and other nations to keep pace with those wanting to eat "heart-healthy," because U.S. farmers are locked into commodities and oat production has not been able to keep pace.

Flexibility seems to be a key word in all conversations regarding the farm bill this year. At the USDA Outlook '90 conference in December, USDA Secretary Clayton Yeutter and House Agriculture Committee members talked about the need for "flexibility" in the new farm law. Senator Leahy, along with the Senate Agriculture Committee's ranking Republican, Richard Lugar, endorsed the concept of flexible planting by introducing legislation that would base future crop payments on historical bases and leave farmers free to plant whatever "program" crops

This time, a number of pressures normally outside the customary debate over agricultural policy are expected to surface. Entering into the agenda this year will be animal welfare, environmental and food safety activists. Also needing consideration will be the federal budget and world trade. AFBF's Kleckner said that American farmers will have their own environmental agenda in the debate over the farm bill and "I believe the facts will support our position."

Kleckner said farmers are most concerned about efforts by environmental groups to tighten regulations on the use of chemicals and fertilizers. "Some groups want an all-organic agriculture. That will fly like a lead balloon," he said. "We're not against environmental safeguards. In truth we are using fewer chemicals, but we have to produce food and we can't do it without chemicals and fertilizers," he added. Early in the discussions, the current milk pricing program will be under question. Major questions will include: "Should the industry adopt a form of component pricing?" and "Should the 1990 dairy program be based on the traditional values of butterfat production, or on total milk solids?" Those speaking for the nation's dairy farmers feel it is critical that policy makers who help formulate the 1990 farm bill understand the impact farm policy can have on the dairy farmer's ability to compete in meeting future market needs. At the recent National Milk Producers Federation convention, delegates were unable to agree on a unified position on supply management for the 1990 farm bill debate. Senator Leahy said he was disappointed. "You are missing an important opportunity. I do not want you to go into the farm bill, once again, in disarray, and suffer the consequences. I do not want to hear 15 different views of what is good dairy policy," he told them, and added that he wanted the delegates to "hash out" their differences. No whole-herd buyout program is expected to be included in this farm bill. Sen. Leahy said that pressure from cattle producers would make it very difficult to pass a farm bill with a whole-herd termination program. Leahy also told producers to be realistic in pressing for new dairy policy. A "no price cut" policy that costs more than $2 billion per year is not in the cards - a handful of votes is not enough to win that type of an increase, he told convention delegates.

Major attention will also be placed on rural development. One proposal under consideration would substantially reform the way the government delivers rural development assistance by combining several financial programs into a block-grant system. The major benefit of this approach is that it gives states and local governments more control over federal rural development funds. allowing the people who live with the problems the chance to

The plan creates a Rural Development Administration within the Department of Agriculture and establishes guidelines for states to use in apportioning funds. Changes expected would be loosening restrictions of Farmer Mac housing assistance (changing the criteria for rural housing loans so that more communities qualify as "rural"); easing pay-back requirements on loans to rural electrification co-ops if the funds have been used for community development projects; establishing technology and information-sharing services designed to promote crop diversification and development of new small agricultural support businesses; and offering federal financial assistance for upgrading small water-delivery systems.

There is much more to come, and it looks like a busy year ahead for Congress, for farmers whose incomes depend on the decisions made by Congress, and for farm reporters who must try to sort it all out and make sense of it.

Loan Guarantee Program Noted By FmHA, USDA

The Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) has a new loan guarantee program to assist rural businesses, including certain farmers, suffering from various weatherrelated disasters of the last two years, FmHA Director G. Wallace Caulk said this week.

The new program, disaster assistance for rural business enterprises, was enacted as part of the Disaster Assistance Act of 1989. It provides loan guarantees for businesses affected by drought, freeze, storm, excessive moisture, or related conditions, in 1988 or

"We can guarantee a loan of up to $10 million made by a local lender." Caulk said, "but maximum loss covered cannot exceed the percentage of guarantee multiplied by the unpaid principal and accrued interest or $2.5 million, whichever is the lesser amount.

Thus, the amount of the loan will determine the percentage of the guarantee for loans larger than $2 million. For example, a loan of $10 million would be limited to a 20-percent guarantee, and a $5 million loan would not exceed a 40 percent guarantee. For loans of $2 million or less, the maximum percentage of guarantee will be 90 percent.

The program is patterned after the U.S. Department of Agriculture agency's regular business and industry loan guarantee program. A major difference is that agricultural operations that are larger than family size and, thus, not eligible for FmHA's regular farm loans, are eligible under the new program. Hotels, motels, and recreation facilities are also eligible.

EARNEST MONEY TALKS!

Prospective buyers just left the home you have "For Sale". They said they would pay full price which sounded great, but then they asked you to hold the house for them until next month. They didn't offer to give you a deposit to hold the home either. Do you think you have a serious buyer? Would you be willing to hold the home, unsold, for a month for such buyers?

Chances are you've just encountered some serious "lookers", but probably not real buyers. The reason - sincere, motivated buyers understand that in order to purchase a home it will be necessary for them to give the sellers (or their real estate agent) an "earnest money" or "good faith" deposit. This would normally be a sum of money in an amount which would assure the sellers that their property was indeed SOLD, and which would insure final settlement on the property. It is generally thought that the more money tendered by buyers as "earnest money", the more serious and committed they are to completing the purchase.

It is not uncommon for a real estate purchase agreement to call for the forfeiture of that deposit if the buyers should fail to purchase. Thus, it follows that insincere buyers won't want to risk a penny, while real buyers will be totally cooperative in supplying a substantial deposit. Don't hesitate to ask your buyer for "earnest money". It's your assurance of a completed sale.

IRS Issues Notice on Agricultural Workers Witholding

The IRS is finally aware that agricultural employers must begin deducting federal income taxes from the wages of agricultural workers subject to Social Security (FICA) taxes. As you all know, Congress included this provision in the 1989 Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act.

The IRS sent Notice 907 to over 400,000 agricultural employers along with the December mailing of Form 943, "Employer's Annual Tax Return for Agricultural Employees." The notice explains that agricultural employers should ask each farm worker to submit a completed Form W-4, "Employee's Withholding Allowance Certificate," so the employer can determine how much to withhold each payday for all cash wages paid after 1989.

Many farm workers will also need Form SS-5, "Application for a Social Security Number Card," to get a Social Security number. Form SS-5 is available from the Social Security Administration offices. Employers can call the IRS forms order number, 1-800-424-376 to order Forms W-4 and Circular E. We also have these forms available at our office.

Gypsy Moth Update

An aerial applicator for Gypsy Moth control has been selected. The cost per acre will be $10.00; however, the County Commissioners will be sharing one-half of the cost, leavingt the landowner with only $5.00 per acre cost. I would advise dyou to have ASCS calculate the acreage you want sprayed on your farm aerial map. The acreage must be verified by ASCS. Application/agreements will be available soon.

Farmers Urged To Take Active Stance In Environmental Debate

U.S. Agriculture Secretary Clayton Yeutter urged Farm Bureau farmers at their national meeting to get involved in the farm bill discussions to help win the debate over environmental issues.

"There will be tradeoffs during the farm bill debate," Yeutter told American Farm Bureau Federation members attending the annual meeting in Orlando, Fla. "We need your help to win the debate," he said.

"Environmental interests must be balanced in a reasonable way. Farmers are the most committed environmentalists in the world. They were environmentalists long before it became popular," he added.

The Agricultural official said American farmers have been hurt by "too rigid" farm policies, which, he said, must be corrected in the next farm bill. "Farmers don't like it when they can't plant what they want.

Yeutter said American farmers will realize record net farm income in 1989. With world food demands growing and agricultural exports rebounding, "we must ask ourselves how much land we want to take out of production in a long-term way. We are making an enormous contribution to the world agricultural situation in taking land out of production. (But), there is a danger of providing too much of a world production umbrella."

Yeutter, former U.S. trade ambassador, said the nation's farmers have much more to Continued on Page B-15 gain than lose from successful world trade talks. "Other countries of the world know they can't compete with us, so they have tried to opt out of the negotiations or negotiate for market share."

Yeutter said some "fringe" groups have undermined the U.S. position in world trade talks by criticizing the U.S. plan and using scare tactics. "The Europeans would love to foster divisiveness in the United States. We will not disarm unilaterally. We worked hard to secure agriculture as a priority issue in the Uruguay Round (GATT talks). This is not the time to turn tail and run. "If we back away from the international marketplace, it will have a tremendous impact in the rural community." Yeutter said beef sales to Japan jumped 70 percent in the first year of the new trade accord. He deplored European policies which establish a two-tier price system with low prices for exported goods and higher prices for domestic consumers. 'Such a policy would be doomed to failure if adopted in division. The five lots are pro posed to have a land area of .95 ac., .74 ac., .66 ac., .75 ac. and .59 ac. respectively instead of the required one acre each. 2) Docket VR-236: an appli cation made by Mr. Paul Boggs for a Variance from the terms of the Zoning Ordinance as it at fects the rear yard set-back requirement for residences. Landowners with 10 to 500 acres of forest land, who agree to maintain the forestry practice for 15 years, are eligible to apply for this program. Regulations state that landowners may not have applied for, received approval for, or be receiving federal costshare assistance for the same forestry practice for which assistance is sought.

Grantsville Man Gets Five Years For Assault

A Grantsville man was sentenced to five years in the Department of Corrections during a trial held last Thursday in Garrett County Circuit Court.

Larry Melvin Bittinger, 22, pleaded guilty to a charge of assault with intent to prevent lawful apprehension and several traffic charges, including driving under the influence. The guilty pleas were entered at a December 28, 1989, hearing, at which time Chief Judge Fred A Thayer ordered a pre-sentence investigation.

In addition to the five-year sentence for felony assault, Bittinger received two two-month sentences to be served concurrently with his original sentence, for traffic charges, Bittinger was also fined $100 for driving without a license.

On September 13, 1989, Bittinger was handed down indictments from the Garrett County Grand Jury, involving six assault-related charges and seven additional traffic charges.

The charges stemmed from an incident August 11, 1989, in which Bittinger wielded a butcher knife and reportedly lunged at Deputy C.P. Nolan, Garrett County Sheriff's Department.

The incident took place at Failinger Apartments, Grantsville, where Bittinger had allegedly fled while being pursued by Nolan in relation to a variety of traffic violations Nolan was assisted by Sgt. C.P. Smith and TFC R.J. Resh, of the Maryland State Police.

Charges of resisting arrest, reckless endangerment, assault, openly wearing and carrying a dangerous and deadly weapon, malicious destruction of property, and several traffic violations, including driving while intoxicated were not prosecuted.

Bittinger was represented by John R. Toston.

Health Dept. Notes Increase In Rabies Cases

Two more rabies cases were confirmed last week by the Garrett County Environmental Health Department, according to Rodney Glotfelty, assistant director, who stated his surprise at the total number of cases reported so far this year.

Glotfelty stated that a total of seven cases were confirmed in Garrett County last year and that, so far this year, there have been four reported cases. He reported that this increase may be a result of the unseasonably warm temperatures in January this year, noting, "The animals are likely moving around more in this type of weather."

Dick and Marsha McKenzie, submitted a raccoon to authorities last Thursday after several of their dogs dragged the animal out of the woods near their home on Rt. 219, north of Grantsville.

Although there was no human exposure to the rabid animal, several unvaccinated dogs and cats had to be destroyed, said

The second rabid animal incident to occur last week was reported by Walter Swauger who spotted another raccoon Thursday afternoon on Bishoff Road off Rt. 42. A neighbor was reportedly exposed to the rabid animal but all the dogs in the vicinity had been vaccinated.

Glotfelty cautioned that since 'these cases are cropping up all over the county (the first two cases of the year having been in the Gorman area), no geographical location is immune." He urged, once again, that residents make sure all their domestic animals have up-todate rabies vaccinations.

The Carotenutos were reportedly in Pittsburgh at the time of the fire. The alarm was called in by a neighbor who heard glass breaking.

Also responding was the county air cascade vehicle, presently being housed at Friendsville VFD, and the Southern Rescue Squad. There were no injuries reported.

Carola determined that the fire was accidental in nature and believed that an electrical problem involving a baseboard hot water heating unit was responsible.

Firemen remained on the scene until about 3:30 a.m. Then at 4:35 a.m., they were summoned to the scene again and this time found the entire house involved in flame.

Carola said that he believed it was a case of rekindling of the original fire, however the arson K-9 (dog) unit was called in Friday afternoon to assist with the investigation. The incident is said

Mary Shaffer and two of her four children, Russell, 21, and Jamie, 4, were at home when the fire began in the living room of the house. They fled and escaped injury.

Deer Park and Oakland firemen received the alarm at 11:37 a.m. and, upon their arrival, saw smoke coming from most of the windows in the house and flames from the living room area. It took about 45 minutes to bring the fire under control and damage was estimated at $35,000, according to Carola

Sen. Bambacus Files Drug-Free School Zone Bill

It was announced this week that District I Senator John N. Bambacus (R-Garrett and Allegany) is a primary sponsor of a drug free school zone bill, Senate Bill Four, which proposes to expand the drugfree school zones to include institutions of higher education. The legislation would make persons who manufacture, dispense, distribute, or possess with intent to distribute specified controlled dangerous substances, guilty of a felony if the activities take place within one thousand feet of a college or university. The legislation proposes to control some of the illegal drug distribution that takes place around institutions of higher learning.

The proposed legislation is modeled after Senate Bill 289 of the 1989 Maryland legislative session. Under Senate Bill 289. it is a felony to distribute a controlled dangerous substance on or within one thousand feet of property used for elementary or secondary education. "Illegal drug distributors must face stiffer penalties if the distribution takes place on property used for educational purposes," according to Senator Bambacus, a professor of political science at Frostburg State University. "The distribution of drugs on our college campuses is a national problem equal to that in our high schools and the penalties for committing such a crime should reflect the magnitude of this crisis," the Senator concluded. The bill has been assigned to the Judicial Proceedings Committee. Hearing dates have not, as of yet, been announced.

Victim's Rights Bills Introduced By Edwards, Et. Al.

District 1-A Delegate George C. Edwards (R-Garrett, Allegany) is currently co-sponsoring two victims' rights bills in the 1990 Maryland General

The bills, House Bills 160 and 198, propose the establishment of victim's rights in that "a victim of serious crime shall be entitled to the right to be informed of, to be present at, and to be heard at appropriate criminal justice proceedings." Del. Edwards noted, "The bills are basically designed to help keep the victim informed of what's happening in the case he or she is involved in.

HB 160 further states that the victim in these cases, "be treated with fairness, dignity, respect, courtesy and sensitivity." It also includes the stipulations that victims will receive crises intervention assistance when necessary, emergency medical treatment and any other social services and counseling services deemed necessary

Edwards has also co-sponsored a bill (House Bill 32) that seeks the abolishment of delegate and senatorial scholar-

Edwards explained that the money for these scholarships would be transferred to the General State Scholarship Fund from which the money would then be appropriated. He noted that the awarding of delegate and senatorial scholarships "sometimes looks political, even if it isn't," and that this bill would help alleviate any suspicious awarding of these #### Counterfeit Bill Being Investigated By Sheriff's Dept.

The Garrett County Sheriff's Department is conducting an investigation into the passing of a counterfeit bill that occurred last week.

Dominick Pisano, owner of Dominick's New York Style Pizzeria, discovered a counterfeit $50 bill that had been given to a Pizzeria employee January 24. The police are searching for the man who passed the phony money. He is described as a white male in his early thirties, having short brown hair, brown eyes, approximately 5'6", and weighing 160 pounds.

According to the investigating officer, Corporal L.E. Gnegy, the counterfeit bill is distinguishable from valid currency in texture. Also the printing on the phony money is not as sharp and detailed

The Garrett County Sheriff's Department has issued a warning, urging small businesses to use caution when specific recommendations to accepting large bills, and advising employees to check environmentally sensitive use with authorities if any doubts of forest products, including over the validity of a piece of

Peace Dividends . . .

With the historic political shake-up underway in Europe and Asia, coupled with new and better relations between the United States and the Soviet Union, a new term has emerged in recent weeks. The media and elected officials are speaking of a commodity known as peace dividends, which refers to the new funding possibilities for peaceful projects that will be generated as less funding is required for military purposes.

President Bush, in his State of the Union address last night, gave some specifics on reductions in military spending, such as a bargain with the Soviets to reduce our respective troop strength in Europe to 195,000 troops apiece. This will mean a reduction of 80,000 U.S. troops and of over 300,000 Soviet troops on that continent.

It will also mean a savings of 10 to 15 billion dollars over the next three years for the United States, monies that can be used, hopefully, for dealing with domestic issues, such as drug abuse, education, and environmental concerns.

It has been a long time since our nation has felt secure enough in its relations with the Soviet Union to begin to let down our guard a little bit and consider spending less rather than more on defense. On the one hand, it is a wonderful feeling to believe that a lasting peace and good relations can exist between these two super powers. However, experience and reality tell us to proceed into this new realm with caution.

We believe that the show of strength throughout the Reagan administration is one of the key factors that has brought about positive change in our relationship with Russia. We must make sure that we do not move from a position of strength to one of weakness by cutting back too far too fast. We must also make sure that the Soviets uphold their end of every compromise, especially since past history has shown that they have occasionally reneged on previous deals and treaties.

Secondly, we caution our own lawmakers (as if it will do any good) to not be too quick to spend, and in many cases, waste, these newly-found dollars. The "urge to splurge" will be great and, without care, we could find ourselves involved in new cost overruns, new unnecessary projects, and needless waste. Other elected officials will push for major tax cuts, which may be good in some respects, but could also result in loss of necessary services. Also, the overall impact on our economy could be negative rather than positive, depending upon how we

Peace dividends — it has a nice ring to it. But the present generation has never had such a luxury. Let's hope we don't blow it.

To the Editor:

This is in reply to your editorial about education published on January 18, 1990.

It never ceases to amaze me that people continue to look to the government to solve their problems. Federal, state, and local governments have essentially been the only players in the education business for years. Although they've thrown legislation and money at the problem for all those years, test scores, dropout rates and other measures of educational progress have only gotten worse. I believe the vast majority of kids don't do poorly or dropout of school because they aren't smart. It's because their educational needs aren't being met by the system. Personally I don't think more of the same tired fixes, as you suggest, will make the situation any better. As I see it there are a couple basic problems with public education. First, our options and choices as consumers are very limited. If I'm dissatisfied with school - tough. There isn't another education around the corner I can buy. In the real world if Arby's doesn't give me satisfaction then McDonald's will glady provide me with an alternative. Secondly, when I spend good money for an education I don't necessarily get a good education. In the real

Do you think a local school district will give a money back guarantee to the parents of a high school dropout? Why should we expect less from government? Schools don't need more help, they need more competition. If you want to see educational

The Mind Wanders by Sherry Frantz

Those were the good ol' days. Mark my words. The days when we could consume as much as our waistlines would permit, anytime, anywhere, with anyone. The days when tons of paper, plastic and all kinds of metal were tossed into the earth with such hedonistic abandon it was likened, later, to "a throwaway orgy."

Our treasures, now, were trash, then. Our streamlined, efficient lives were supported by manufacturers who packaged everything we consumed with mounds of time and energy-saving paper or plastic or foam. We had convenience.

Remember? We had trees then, too. And most of an ozone layer. Remember?

We were so cute strutting around in our self-indulgence and lack of responsibilty for our earth-house. We had all but forgotten how to take care of ourselves. I guess we were so busy primping that we thought the government was taking care of it. But, of course, the government was taking care of big business, supporting their habit of making money so big business could support our habit of having everything at our fingertips.

Oh yeah, and remember our extensive wardrobe of leotards and sweat suits that we donned frequently so we could feel healthier and look better? That was the really funny one, wasn't it? We actually paid for the privilege of "working out" because the rest of our lives were so sedentary. We sat on our rumps all day long and pushed convenience buttons and worked gadgets that used less of our energy and more of the environment's. Yes. we paid to get our bodies the exercise they craved. And paid, and paid, and paid.

Then, when we began to realize the ozone layer was a tad unpredictable, we spent more money on sunscreens. (Not realizing, of course, that the containers of those sunscreens were discarded into the earth, never to decompose, and that the ment issued by the Garrett companies we paid to manufacture the stuff were part of the County Circuit Court. Deputy conglomerate of factories that killed the ozone layer in the first place!) Whitacre was later released on

The Community Action Agency was the sub-recipient for the funds received for the homeownership project. The agency purchased the property, subdivided it, and installed the infrastructure (i.e., roads, water and sewer system, utilities). In addition, staff persons at Community Action are assisting persons in packaging financing through a variety of state and federal programs to purchase the lot and build a home. At the present, there are four homes in the subdivision, known as Woodridge Park.

Last fall, Garrett County received funding for two additional projects: the replacement of the water tank and improvements to the water system in the Community of Crellin and the renovation of the old Center Street School as a multi-service

Applications will be accepted from February 24 through March 30. Task force personnel will be available at the following locations and dates to answer questions about the program and assist in the application process: Garrett County Extension Office, 202 South Third Street, Oakland, Saturday, February 24, 9 a.m. until 1 p.m.; Monday through Friday, February 26 - March 30, 8:30 a.m. until 4:30 p.m.; Friendsville Town Hall, 313 Chestnut Street, February 26, 2-7 p.m.; Grantsville Fire Hall, February 27, 2-7 p.m.; Bloomington Elementary School cafeteria, February 28, 2-7 p.m.; Garrett Community College, hallway in front of the auditorium, March 3, 9 a.m. until 1 p.m.

Because county funding is not available to cost-share all of the possible eligible acres in the county, applications will be accepted on a "first-come, firstserved" basis. Also because funds are limited, individual landowners cannot be notified about the program. Instead the task force is relying on media news articles and advertising and "word-of-mouth" to inform those interested. Anyone who knows of a property owner who may be interested, especially one who is a non-resident, is asked to share this information with that person.

Any questions about the spray program or the application process should be directed to Cheryl Fearer or Jim Simms at the Garrett County Extension Office, 334-1988.

Groundhog Day (Candlemas)

by William L. Wylie

It may come as a great surprise to many people, that Groundhog Day, as we know it, has evolved from a religious holiday. Let us explore this.

As most of us are aware, the actual date of Christ's birth is unknown, various Christian beliefs, of old, having celebrated it from spring through summer, into early fall and winter. In 534 A.D., these various religions got together and established December 25 as the date to celebrate the Feast of Christmas. According to the Jewish ritual (described in the second chapter of Luke), 40 days after the birth of Christ, Mary presented herself to the Temple for purification. "Candlemas is so called because on this day, since early Christian times, all the candles and tapers to be used in the church during the year were consecrated. Lighted candles were distributed and carried in procession through the church by the clergy and laity, accompanied by organ and choir music, therefore 'candle-mass,' one of the most beautiful of early church ceremonies. 'The solemn procession represents the entry of Christ, who is the light of the world, into the Temple of Jerusalem.' The day also commemorates the Purification of the

Going back, 40 days after December 25, is February 2, now known as Groundhog Day (in this country). The early people, before the advent of modern technology, were very observant of their surroundings, and passed this knowledge or observations, on from generation to generation by word of mouth, most assumed to be illiterate in those days. Over the years, they observed, "If Candlemas be fair and clear, there'll be two winters in this year," or, "On February second day, have half your corn and half your hay," or, from an English translation from the German, "The shepherd would rather see the wolf enter his stable on Candlemas Day than the sun."

Then later on, we don't know how much later, they observed that the badger (European, of course) came out of hibernation on (or about) Candlemas Day. If he saw his shadow, it scared him, and he re-entered his burrow for another six weeks or so. If, on the other hand, the day was overcast, and no shadow visible, the badger was convinced that winter was over-

So, as the celebration of Candlemas waned (and few religions observe it today to my knowledge) they continued to observe the badger. It is certainly easy to see how the legend was transferred to the groundhog or woodchuck by the early Germans (Amish and Mennonites) settling the New World. We did not have the badger, as they knew it, and the "chuck" was the only hibernator available, and seemed to follow the well-known pattern of the badger (photo-period). In reality, from the standpoint of the wildlife biologist (me, and others), the appearance of the groundhog at that time of the year is a sex response. Males and females apparently hibernate in separate burrows, and at this time of year, the male emerges, seeks out the female's burrow, and mating takes place. With a

The Trashing Of America: Saving The Earth Through Recycling

by Sherry Frantz

Michele Collins, Sandra Cusack and Gloria Salazar, contributors

Earth Day, 1970. It was at the height of the environmental movement when recycling was the "in" thing to do.

Stepping a bit further back into history, recycling boomed during World War II as Americans saved tin cans, paper and other materials for the war effort.

Now, in 1990, another war is being waged - a war to change the wasteful habits of American life and, in the process, save the earth from becoming saturated with nothing but garbage. That garbage is composed significantly of materials that never decompose and hazardous, toxic substances that become part of the air above and the ground below

More than half the cities in America will exhaust their current landfills sometime this year and thousands have already been closed because of pollution problems. (According to the environmental organization, Greenpeace, landfills are closing at the rate of 10 per

The ever-increasing problem of solid waste in this country reflects a trend in lifestyles that emphasizes convenience and consumption. In fact, since 1960, the waste generated by packaging has increased more than 200 percent - a fact other industrial countries are not experiencing. Per person, these other industrial counties produce half as much trash as plastics, paper and metal Americans and recycle a large portion of it.

In numbers, Americans generate approximately 160 million according to the Environmental Protection Agency. Broken down further, this means that every man, woman and child generates about four pounds of garbage per day.

Each county in Maryland is now under a state mandate to recycle at least 15 percent of its solid waste by the year 1994. Garrett County was one of the first five counties in the state to submit a draft plan on recycling, and the effort to recycle has received tremendous support from the Garrett County League of Women Voters who have already conducted a public informational meeting on the effort. The group is now in the process of organizing a committee to get a country-wide program under-

Already, efforts by the group have vielded local businesses that are available to help with the recycling program by accepting (and, in some cases, picking up) certain items.

Recycling is certainly the single most effective method of generated, and the most successful community recycling programs are those designed to encourage widespread participation by local Community programs, ideally, provide place. curbside collection of recyclable materials and require wastes

Curbside collection in Garrett County, of course, is only possible in the municipal areas, tons of solid waste each year, and since a large number of residents are rural, it is more feasible that those individuals carry away their own garbage (a practice they are certainly accustomed to).

Until a more formal effort is organized, at least one site has been established for the dropoff of newspapers, glass (separated by color) and cans. This site is the office of the Garrett County League of Women Voters, 223 E. Alder Street. Oakland.

Although recycling effectively reduces the solid waste stream in the case of glass, metal and paper materials, plastic is one extensively used material that, as yet, cannot be easily recycled. Not only does the recycling process of plastic lead to toxic gases being emitted into the atmosphere, but most plastic containers are also constructed using more than one different kind of plastic material which makes the breakdown process more complicated.

Since plastic packaging makes up 30 percent by weight reducing the amount of trash and 50 percent by volume of all the trash found in landfills, one of the most desirable options for reducing the amount of trash generated (especially in the case of plastics) is to reduce the amount generated in the first

But, until there is a national effort backing new laws and regulations to discourage their excessive use of materials, waste reduction is unlikely to make a serious dent in the amount of waste generated. Producers and manufacturers of plastics may have to realize a substantial direct savings to alter their products.

According to a recent United Feature Syndicate, Inc. article by Jack Anderson and Dale Van Atta, "The plastics industry is

WHAT A DUMP! And there's plenty more where this came from. The question is, "Where is it going?" Landfills are closing at a rate of 10 per year, according to the environmentalist group, Greenpeace. They are filling up faster than one can imagine, not only with paper, cans and plastics. but with toxic materials and materials that never break down. An effort to recycle solid waste is now underway (in the preliminary stage) in Garrett County as well as all over America. According to statistics, only 11 percent of America's garbage is now being recycled. That means that 89 percent is being placed in a landfill or incinerated. It's time to recycle gearing up for a multi-million dollar propaganda campaign to convince Americans that plastic containers are environmentally benign." The article states that a $150 million campaign in order to reverse the negative attitudes toward plastics has been proposed by the Society of the Plastics Industry.

"That $150 million could go a long way in researching alternatives to plastics or recycling," cautioned Anderson and Van Atta.

Legislation, on both the state and national level, is attempting to further the recycling movement. It is, however, also up to the individual to make sure any proposed legislation does, in fact, pass and that lawmakers are not just paying lip service to the effort.

On the national front, President Bush is moving to make the Environmental Protection Agency a cabinet department, 'giving the agency the status it has deserved since it was created two decades ago," according to a recent article in the Baltimore Sun.

Bush has stated, "The environmental challenges that face America and the world are so important that they must be addressed from the highest level of our government." In the interim, individual efforts to consume less and recycle more are imperative. Following is a list of simple, common sense tasks that range from easy to difficult that the individual can start employing immediately into everyday life.

When purchasing only one or two items, simply reject the paper bag and opt to carry it out of the store as is.

Try to find sources for and choose products that are made from recycled material.

Utilize your own in-house paper recycling program by using more scrap paper and recycling newspapers (an excellent additive to compost piles). It takes an entire forest - over 500,000 trees - to supply Americans with their Sunday newspapers every week. according to 50 Simple Things You Can Do To Save The Earth by The Earth Works Group. Americans use 50 million tons of paper annually, which means we consume more than 850 million trees. Making new paper from old paper uses 30 to 55 percent less energy than making paper from trees and reduces air pollution by 95 percent.

Recycle glass. Each year we discard 28 billion glass bottles and jars, and glass produced from recycled glass instead of raw material reduces air pollution by 20 percent and water pollution by 50 percent.

Recycle aluminum cans. In 1988, aluminum can recycling saved more than 11 billion kilowatt hours of electricity. The public should also be aware that if an aluminum can is thrown out of a car window, it will still be littering the earth up to 500 years later.

Use cloth diapers. Disposable diapers can take up to 500 years to decompose in a landfill whereas cotton diapers can be reused up to 100 times and take only one to six months to decompose. Americans reportedly discard 18 billion disposable diapers a year.

Compost yard and kitchen wastes, Garrett County's rural nature makes this a particularly attractive and feasible option.

"Food For Thought" Helps Area Schools Obtain Computers

Several Garrett County Schools have received "free" computers and software as part of Foodland's Food for Thought

Browning's Foodland, Oakland, has played a large role in the program

We are proud to be a part of assisting the local schools in their effort to best prepare their students for the demands of the complex computerized world," said Rick DiSimone, manager of Browning's Foodland.

The Food for Thought program is being conducted for the 1989-90 school year. Register tapes dated September 1, 1989, through June 1, 1990, may be turned into schools. After each school receives a certain amount of register tapes and turns them into a participating Foodland, the school will receive an I.B.M.

"Managing Your Employees II" Slated At GCC

"Managing Your Employees II," a mini-course designed especially for supervisors and managers of area businesses, is scheduled to begin February 13, at Garrett Community College.

This class will acquaint supervisors or managers with motivational and management techniques essential to maintaining productive workers. It will include: an examination of basic motivators, understanding the dynamics of effective management and developing management skills in a practical "hands-on" manner.

It will be held on three consecutive Tuesdays, from February 13 through February 27, from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. at the McHenry campus.

Students may participate in this class without having taken the class "Managing Your Employees I." This class is part of a series of GCC spring classes planned to offer practical learning experiences which can immediately be "put to work" in business. It is co-sponsored by the Continuing Education Division of GCC, the Small Business Administration, and the Western Maryland Small Business Develop-wanted persons.

'We know the program will be successful," Traglia said. "Other states using this program have been able to locate absentee parents and get them to pay the money that is owed.

"Besides helping locate these parents, the program will encourage other obligors to pay their past due child support to avoid appearing on a future Ten

Most Wanted list," he said. In addition to the Ten Most Wanted Program, CESA has implemented a wage lien program against federal employees who are delinquent in their child support payments. CESA's master file and federal employee files covering the Department of Defense, U.S. Postal employees and Office of Personnel Management are being matched.

Out of the first group of names from the Department of Defense's civilian and military employees, 244 were referred for allotment/wage lien actions and 573 for detailed investigation for possible action.

State Program Helps Employers Hire Disabled Individuals

Governor William Donald pont Corporation, which was Schaefer has announced a new oriented toward the manustate-sponsored program that facturing industry encourages corporations to hire qualified disabled individuals. Maryland Corporate Partnership, Inc. (MCP), provides businesses with a central data bank of qualified disabled employees as well as information on suitable training programs tailored to a company's individual needs.

"One phone call can put Maryland companies in touch with an untapped workforce that is competent and reliable," the governor said.

Since it began last spring as a pilot program, MCP's preliminary campaign has resulted in the placement of more than 100 disabled people in jobs throughout the state

'There are many incentives for businesses to hire qualified capable individuals who are disabled, and smart companies will take advantage of them,' said the governor. Among these incentives are Targeted Jobs Tax Credits of up to $2,400, tax write-offs of up to $35,000 for environmental adaptations related to handicapped accessibility, up to 50 percent reimbursement for training, free tools and specialized equipment and hiring assistance.

MCP director James M. Heller said that close cooperation between "corporate partners and agency partners" is essential to the success of the hiring program. "MCP is a winwin idea that works," said

"A corporate partner is any Maryland business interested in hiring qualified disabled individuals, and an agency partner is any private or public agency that provides training or placement services to disabled individuals or special services to corporations," said

There are currently 107 agencies registered in MCP's computerized data bank, together with 686 potential jobs for the qualified disabled, he ex-

The Mountain Top Crisis Pregnancy Center, currently housed in Mtn. Lake Park, recently noted its activities since opening last summer. The Center reports it has assisted over 40 women since its opening with services such as pregnancy testing, counseling, providing infant and maternity clothes, baby furniture, and acting as referral service. All of the services rendered by the Center are free of charge.

Warm pajamas, shoes, and other clothing, plus a doll for Christmas, was supplied to one local 11-month-old child.

The volunteers hosted a luncheon this month for area ministers, who were given a tour of the facility and told how the center can help them help their parishioners. The CPC is operated by volunteers and managed by a volunteer board of directors. More volunteers are needed and a training class for new volunteers is slated to begin in mid-February. Interested persons may call 334-1058 for more information.

DISGUST AND DISBELIEF were on the faces of Garrett Community College Laker fans last night in McHenry as a long, desperation shot by Allegany Community College Trojan Corey Wallace went through the hoop at the buzzer, giving the Trojans a 73-71 win over the Lakers. Garrett had several opportunities to win the contest in the final moments, but could not connect on some critical foul shooting. The Lakers will get another shot at the nationally-ranked Trojans next Wednesday night, but the game will be at Trojan Square Garden in Cumberland, an extremely difficult place for visitors to win

Missed Free Throws, Lucky Shot Result In Laker Loss To Trojans

lege Lakers had a number of opportunities in the final moments last night to knock off their nationally-ranked arch rival, Allegany Community College, but missed foul shots and a long desperation shot of luck at the buzzer by ACC's Corey Wallace erased the Lakers' chances for an upset.

The packed house in McHenry saw the Lakers go head-to-head with the bigger, more experienced Trojans, never letting them take charge of the contest. The Lakers took a 4-0 lead in the early going on jumpers by Chuckie Moore before ACC came back for five straight points on a dunk and a free throw by Antoine Jones and ing, Wallace nailed a threethree-point shots by Bruce Boldley and a free throw by Moore to make it 11-5.

Garrett held the lead until Shawn Clifton knotted the score at 21 with a three-pointer at the 6:23 mark. The lead changed hands again before ACC recorded nine unanswered points to take a 33-28 advantage with one minute left in the half. Boldley and Moore each made good on a pair of foul shots to narrow the ACC lead to 33-32 by halftime.

The Trojans came back onto the court after intermission with momentum on their side, as they moved out to a 45-38 advantage, but the Lakers fought back and took a 59-58 lead on a three-point play by Moore at the 6:25 mark. Garrett had fivepoint leads at the 3:51 mark. 66-61, and again at the 2:39 mark, 68-63.

Then the Lakers' foul shooting, which had been strong throughout most of the game, fell apart. Boldley went to the line for a one-and-one at the 2:27 mark and the 2:00 mark, only to miss on both opportunities. Moore sunk a pair of free tosses with 1:30 remaining to give the

Harmke's two foul shots with three seconds on the clock put the game on ice for T-N-T. #### Offers Financial Training Sessions

The Garrett County Cooperative Extension Service is offering a financial counseling program for volunteers interested in providing financial assistance training to homemakers, according to Irmgard R. Koscielniak, extension agent.

makers are now faced with many more concerns than just cooking and sewing and that managing a family income is one problem that needs addressing. She noted, "Since the 1970's, income has not kept pace with rising costs. Families, especially one-parent families, increasingly have a difficult time making ends meet. Even two-paycheck families must watch their

A record number of bald eagles are wintering in Maryland this year, according to the results of the annual mid-winter hald eagle survey released this week by the Department of two hours per week. Natural Resources' Forest,

Park and Wildlife Services The mid-winter survey is part a nationwide effort to population of the United States. The survey is a cooperative effort between the National Wildlife Federation, the US Fish and Wildlife Service and state conservation agencies throughout the county.

Maryland has cooperated in the survey since its inception in 1979. Glenn Therres, FPWS nongame and urban wildlife supervisor, coordinates Maryland's participation. In announcing the results of this year's survey, Therres said, The 1990 count is by far the largest for Maryland in the 12-year history of the survey." Mid-winter survey counts are made only in those areas of a state where major eagle concentrations occur; no attempt is made to survey an entire state. Survey teams making the counts follow standard procedures, specific for each

Areas surveyed in Maryland were the Aberdeen Proving Grounds, the Susquehanna River below the Conowingo Dam and the Blackwater National Wildlife Refuge. Army personnel from Aberdeen using helicopters cooperated in the survey of the Proving Grounds and the Susquehanna River. Fish and Wildlife Service and FPWS biologists conducted the Blackwater survey from the ground, at sites located throughout the refuge. Observers counted 187 bald eagles at Aberdeen including 111 adults and 67 immature eagles. In the Susquehanna River area, two adult and two immature bald eagles were seen. The count at Blackwater NWR was 32 adult and 31 immature bald eagles and one immature golden eagle. The 264 eagles observed in Maryland during this year's survey is nearly twice the number recorded here last year. "Our count is high this year for two reasons," Therres explained. "There is an increase nationwide in the eagle population and severe winter conditions have driven many eagles from the north into the Chesapeake Bay area so we are seeing migrants as well as resident eagles." The eagle survey is one of a number of on-going nongame and urban wildlife projects sponsored by the Maryland Department of Natural Resources. "Our mid-winter survey is a good example of an activity worthy of support through Maryland's tax check off," Therres noted.

How are your plans for the new year coming? Mid-winter is often a time for dreaming and planning, a time for nostalgia the good old days revived.

Do you remember when your club was formed?

Extension Homemakers Council in Garrett County was established in 1927 but the first club has been meeting since 1916. It was the Grantsville Homemakers Club, formerly known as the Ladies Sewing Club and it had an amazing 23 members. They met weekly to sew and knit for soldiers. In 1917 the club reorganized as the Grantsville Community Club and in 1948 became the Grantsville Homemakers Club. Their goal was to mow the cemetery twice a year and improve it in other ways. Bake sales, card parties and teas raised enough money to purchase additional land for the cemetery and adopt "a Belgium family," sending them a CARE package.

The similarity of what Homemakers Clubs are involved in now strikes me as interesting. Communities and families have always been of utmost importance, that has not changed. What is different though is that much of the control has been taken from adults in families, impact of the outside world is affecting all of us, and the predominantly agricultural area is changing to accommodate

It is worth some thought how we can make the best of the changes affecting us and our families

The Garrett County Extension Homemakers' next board meeting is planned for: Tuesday, February 6, from 12:30-2:30 p.m., at Garrett Community College, Continued Ed. Center, Room 307.

Please send representatives from your club if you are unable to attend. Almost a whole program year is ahead of us and decisions made at the board meeting will affect all of us. If you have a problem, a solution, or a new idea, this meeting is the time to share it.

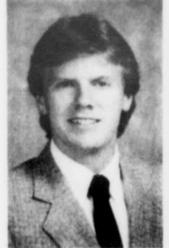

All of the Maryland Cooperative Extension Service's programs are open to all citizens without regard to race, color, sex, handicap, religion, age or national origin.

FIRST IN A SERIES—

A good beginning is an appetizer that shakes hands with the dinner, neither duplicating it nor displacing it, but acting as a graceful introduction. Serve a light, delicate appetizer before a heavy meal and a hearty appetizer before a light meal. Except where appetizers must stand alone, as at a cocktail party, with no dinner to follow, plan them to tease the appetite, not drown it.

rerican Heart

Most of the following recipes can be made well in advance, particularly the dip sauces, which should be chilled before serving. Of course, you would not plan to use the same sauce twice in a single meal. A well-planned appetizer sends the guest to the dinner table with high expectations.

The following recipes were taken from the fourth edition of The American Heart Association Cookbook

The weather is cold. The chocolate is hot. In the living room, the fireplace pops and crackles while snow falls silently against steamed windowpanes. Oh, how wonderful to be in our cozy home, laughing at the cold, daring it to enter our warm haven.

Most of us are fortunate. We have shelter and food. We snuggle up close to those we love. One flick of the thermostat creates our chosen environment.

Everyone is not so fortunate. Some huddle over sidewalk grates for temporary warmth. Others beg on street corners for enough change to buy a hot cup of coffee or a frugal meal. We may view them with disdain, assuming that they do not care enough to better themselves.

God tells us not to judge, but to love even "the least of these....

Enter God's house this week. Thank Him for His blessings and pray for those less fortunate.

SOME SAID IT THUNDERED! February 4, 1990

Background Scripture: John 12 Devotional Reading: John 12 44-50

This is one of the most dramatic moments in John's Gospel: Christ praying, "Father, glorify thy name," and a heavenly voice replying, "I have glorified it and I will glorify it again" (John 12: 28). How ironic, that, although there were many people present on that occasion, all of whom heard something, some got the message, while others did not. Some heard the heavenly voice and said, "An angel has spoken to him," while others said simply that "it had thundered."

EYE OF THE BEHOLDER This brings to mind some of the accounts that I have read of the third and final great vision on October 13, 1917 at Fatima in Portugal. Seventy-thousand people were present that day and thousands heard the heavenly voice and saw the celestial manifestations, but thousands of others did not. Even more ironic is the fact that some of those who "saw" and "heard" were those who came to Fatima to scoff, while some of those who did not "see" and "hear" were those who came with the expectation of something miraculous.

Was the sound that people heard in John 12 really the voice of God, or was it "only thunder"

It has to be one or the other. doesn't it? No, not really, I submit to you that it can be both, that to some degree that which a person sees and hears is dependent upon his or her perception and reception. I don't mean to imply that the difference between the voice of God and the sound of thunder is just that and no more, but I do believe that it is at least one of the factors that helps to make that difference If "Beauty is in the eye of the beholder, much of faith is also. On that day in John 12 I'm sure there was both thunder and the voice of God and the receptivity of the people helped to determine which of these the people would hear BEYOND THE CONSCIOUS But what about the skeptics who "heard" and the faithful who didn't? A series of experiments by Dr. David C. McClelland of Harvard University involved showing a film about Mother Teresa to groups of students When questioned afterwards, the students were split roughly 50-50 in their reponse, half with positive responses and half with negative ones. But, when each person in the study was tested for salivary immunoglobulin Aone of the body's primary de fenses against the cold virus-Dr. McClelland found that some who said they did not like Mother Teresa nevertheless had a posi tive unconscious physiological response. Dr. McClelland says: 'At the conscious level, a person may not believe at all, but at the unconscious level, something in the person may still respond (positively)... There is more to faith than the ideas and words that we offer up from our conscious minds. Deep down in our spirits there are elements of faith and disbelief that make the difference between hearing the sound of thunder or the voice of God.

Performers salute Sammy Davis Jr.

Stars drop plans to honor legend By Mary Ann Townsend

All three networks start off the first official week of the February sweeps period with some dynamic programming. But ABC's Sunday night special is, perhaps, the most spectacular. At least more than two dozen stars seem to think so. They gave other plans to participate That special, airing Sunday. Feb. 4. pays tribute to an American legend. Sammy Davis Jr.'s 60th Anniversary Celebration features some of the biggest names in entertainment, politics and sports. Eddie Murphy hosts the special, which is also a fund-raiser for the United Negro College Fund. Many other luminaries who have worked with Davis through the years dropped other plans to participate in the variety special. Frank Sinatra, with whom Davis worked in Vegas for many years canceled an appearance in San Francisco, Scat Queen Ella Fitzgerald canceled a tour, tap dancer Gregory Hines postponed a date in Tokyo, Goldie Hawn flew to L.A. from Israel especially for the event, and many others altered their plans

One performer, who said he felt a little out of his league with the likes of Michael Jackson, Bob Hope, Bill Cosby, Clint Eastwood. Gregory Peck and even George Bush and the Rev. Jesse Jackson, was Tony Danza, star of ABC's Who's the Boss? Danza hired his own choreographer and rehearsed a special tap dance for two weeks before the show in honor of Davis. He didn't feel out of place for long, though. "It's incredible when you're around this town and you happen to run into Sammy Davis, and he treats you like you're Sammy Davis. You know, like you're back." a big star like him, you know?

The special was produced by George Schlatter, who has worked with Davis for 38 years. Schlatter said the

He said the energy from all of the big name stars backstage was as thrilling as the performances on stage. "All of that love, all of that relationship came together performers acted out of backstage. And it was like a mean, we were all just sort of mind blow. It was like we in awe of each other. kept looking at each other and saying. 'Is this really > happening? Hawn, who like Danza reminisced about how important Davis made her feel early on in her career, agreed with Schlatter about the being there and spending time with so many people. I

"It was an old-fashioned love in," she concluded. "And there was so much energy and respect and talent and joy and giving in that room, in that space, that actually, you could watch Sammy get higher and energy backstage. "After higher and higher and higher.

"Congress commissioned the National Acid Precipitation Assessment Program in 1980, to study the acidity levels in rain and to determine the effect on nature," said PE President Elmer Kaelin. "Millions of dollars have been spent, yet Congress and the (Bush) administration aren't waiting for the study's final results."

An interim report of the National Acid Precipitation Assessment program suggests mandating costly acid rain controls is ill-advised and premature, because acid rain does not necessarily threaten the environment

> If acid rain legislation like the Bush administration's proposal is passed, Potomac Edison's electric rates will be at least 10 percent higher than normal between 1996 and 2017, Kaelin said. This increase could place marginally profitable businesses in jeopardy, and electricity-intensive industries presently in this region could decide to relocate, he said.

> The overall cost of the Bush administration proposal (H.R. bill 3030) to the Allegheny Power System, PE's parent company, would be about $1.8 billion or higher over 20 years.

> Already, Potomac Edison has spent $200 million since the early 1970s on environmental equipment at its coal-fired power stations, which is 12 percent of a customer's electric bill. Allegheny Power operates scrubbers at its Pleasants and

State Selective Service System Notes Milestone

Young men who will turn 26 in 1990 will be reaching an important milestone, according to the Selective Service System.

Beginning on January 1, 1990, men who were required to register with Selective Service in 1982 will be turning 26 and will no longer be eligible for induction should a draft be reinstituted. Selective Service does not have the authority to accept late registrations after a man reaches his 26th birthday.

Selective Service State Director Philip Sherman warned that with few exceptions, a man who fails to register before turning 26 will permanently forfeit his eligibility for certain benefits, such as federal student aid, job training and most federal employment, in addition to facing possible prosecution as a felon.

Some states also require registration for state student aid, entrance to state supported colleges and universaries, state employment and permission to practice law

Sherman points out that men age 18 through 25 who have not yet registered can avoid the risk of prosecution and loss of benefits by registering promptly at any local post office. Failure to register is a felony punished by a fine of up to $250,000, up to five years in prison or both.

Over 14 million men, age 18 through 25 are currently registered with Selective Service. Of those, 272,012 are from Maryland.

The voice is mute, and stilled the heart that loved us well and true, Ah, bitter was the trial to part from one so good as you. You are not forgotten, loved ones, nor will you ever be,

As long as life and memory last, we will remember thee. We miss you now, our hearts are sore, As time goes by, we miss you more. Your living smile, your gentle face, No one can fill your vacant place.

Second Year Of Check-Off Noted

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein and Secetary Torrey C. Brown, M.D., Department of Natural Resources (DNR), have released a summary of $504,000 of Chesapeake Bay and Endangered Species projects funded by Maryland's tax check-off program.

Comptroller Goldstein applauded Marylanders for the check-off's success in its first year, saying, "While tax checkoff funds enhance those funds previously allocated to Bay restoration and endangered species activities, they are especially important because they reflect the public's direct involvement in protecting our Bay and endangered species."

In releasing the summary of expenditures to date, which total $504,212, Secretary Brown said. "Because of the generosity and concern of our citizens for our natural resources, Maryland barn owls, falcons, and fox squirrels are getting safe new homes; students are learning about wildlife and hundreds of people have found financial support for local Chesapeake Bay restoration projects." Secretary Brown joined Comptroller Goldstein in encouraging Maryland taxpayers to continue to support the check-off on this year's tax

"In 1989, approximately 85,000 Marylanders contributed nearly $1 million to make all of these special projects possible," said Goldstein.

"With a stronger showing in 1990, the sky is the limit on the amount of good that can be done for Maryland's endangered species and the Chesapeake Bay," said Secretary Brown.

DNR's Natural Heritage Program has currently planned 23 projects, totaling $187,600, ranging from research on endangered small mammals to restoring endangered spruce Come see why America's #1 bog habitat in Western rear-tine Tiller can make all

threatened animals.

The list of approved projects also included the announcement of 26 grant awards by the Chesapeake Bay Trust for a total of $145,112. The Trust supports citizen projects and educational activities that promote the restoration of the Chesapeake Bay. Projects announced include: a middle school water quality testing program involving all nine counties on the Eastern Shore, a stormwater management workshop for Baltimore residents, marsh grass plantings in Annapolis, and a community water quality program in Cecil County.

Vernon Strawser CAC Employee

Vernon "Bud" Strawser has been named as Employee of the Week for the Garrett Transportation Program of Community Action. Strawser has been employed as transportation driver for 10 years.

Linda Green, program director, expressed her appreciation for Strawser's tenure with the agency by stating, "Bud is a good employee. He has been with us since the beginning of the program. He has been faithful in his duties and there are several distinguishing highlights in regard to his work record. For example, he was selected by his peers as Driver The Mountain Fellowship of the Year for 1987. Also, Bud is dearly loved by the senior citizens. On more than one occasion I have received a card or letter of appreciation from senior groups that Bud has transported. They are quick to mention his pleasant disposition and his readiness to attend to the comfort and the safety of his clients. Bud has travelled approximately 420,000 miles for the program. His loyality and his service are appreciated." Strawser maintains current certification in CPR. He has received basic first aid training and is qualified in passenger assistance. Strawser commented that he enjoys working with the public. He also speaks fondly of the children that he transports for the Head Start Program.

According to one of his coworkers, "Bud is a seasoned driver, he has been here as long as the program, and he has been a part of the steady growth process. As the demands for transportation services have expanded, Bud has made himself available for whatever is needed. I am sure that he has been and will continue to be a great asset to community service."

House Building Is Interdisciplinary Project At Southern High School

by Shelly Cassidy, SHS Marketing Student

Southern High School vocational students have expanded the scope of their 1990 housing project. Students from the curriculum areas of building trades, drafting, and marketing are working together to complete various phases of the annual project. The house is currently under construction in the vocational area of the local high school and the anticipated sale date will be late May.

After four years in the drafting program, Jonnie Jo is considering her options of pur-

By actually working on a house, which is outside and full size, students have to learn to adapt to many situations which cannot be duplicated in the shop," Koon said. Building trades students are working on all stages of this project. Carpentry, both trical wiring, plumbing, dry wall, painting and carpeting are skill areas to be learned throughout the project. Students have also been responsible for estimating, bookkeeping, and seeing that the bills are paid on time. "I believe that this experience is as close to an

get in school," stated Koon. Koon has his students work like an actual construction crew. They work in all kinds of weather, from sunshine to rain and zero degree temperature. # THE DREAM OF HOME OWNERSHIP

For most American families, there is no more L cherished dream, or more substantial investment, than their home. Since 1928, First Federal Savings Bank of Western Maryland has played a major role in helping that dream come true for thousands of Western Maryland families. In fiscal year 1989 alone, First Federal made mortgage loans in excess of $35 million to more than 586 families.

Clearly, we recognize that owning a home requires much more than dreams. In fact, today's generation of first-time homebuyers faces obstacles their parents never imagined. That's why First Federal will continue to take the lead in providing imaginative and affordable mortgage programs to bring home ownership within reach. New programs under review include 3 and 5 year adjustable mortgages, and biweekly mortgages.

Our commitment, as it was 60 years ago, is to help make this most basic of American dreams a reality for our neighbors in Western Maryland.

Save with confidence.

Maryland Census Officials Step Up Promotion Effort

With fewer than nine weeks remaining before Census Day on April 1, state census officials have "shifted into high gear" with promotional efforts to alert Marylanders of the importance of being counted.

In the past several weeks, state census officials have distributed more than 324,000 pieces of promotional material, with the vast majority of that being sent out in just the past 10 days.

"One of the most important actions a Marylander can take in 1990 is to make sure they are counted in the census," said Ronald M. Kreitner, director of the Maryland Office of Planning, which is coordinating the national census in Maryland.

"For every person missed by the census the state loses $1,500 in federal assistance," he added.

In addition to the promotional materials, the state has also trained approximately 350 individuals from public and private organizations to serve as agency coordinators. The coordinators will in turn train an additional 3,700 Census Ambassadors.

Agencies coordinators will ensure that the promotional materials are properly displayed within their agency; i.e. brochures are sent to employees, posters are hung in able to answer census-related ciation questions starting on March 26.

PAYMENT IN CASH?

When you sell your home, how do you visualize being paid? Do you imagine your buyers reaching into their pockets and handing you the full sale price in cash? Imagine such a situation all you want, but reality will show you another picture entirely. Oh sure, some buyers do pay cash, but they represent a small share of all sales, maybe only 5%.

Most buyers come with financial requirements of all shapes and sizes. Some want to borrow a large part of the sales price from a lender and have cash available for the rest of the price. Others have little cash but high incomes and financial stability. Some have no cash, no credit experience, but good intentions and incomes. So what does all that have to do with you the sellers? The answer is

"everything". The real question is "how are you willing to be paid?" What terms are you prepared to offer? This may mean agreeing to finance the property entirely yourselves, carrying a small second mortgage for a short period, or just paying some loan fees so that the buyer can borrow from a local lender.

Here's the point. Be prepared to offer as wide a variety of terms and forms of financing as you are financially able to do. This makes your house affordable by the widest range of buyers, and should result in a faster, more rewarding selling experience for you.

If you're planning to sell your home soon and would like information on its current value, give us a call at 387-5303, or come by our office located at McHenry Plaza.

The United States Department of Agriculture recently issued its report on the 1987 Census of Agriculture. The following are some excerpts from the census. Those wishing a complete copy of the 1987 Census of Agriculture may request one from the Agriculture Division, Bureau of the Census, Room 436, Iverson Mall, Washington, D.C. 20233, ATTN: Agriculture Information

U.S. population in 1987 - approximately 243 million. 1967 U.S. rural population, as defined by open country and wns with populations less than 2500 beyond the suburban fringe

Farm population, U.S. 1987, - five million. (Only includes those who live and work on farms with gross sales of $1,000 or more per year. Does not include farm related service industry and bureacracy workers.)

The U.S. had 2,087,759 farms in 1987, a decline of seven percent from 1982

Farm population in the U.S. in 1983 - 2.37 million. Around 22.5 million people work in some phase of agriculture. Farming, itself, uses three million workers - as many as the combined work forces of transportation, the steel industry, and the automobile industry

In 1982 agriculture accounted for 20 percent of the total Gross National Product

One out of every five jobs in the private sector are agriculturally related.

In 1983, production from one third (118 million acres) of America's cropland went overseas. Farmers' 1983 purchases included:

12$9.8 billion for tractors, machinery and equipment.

14$15.8 billion for fuel, lubricants, and maintenance of machinery. (Farming used more fuel than any other single private industry.)

1/2$22.4 billion for feed and seed. 1/2$7.4 billion for fertilizer and lime. 1/2360 million pounds of rubber tires. 1/233 billion Kilowatt-hours of electricity.

1/26 1/2 million tons of steel. During the sometimes labeled "rural renaissance" of the 1970s, 4.5 million people fled the cities to earn a living in the

During the eighties the migration reversed with millions returning to urban centers. During 1986/87 nearly one million returned to the city

One third of the people moving back to the cities in 86/87 were 18 to 24 years of age. The net farm income for 1988 was up to a total of 57.7 billion dollars The net farm income for 1983 was 16.1 billion dollars.

Loan delinquencies reported by the Farm Credit System dropped two billion dollars to half the level of two years ago. Two thousand farmers filed Chapter 12 bankruptcies in 1988, and that was less than a third of the 1987 filings.

Farmers Asked To Report Operation Changes To ASCS

"Producers are urged not to delay reporting changes in their farm operations for the 1990 program year to our office," Michael R. Kozier, director of the Garrett County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, said.

To assure that farmers get full program benefits, Kozier said farm records must be current. Farmers are, therefore, asked to contact the county ASCS office if there has been a change in the land owned or operation, if a farm will have a new owner effective for 1990, or if a change is made in the operation of an existing farm unit.

"Requests to combine farms or divide a farm should be made as early as possible," said Kozier, "because reconstitutions require special processing as well as county committee approval."

ASCS began accepting applications for the 1990 feed grain and wheat acreage reduction programs on January 16. Farmers who participate in the programs will be eligible to receive price support loans and deficiency payments, if appli-

'We encourage producers to study the programs and consider the benefits in relation to their farm operations," the ASCS official said.

Extension Takes Hands-On Approach To Nutrient Management On Farms

Cooperative Extension Service to the environment. has pulled the gloves off and gotten its hands dirty in the fight against agricultural pollution. It is adding punch to its programs by providing personal services to Maryland's agricultural producers.

Since last April, 14 consultants have been hired throughout the state to develop "Nutrient Management Plans" for farmers. And, these consultants do get their hands dirty, collecting manure and soil samples and calibrating application equipment to make it easier for farmers to implement their plans.

Nutrient management plans are a detailed "prescription" approach to the use of fertilizers. Farmers get a crop nutrient recommendation to meet their yield goals and management guidelines to ensure that all of the nutrients applied

"With a nutrient management plan, you know the exact amount of nutrients your crop needs and exactly how to take advantage of your nutrient resources; whether they are manures, commercial fertilizer, sludge or some combination," said Mitch Woodward, nutrient management program coordinator in Maryland for the Cooperative

"We have found that farmers are able to reduce, on the average, the amount of nitrogen they apply by 38 pounds per acre, phosphorous by 46 pounds and potassium by 28 pounds," said Woodward. The nutrient management program is also saving producers money.

Extension Service.

"On the average, 20-30 percent of the money invested in growing a crop is spent on fertilizers," said Woodward. With a nutrient plan, we eliminated a lot of the guesswork, and so far, farmers participating in our program are saving an average of $25 per acre.

Since the project began in April, more than 198 plans covering a total of 8,035 acres have been completed and 231 plans are in the works. The Cooperative Extension Service

Fertilizer — Perception and Reality Fertilizer: The very mention of the word conjures up a host of images - most of them bearing little resemblance to reality. Despite fertilizer's role in advancing the Green Revolution and helping sustain the world's food supply, it is little understood as an essential component of crop production. Fertilizers could be best compared to vitamins. To support life, our bodies require certain nutrients. Likewise, growing planst must receive adequate levels of nutrition. That's why America's farmers rely on commercial fertilizers to maintain plant growth, replenish soil nutrients and ensure optimum yields. Science has verified the human body's need for nutrients, just as the need for commercial fertilizer has been documented through decades of soil science, agronomic research and proven results in the field. Chemically The Same: Mother Nature is the reliable supplier of modern fertilizers. Such nutrients are not chemicals invented in a laboratory, but are a part of nature's own chemical process. While the sources vary, the nutrients themselves remain 'chemically natural." In other words, nitrogen from commercial fertilizer is chemically the same as nitrogen from animal manure. One source is no more natural than the other, as they behave identically in nature. Despite all of this, however, commercial plant food is frequently confused with "synthetic chemicals" and is often blamed for problems associated with water quality concerns.

Farm Program Sign-Up Began January 16

"As of January 16 we began accepting applications for the 1990 farm programs," Kenneth Bachtel, chairman of the Garrett County ASC Committee. said. The U.S. Department of Agriculture is requiring acreage reductions of 5 percent for wheat and oats, and 10 percent for corn, sorghum and barley.

Farmers who meet the creage reduction requirements and comply with other program provisions will be eligible for price support loans and deficiency payments. "Producers may request 40 percent of the estimated total deficiency payments when they sign up for the 1990 programs,' Bachtel said. The payments will be issued in cash, and will be limited to the farmer's intended program acreage, he said. From January 16 to February 16, farmers may designate up to 25 percent of each program crop's permitted acreage to soybeans and not lose or gain acreage base on their farm, according to Bachtel. "No program benefits other than soybean price support loans will be available to farmers with respect to the 0-25 soybean programs." Wheat and feed grain producers may again choose to paticipate in the optional acreage diversion program known as 0/92, the same as in 1989, where they devote all or a portion of their permitted acres to conserving uses and receive deficiency payments on up to 92 percent of the crop's permitted

For additional details on these and other 1990 farm program provisions, farmers may contact the Garrett County ASCS Office. The 1990 acreage reduction program signup ends April 13, 1990.

Colorado Ranger Horse Regional Elects Officers

The Mountain State Regional of the Colorado Ranger Horse Association, Inc., held its annual meeting recently in Hodgesville, W.Va. Elected as 1990 officers and directors were: Don Swecker, Huttonsville, W.Va., president; Dr. Gary D. Bookout, Philippi, W.Va., vice president; Sherry Byrd, St. Marys, W.Va., secretary; and Leona Swecker, Hodgesville, W.Va., treasurer. New board members are: Rick Wentz, Buckhannon, W.Va.; Sherry Byrd, St. Marys, W.Va.; Linda Bookout, Buckhannon, W.Va.; Alice May Bookout, Philippi, W.Va.: and Martin Byrd, St. Marys, W.Va.

Mountain State Regional was incorporated in 1980 as a nonprofit organization under West Virginia code. It is affiliated with the Colorado Ranger Horse Association, Inc., of Fleming, Colorado, the national breed

In addition to Mountain State, CRHA has many regional associations throughout the country with members in almost every state. The Rangerbred breed dates back to 1878, when the Sultan Abdul Homid of Arabia presented two purebred stallions to General Ulysses S. Grant. One of the stallions was an Arabian with white spots named Leopard, and the other was a Barb by the name of Linden Tree. Today, these two stallions and two of their great grandsons, Max and Patches, are the foundation sires of the breed. To be eligible for registry in CRHA, a horse must have a pedigree tracing its ancestry all the way back to one or more of these foundation stallions. Often seen on farms in the tristate area, the Rangerbred is closely entwined with the Appalosa breed and often has white blankets and white spots. Its ease of training and overall disposition make it popular as a family horse.

Mountain State Regional provides clinics, trail rides, shows, participation in 4-H Club and other local open events and other activities of benefit to its members and breeders. In 1982, the regional hosted the national CRHA show at the Barbour County Fairgrounds near Philippi, W.Va., which was the first national show of a major horse registry ever held in West Virginia

Abrams Seeking Additional Funds For The Elderly

"We are seeing a continuation of the dramatic growth of the elderly in our population," Rosalie Abrams, director of the Maryland Office on Aging told the Senate Budget and Taxation Committee in Annapolis recently as she presented her agency's fiscal year 1991 budget. "In 1980 there were 576,000 persons aged 60 or over in Maryland, or one out of every eight persons. There are now 735,000 persons age 60 or older in Maryland, or about one out of every seven people. In the year 2000, there will be 834,000 persons age 60 or older, accounting for about one out of every six people," she said. "For those of us in the business of providing services, a more important statistic is the rapid growth of the very old population. In Maryland in the year 2000, there will be over 80,000 persons who will attain the age of 85. This group will have more than doubled in size in the 20 year period since 1980, when there were fewer than 33,000 persons in that age group. "People over 85 are three times more likely to have chronic illnesses and need assistance to continue living independently than the younger members of the elderly population. They are also much more likely to be without family assistance or adequate financial resources. It is the very old who will increasingly have to be the focus of government attention in the future. We must modify service delivery in a variety of areas - community based services, housing, and nutrition, to accommodate the changing needs of the elderly population," she said.

Currently, state funds, totaling slightly over $15 million, account for about half of the Office of Aging budget, with the remainder coming from federal funds. The Governor's budget request for the Office for the next fiscal year is for an additional $1,015,495 to cover increased costs of operating its programs due to inflation and population growth. *Senior Employment - to recruit, train, and place the older worker.

"Maryland, like the rest of our nation, faces the dilemma of increased need for services to a growing aging population at the same time of decreased federal dollars. We are seeking continued state support of those essential services that provide the quality of life that older people deserve, and that, to the fullest extent possible will enable them to continue to live independently without the need to be moved to nursing homes or other institutions," Abrams

Winterfest To Begin Feb. 23 At Wisp Resort

The 1990 Winterfest will kick off at the Wisp Ski Resort on Friday, Feb. 23, to begin 10 days of events such as races, fireworks, parades, parties, and more, according to Brad Howarth, chairman of the Winterfest Committee.

All proceeds from the festival will benefit numerous Garrett County non-profit programs, Howarth said, adding that the State of Maryland has awarded a grant to assist with the publicity and promotion of winter sporting events.

"Additional exposure will help Garrett County to be recognized as a winter playground to other Marylanders and out-of-state tourists who might not have ever been to the area," he said.

"The biggest winners are the non-profit programs that will receive additional revenue and exposure," he added.

Assisting the Wisp with Winterfest this year are members of the Garrett County Chapter of Habitat for Humanity, the Deep Creek Lions Club, Spruce Forest Artisan Village, World Championships, Inc., Creative Marketing Services, and many private citizens. "We could not put on a quality event of this magnitude if it were not for the assistance of so many volunteers," Howarth said.

For more information on the Winterfest activities, persons may telephone the Wisp Resort at 387-4911. A detailed schedule of events will appear in The Republican just prior to the festival.

NO, THINGS ARE NOT JUST DUCKY at the Wisp Ski Resort in McHenry, where the mountain crew is attempting to keep ski trails open despite the rain and unseasonably warm temperatures of recent weeks. Winter hit the mountaintop with fury throughout most of December, but has been practically non-existent since

New Year's. Temperatures are expected to be in the high 50s today, some 25 degrees above the average temperature for February 8. Nonetheless, skiing continues at the Wisp with the majority of trails still open and hopes for cooler, snowmaking temperatures this weekend.

According to John Forman, forest manager for Wood Products and vice president of MFA, "D&J's forest practice standards are excellent in every detail. Upon completion of a logging job, they grade all roads on site to provide permanent drainage and prevent erosion. They also stabilize landings and steep slopes with seed and mulch."

On a recent job for the state of Maryland at the Mt. Nebo Wildlife Management Area, D&J Logging left intact den trees or perches for the wild turkeys and shut down operations during the nesting season, according to local project forester, Ernie Safety is another key element in D&J's logging operation, Forman said. Hard hats, ear and eye protection, leather gloves and chainsaw chaps are worn by every man and D&J's crew regularly attends logging safety programs. ### Aurora Man Found Guilty Of Assault Charge

An Aurora, W.Va., man was found guilty of two counts of assault and one count of driving while intoxicated at a trial held last week in Garrett County Circuit Court.

Larry Gay Wilson, 27, pleaded guilty to both charges. After finding Wilson guilty, Chief Judge Fred A. Thayer ordered a pre-sentence investigation. He then revoked Wilson's bail.

Charges stemmed from a July 7, 1989, incident in Mountain Lake Park in which Wilson reportedly pointed a gun at Mary Jane Paugh and Frederick L. Paugh, while they were seated in a car, and threatened to shoot them. According to police reports, another man allegedly pulled Wilson's arm into the air and the gun, a sawed-off shot gun, went off above Wilson.

Wilson was apprehended a short time later by Deputy R.P. Shaffer, Garrett County Sheriff's Department.

Charges of assault with intent to murder, carrying a dangerous and deadly weapon, and driving under the influence of drugs or alcohol were not prosecuted.

Wilson was represented by James P. Donahue Jr.

In a separate case, Dennis Standiford Kellough, 35, Pasadena, was found guilty of driving while intoxicated.

Kellough pleaded guilty to the charge. Chief Judge Thayer then sentenced him to a $500 fine and placed an alcohol restriction on his license for one

Local Service Man Experiences The Reality Of War In Panama

by Sherry Frantz

'We love Uncle George!" That's what Sgt. David Troy Lundquist, 23 and a former Swanton resident, heard from the locals as he and fellow U.S. Air Force troop members walked down a main street in Panama City following the successful overthrow of the Noriega regime in December.

Notwithstanding the Panamanians' confusion between Uncle Sam and President George Bush, Troy was emphatic in his pronouncement, "It made it all worthwhile.

The worthwhile project he refers to is "Operation Just Cause," an effort by U.S. military services, the Drug Enforcement Administration and the Central Intelligence Agency to capture Panamanian leader, General Manuel

Noriega Troy's involvement began in September last year when he embarked on a tour of duty in Panama and was significantly intensified less than two months ago when the coup attempt was initiated. Troy's job was to work with the U.S. Army as a Forward Air Controller. "We basically instructed the airplane pilots on where to drop the bombs." he said. He was part of a four-man team whose job it was to decide the starting point and the best path for the airplanes. We were very co about avoiding the 'friendlies," "he noted, explaining this reference as any civilians in the country, including Panamanians. He added that their consideration for innocent lives did not seem to be shared by Noriega's police/fighting force who, he said, "harassed us quite a bit, pulling us over in jeeps for little things, following us in and out of stores." He noted that U.S. Army troops were forced to burn their own buildings (containing their personal possessions) in order to save the lives of innocent local citizens being shot at by the Panamanian forces.

During the military effort, Troy was part of a division that landed on the golf course at a Panamanian military base in order to clear the buildings of Panamanian soldiers. "We were very polite about it," he said, and relayed how the Panamanian troops were given every opportunity and lots of time to vacate the buildings before their mortar shell

As the "war" escalated in Panama, the U.S. troops stepped up their training effort but, according to Troy, "You can't be totally prepared for something like this even after a lot of training. One-way fire does not prepare you for twoway fire. When the actual invasion took place December 20, we had about gree hours warning, even yough we suspected what an happening couple of days tarlier when we were all give American flag decais to warran our right

The briefings became more intensified and they were put on alert but, as Troysays, they had been put on alert nany times before in the past couple of months so they weren't fully aware on December 20 that this was "the real thing" until just

A rabid skunk was killed last Wednesday, January 31, on the Finzel Road at the intersection of Sampson Rock Road, bringing the total of confirmed rabid animal cases to an unprecedented five just during

According to Rodney Glotfelty, assistant director, Garrett County Environmental Health Department, the skunk was killed by Clarence McKenzie (who had reportedly noticed the animal around his property for a number of weeks) when it finally climbed up a tree and dropped into a dog pen apparently in an attempt to get to the dogs inside.

Glotfelty stated that it unusual that the animal would have walked around for that period of time with the disease, since, he said, their experience has been that most animals would not last that long with He further emphasized that

Why Should We Pay? . . .

The cost of automobile insurance is of concern to most citizens, particularly those who have teenage drivers in the family and are thus having to pay huge sums of money annually in premiums. Out of the hundreds of bills now being considered by our state legislature there are several that attempt to address the problem.

One of them is Senate Bill 306 introduced by senators in the Baltimore area that is two-fold in its approach. The first "fold" we like, but the second one bothers us to the point that we hope the bill is rejected in its entirety.

The bill would require auto insurance rates to be determined on the basis of driving safety records, miles driven in the previous calendar year, years of driving experience, and "other relevant factors" that the state insurance commissioner adopts. That is the part of the bill that sounds good to us - sort of a merit system that rewards the safest, most experienced drivers and forces the less careful ones to foot the greater part of the bill.

The second part of the bill, however, calls for an end to the territorial rating system that is presently used. Right now those of us in the rural areas of the state pay lower premiums than Baltimore City drivers, for example. The reason for that is obvious there are far more drivers, and far more accidents, in the urban areas than in the rural areas. Also, statistics show that for every 100 property damage auto mishaps involving city policy-holders, there are 75 personal injury claims, while for every 100 mishaps involving rural drivers, there are only 40 personal injury claims. Thus, the cost of providing insurance in the city is much greater.

Senate Bill 306, however, would ignore that difference and remove the territorial rating. In effect, rural drivers would suddenly face much higher rates in order to subsidize the insurance for Baltimore City drivers.

A citizen group in Baltimore called F.A.I.R., organized to fight for lower insurance rates in the city, presented a petition with about 58,000 signatures this week to state insurance regulators calling for a ban on territorial rating. Obviously those signatures were quite easy to get from those folks who are paying top dollars for insurance. However, we bet several hundred thousand rural residents would sign a petition in support of territorial rating. Why should we rural folks have to pay for insurance for the drivers of Baltimore City?

There have to be better, more equitable ways of dealing with high insurance rates. Greater regulation of litigation cases would be a good place to start.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

This coming week will bring a day filled with hearts and flowers, love and remembrance and caring, but it will also be the week of National Salute to Hospitalized veterans.

Throughout our country in Veterans' hospitals and nursing homes there are thousands of men and women who gave their devotion and their love of ountry to make a free and peaceful place for all of us to live and enjoy.

Many of them have no families and their friends are too far away or unable to travel to visit them. It is up to you and me and all others who are able, to fill the void in their lives.

A kind word, a hug and a pat on the back, none of these things will put a strain on our budget, but they will put a warm smile on the face of an ill or elderly veteran and let them know that we care - all the time, even when no one's looking.

Thank you Hazel Meyers Member, Disabled American Veterans Aux.

To the Editor:

I would like to thank Dr. Kit Charbonneau of the Pineview Veterinary Hospital in Oakland. He is a thoughtful and understanding person to kids like me.

I am nine years old and am a Garrett County 4-H member. I had a pet ewe lamb that I had won through the 4-H program. On January 11, my ewe lamb became seriously ill from birthing difficulties. My parents could not find an available veterinary anywhere in the nearby area. They called Pineview and Kit came to check on the lamb

Kit explained to me step-bystep her condition and also showed me the problems she had so I could better understand the situation. I was brokenhearted to lose my dearly loved

At the time I was too sad to fully thank Kit for his kindness, now I realize that he is truly a magnificent person. Not many adults take time out for people my age and explain things to us in fear that we may not understand. This is not true Dr. Charbonneau has helped me become stronger and more determined to become a success in whatever I do: and for whatever life has to offer, I should always be prepared whether the outcome is good or

To the Editor: National Vocational Education Week is February 12 through the 16th. School systems throughout the nation will put forth an extra effort to acquaint students, parents, and the general public with course offerings and accomplishments of technical education.

The term vocational education is changing to technology education to indicate the expanded use of high technology in our educational programs. Consequently, we no longer can afford to speak in terms of either academic or vocational students

As part of Vocational education Week, the public is invited to visit vocational programs at Northern and Southern High Schools. Visitation arrangements can be made by checking with the office of each school. Sincerely.

J.K. Bittinger Vocational Supervisor

To the Editor: I am writing to thank the person or persons responsible for placing guardrails along a portion of roadway on the Accident-Bittinger Road near the community of Accident.

Last February 16, my fourvear-old son and I were involved in a severe accident at that particular location. My car hit ice spots on the roadway and I lost control. The car broke off two small trees and fell off an embankment 23 feet high into 14 feet of water, miraculously, my son and I escaped with minor injuries before the car completely submerged under the water. The water was caused by a backed-up culvert that had not been cleared. What a frightening thought that an embankment that high was not protected and that water could be backed up that far before anyone noticed, with daily travel by buses carrying children to school

A special thank-you to all fire departments that spent hours pumping water and volunteering time to retrieve my vehicle from the cold water. Your concern for my son and me cannot ever be totally rewarded.

I need to thank an elderly gentleman, Mr. Harry O'Brien and his wife, who spent hours days later trying to clear the water from the area - a job that was not the responsibility of his but yet a concern that someone else may experience the same near tragedy as my son and I had, thank you for going out of your way to correct that problem.

Also, I would like to thank all members of my husband's and my families for their support and understanding during this never be forgotten. Although it has been a year ago that this accident has occurred, it is a relief to know one else has not forgotten the danger that lurked there and found a way and time to have these guardrails installed, whether it came from a county or state level, that doesn't matter. Just thank you for your concern of all who travel that roadway.

To the Editor:

I am writing this letter for one reason - to ask the state, where is the justice in the justice system?" I was recently released from the Garrett County jail after serving a 90-day sentence of a year for simple possession of marijuana. While incarcerated, was witness to many things that really disturbed me. I saw two known sex of fenders get a slap on the wrist and then released, one who raped and had sexual intercourse with a 13-year-old girl. He was sentenced to 11 months and served 25 days in jail. Upon release he said he was going to Chicago to work, with the blessing of his probation officer.

Another man, who was incarcerated for a sex offense, I didn't get to talk to because he was in another section of the iail. Even though incarcerated, after 30 days he was released because the state failed to charge him. They had him in jail awaiting bail, but they failed to charge him and he went free.

These two men, known offenders, are now free to roam around and prey upon other unsuspecting teenage children. Now who is the real criminal? I committed a misdemeanor offense of possession of mariuana. These men committed felony counts and were slapped on the wrist. The only one I was hurting was myself. These men, on the other hand, have scared children for the rest of their lives and probably need ounseling for some time.

I have been court ordered to attend drug counseling for an undetermined amount of time. It depends on how I react to the counselor and counseling. My probation will be watched very closely. Who is going to watch a sex offender in Chicago and keep track of what he is doing?

Upon my release I now have no job, no money, and have signed up for welfare. I've received food stamps, may be eligible for a prescription card and may get help on my rent through Community Action because I'm about to be evicted from my house. This could have been avoided if I could have been given work release. But there is no work release for drug offenders.

There is work release for a guy who already tried to escape

Goldstein Says 150,000 Tax Returns Are In

"Most folks have received their W-2 statements by now are starting to work on their tax returns. That's one reason why we're offering extra hours of free Maryland income tax help this holiday weekend for their convenience," Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein

The Comptroller noted that his office has already received nearly 150,000 Maryland income tax returns and mailed out more than 45,000 state refund checks. The checks are averaging $241, about 8% more than at this time last year.

The comptroller said that, for the first time, taxpayers are being asked to write in their subdivision code on the front of their return. "You'll find the list of codes on page two of the tax packet instructions. Using the right code makes sure your subdivision receives its proper share of local income tax revenue and will speed up your refund check," he said.

He also pointed out that taxpayers 65 and over or blind are now eligible for an extra $1,000 personal exemption, in addition to the regular $1,100 personal exemption. "The amounts are different, so be careful when filling out the exemptions section on the front of your Maryland return," he added.

To help taxpayers working on their Maryland returns, all 15 Maryland income tax offices will offer extra hours of free state taxpayer assistance on the following dates: Saturday, February 10, 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.: and Monday, February 12, 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. (Lincoln's birth-

The comptroller reminded taxpayers that IRS offices will also remain open on February

State tax experts at all 15 locations will answer any questions, provide the necessary forms and even complete Maryland income tax returns free of charge. Taxpayers must bring a completed copy of their federal return and all W-2 statements to take advantage of this free service.

The addresses and telephone numbers of all Maryland income tax offices are listed on the back of the state packet and in most local telephone directories. The toll-free number for free state income tax assistance is 1-800-MD TAXES.

FRIENDSVILLE PARENTS HEAR FROM THE PRINCIPAL - Many telephone calls are being received by parents of children at Friendsville Elementary School, but they are the kind of calls that are welcomed. As part of a self-esteem program implemented at the school this year, students who receive an "I'm So Proud" button from a member of the faculty are sent immediately to the principal's office to sign a display board and then to call their parents so they can share in the good news. Gary Galloway, principal, then speaks to the parents to offer congratulations and encourage parents to continue in recognizing and praising "jobs well done" by their children.
